RAIL NEGOTIATIONS OFF

BROTHERHOODS MAKE STRIKE ORDER DEFINITE AS WILSON ASKS LAWS TO AVERT BREAK

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Wilson laid the threatened railway strike before congress today in an address to both houses assembled in joint session. He spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the congress: I have come to you to seek your assistance in dealing with a very grave situation which has arisen out of the demand of the employes of the railroads engaged in freight train service that they be granted an eight-hour working day, safeguarded by payment for an hour and a half of service for every hour of work beyond the eight.

"The matter has been agitated for more than a year. The public has been made familiar with the demands of the men and the arguments urged in favor of them and even more familiar with the objections of the railroads and their counter demand that certain privileges now enjoyed by their men and certain bases of payment worked out through many years of contest be reconsidered, especially in their relation to the adoption of an eight-hour day. The matter came, some three weeks ago, to a final issue, and resulted in a complete deadlock between the parties.

Legal Means Failed.

"The means provided by law for the mediation of the controversy failed and the means of arbitration for which the law provides were rejected. The representatives of the railway executives

Order for Strike to Start on Labor Day

Washington, Aug. 29.—Copies of the tentative strike order sent out by the rail brotherhoods, fixing Labor Day, Sept. 4, as the date for the strike, were made public here last night. The strike order is brief. It is addressed to all members of the four brotherhoods, is signed by the various general chairmen and reads as follows:

"Sirs and Brothers: This is to advise that the vote of the employes in train and engine service on the eight hour day and time and one-half overtime proposed, was overwhelmingly in favor of a strike.

"Notwithstanding this, your representatives have been unable to effect a satisfactory settlement and a strike under the laws of the respective organizations becomes effective on September 4, 1916, at 7 a. m.

"Impart this information so those interested will understand that they are to obey promptly."

Duties of Members.

On a separate sheet the duties of members and officers in the conduct of a strike are set forth. Particular emphasis is placed on conducting the proposed strike as peacefully as possible. Among the duties of members set forth are these:

"No man in road service involved in the strike will perform any service after the hour set to strike, unless he has already begun a trip and has actually left the terminal. If the train has left the terminal he will complete the trip and deliver the engine and train at the end of the run, or tie up point if tied up under the law, after which he will perform no further service until the close of the strike. Men in other than road service will leave the service at the appointed time.

"So far as your legal right to strike is concerned, there is no difference between a mail train and a freight train. You have identically the same right to refuse to perform service on a mail train as you have to refuse to perform service on a freight train.

"All men on strike will keep away from the company's property except such men as are designated certain duties to be performed by the authority of organizations.

"Every man should understand that the laws of the land must be obeyed. Acts of violence of any nature will not be tolerated by the organizations."

ESCAPED YOUTH HAS RETURNED TO HOME

Fifth Lad to Break Away From Institution Got Tired and Came Back.

Norman Vincent, 16, for four years an inmate of the school for feeble minded youths, and who escaped from the institution early Monday morning, came shuffling back to the big hall Monday night. He had run and walked five miles from the farm and growing tired had turned around and made his way back. He is back to stay, he says.

The four young men, two of whom had been in the institution for eight years, and who ran away from the place Sunday night, have not been located. No trace of the direction in which they traveled has been learned by officers of the home. The young men are absolutely harmless.

"Their leaving is due to their personal belief that they should not be in such an institution," one of the officials said Tuesday. "All the young men here think that all the other young men should be here but themselves. Their minds are childish and the runaways will soon be returned. Escape from the home is easy as there are no walls about the farm. Of the 1,340 patients on the farm the percentage of those who try to get away is remarkably few."

PLANS COMPLETE FOR THE JEWISH NEW YEAR

The Jewish New Year's service, which takes place on September 27 and 28, will be held by the congregation of the children of Israel in the hall of the new Moose home. The services for the day of atonement on October 7 will be held at the same place, the congregation having rented the hall for those days.

TODAY'S DEVELOPMENTS IN RAILWAY STRIKE SITUATION

Washington, August 29.—A summary of developments in the strike situation follows:

Negotiations between the railroads and the brotherhoods through President Wilson definitely broken off.

The brotherhood leaders definitely ordered the strike to begin at 7 a. m. Labor Day, unless the order is countermanded and declared that only a settlement favorable to the men could change it.

President Wilson prepared to go before congress in joint session at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon with proposals to prevent the strike. The latest authentic outline of the proposal is as follows:

Increase of the interstate commerce commission from seven to nine members. An eight-hour law for railroad employes in actual interstate transportation. To empower the federal board of mediation to fully investigate operation of an eight-hour day on railroads. To empower the interstate commerce commission to consider the eight-hour day in connection with making rates. A measure similar to the Canadian industrial disputes act for an investigation of all disputes between railroads and their employes. A measure empowering the president to operate trains with the primary object of providing the American troops on the Mexican border with food.

Rumanians Aim at Mountain Passes on Hungarian Border.

Monarch Leaves Bucharest for the Front to Direct the Fighting.

London, Aug. 29.—Desperate fighting on the border between Rumania and Hungary is reported in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Berne, Switzerland. The Rumanians, the message says, are making furious efforts to capture the important mountain passes.

A Hague dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says the Rumanian minister to Berlin leaves that city and that he requested a special interview with the imperial chancellor Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg last night, but it was promptly refused.

A British official statement regarding military operations in Greece issued this afternoon says: "There were no developments on the Struma or Doiran fronts."

ADVISORY BOARD TO FIX LEVY FOR 1917

Meeting is Scheduled for Sept. 5, New Township Trustee States.

Annual meeting of the Wayne township advisory board will be held September 5, when appropriations to cover township expense will be placed in the budget. Allen Hamilton, Wayne township trustee, said Tuesday that he would ask a considerable appropriation to cover expense of school buildings upkeep and yards.

The advisory board met Monday and approved the report of H. P. Scherer, Wayne township trustee, who was ousted from office. The report of the accountants was also examined, and approved.

Trip Over Township.

Mr. Hamilton made a trip over parts of the township Tuesday. He inspected work on the Simons road and visited the orphans' home, where, he states, school will open next Tuesday. He found the orphans' home in good condition. Miss Teresa Hammond is teacher at the home and Mrs. Overmeyer, superintendent. Papering has been done at the orphans' home and the improvement was noted by the trustee.

At the meeting of the advisory board September 5 Mr. Hamilton says the township tax levy for 1917 will be made. The present levy is 64 cents on the $100 and the next levy will not reduce that figure nor exceed it.

At the same time the president signed the new uniform bill of lading law. He was surrounded by chairmen and members of the house and senate committees and army and navy officers. Moving picture cameras recorded the event.

The notification ceremony will be held on the lawn at Mr. Fairbanks' home, beginning at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Senator Lawrence Y. MICHIGAN VOTERS HOLDING PRIMARY

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29.—Candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, United States senator, representatives in congress and for the state legislature are being chosen by the voters of Michigan in state-wide primary today. There were virtually no contests in the democratic ranks and interest centered principally in the fight for the republican nomination for governor in which five candidates participated. Five also sought the nomination as lieutenant governor on the republican ticket. Charles H. Bender, of Grand Rapids, and General John P. Kirk, of Ypsilanti, respectively candidates for governor and lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR NOTED CHURCHMAN

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 29.—Solemn and impressive ceremonies attended the burial here today of John Lancaster Spalding, Archbishop of Scitopolis and noted educator and author who died Aug. 26, following a long illness. Services were held in St. Mary's cathedral, where he presided for many years as bishop of Peoria.

Escorted by uniformed guards the body was taken to the cemetery and placed in a temporary vault pending the construction of a permanent memorial chapel planned by Archibshop Spalding before his death. Flags flew at half mast in Peoria today and many business places were closed at the hour of the funeral.

FEDERAL CAMPAIGN ON PLAGUE TO END SOON

New York, Aug. 29.—The federal campaign here against infantile paralysis may be concluded by September 15, Dr. Charles E. Banks, senior surgeon in charge of the certificates of travelers out of New York, said today.

"I think we will have accomplished our objects by that time and that the cases will be down to ten a day," Dr. Banks said. "That figure will not be normal but for all practical purposes it will be negligible."

An increase of thirty new cases and seven deaths was shown in the report for the 24 hours ending at 10 a. m. today. New cases numbered 73, deaths 12.

Debate on Emergency Revenue Bill Continues in Senate.

Reed Says Change Would Mean a Plunge Into War

Washington, Aug. 29.—Reviewing the record of the democratic administration, Senator Reed, of Missouri, told the senate today that the republican party demanded a change, which if granted by the people, would mean the precipitation of America into war and the undoing of national prosperity, built up by industrial, commercial and banking reforms during the term of President Wilson.

"If Mr. Hughes is to be elected to the presidency," said Senator Reed, "then it is notice to all the world that America has repudiated Wilson's policy of peace for the Roosevelt-Hughes policy of war.

"Let the issue be not misunderstood; we know, the world knows that Woodrow Wilson will maintain peace unless the nation's honor is assailed. Thoughtful men know that a president advised by Roosevelt, in accord and in agreement with Roosevelt, will stir up war if possible."

Senator Reed referred to Mr. Hughes' criticisms of the administration policy and reviewed the utterances of Mr. Roosevelt since the war. He declared Mr. Hughes "in complete accord with a man who has persistently insisted we should have intervened against Germany when she invaded Belgium; in complete accord with a man who refers in coarse language to the president as a 'molly-coddle,' a man of weasel words, in complete accord with a man who falsely asserts that we were bound by treaty to engage in the conflict against Germany."

GIVES ADVICE TO TEACHERS

Dr. Smith Says It is Essential They Know Students' Minds.

DR. GEISEL SPEAKS TUESDAY MORNING

About 350 Pedagogues Are in Attendance at Annual Institute Meeting.

Dr. A. T. Smith, principal of the Thomas Normal Training school, Detroit, declared Tuesday morning before Allen county teachers in institute at the high school building that it was essential for teachers to know the character of the minds they educated and that the emotional and volitional elements of a student's mind were as important as the thought element. His talk was a continuation of the subject, "The Concept."

Rev. Harry L. Overdeer, pastor of the Simpson M. E. church, gave the invocation. D. O. McComb, county school superintendent, presided and made announcements.

Are Not Experimentors.

"It is not your province to be experimentors in pedagogy," declared the speaker. "Pedagogy is the science of problems of other realms. It makes no difference how some one else might have succeeded in the place you are in, it is a matter of how you will succeed in it."

"The greatest trouble with mathematics comes because we can't read. We don't think values." The realms of actuality, thinking and language must be brought into harmony. Pedagogy in many ways is a dependent science and in others strictly independent."

Davis on Program.

AGENTS HEAR TALKS ON RISKS TUESDAY

Lincoln Life Convention is Attended by Forty Field Workers.

Forty agents of the Lincoln Life Insurance company heard Arthur F. Hall, vice president; Drs. C. H. English and S. A. Barlow, medical examiners; Franklin B. Mead, secretary and actuary, and Miss A. H. O'Rourke, in charge of the new business department, give talks at the morning session Tuesday of the three days' convention in the Lincoln Life building. A. F. Hall presided.

Dr. English Speaks.

Dr. English spoke of the growing necessity in insurance fields of careful medical examination of applicants for insurance. Mr. Mead said the question of rejected risks was a serious one as the company desired to give the agents and the company all the business possible without taking a risk. The Lincoln Life was shown to have a low rate of rejection based on physical impairments, occupations and moral hazards. During 1915, he said, but two cases were rejected because of physical impairment and one because of moral hazard, coupled with the feature of occupation.

Tuesday afternoon the agents were taken for an auto drive of the city and a ball game and field sports were to be indulged. Tonight at the Hotel Anthony at 6:30 o'clock the banquet will be held.

Program for Banquet.

Samuel M. Foster, president of the Lincoln Life Insurance company, will preside at the banquet of agents. The speakers will be Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church; B. Paul Mossman, vice president of the Lincoln Life Insurance company; Irving Williams, associate editor of Rough Notes, Indianapolis; Louis A. Hebert, president of Melting Pot Sales association, Chicago; Arthur F. Hall, vice president and general manager of the Lincoln Life, and Walter T. Shepard, vice president and manager of agencies.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 29.—A baby's body was found in a pasteboard shoe box found on the bank of the Ohio river here by Carl Kevekordes, a houseboat dweller, and thought to have been cast up by the river during a 105mile gale last Saturday night. The child was wrapped in a local newspaper, dated Sunday, June 18, 1916, and appeared to be several days old. The local coroner's office is endeavoring to establish the identity of the parents.

FINAL RITES ON THURSDAY

Funeral for Late E. A. K. Hackett at the First Presbyterian Church.

Bell at Winona Lake Tolls Out News of Mr. Hackett's Demise.

Funeral services for the late E. A. K. Hackett, publisher and owner of The Sentinel, who died at the St. Joseph hospital, Monday afternoon, following an operation for gallstones from which he had been suffering since last Wednesday, when he was stricken suddenly at his summer home at Winona Lake, will be held at the First Presbyterian church, Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. Henry B. Master, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a ruling elder, will officiate, assisted by Dr. D. W. Moffat, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian church, and Dr. S. C. Dickey, of Winona Lake, a brother-in-law of the deceased. The burial will be private.

The death of Mr. Hackett came as a shock and surprise. Only a few of his most intimate friends knew of his illness and even they did not realize the seriousness of it until Sunday when he was taken for the worse. It was then that an operation seemed to be the only means by which his life could be saved.

Mr. Hackett made a brave fight and accepted the inevitable with courage and confidence. It is believed that from the first he realized the seriousness of his condition. However, he bore his suffering without complaint.

COMPENSATION LAW EFFECTIVE, CLAIM

Factory Inspector, Who is Here, Operates Under Provisions.

The workmen's compensation law was one of the best pieces of legislation ever enacted into law, according to M. M. Murphy, of Elwood, a factory inspector, who is in Fort Wayne for a visit with T. A. Wilkinson, county school attendance officer. Mr. Murphy is taking a two weeks' vacation. He has eighteen counties under his charge, his territory being in central Indiana.

Mr. Murphy makes thorough investigations of accidents in factories together with inspection of factories. He says the compensation law has been alike an advantage to insurance companies and factory employes seeking adjustments. Mr. Murphy has served a year of his office term.

HETTY GREEN HEIR IS INMATE OF POOR FARM

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 29.—Contending that William P. Grinnell, an inmate of its poor farm, was entitled to $20,000 of the $1,500,000 estate of the late Sylvia Ann Howland, which was released by the death recently of Mrs. Hetty Green, the town of Tewksbury today filed in the superior court here a bill in equity to establish its claim against Grinnell for shelter and food furnished him for nine years.

Judge Fox granted the town's petition for a temporary injunction, restraining Grinnell from receipt or disposal of the property.

Edward H. R. Green, of New York, and Texas, son of Mrs. Green, Henry B. Day of Boston, and Oliver Prescott of New Bedford, trustees of the Howland will, are joined with Grinnell as defendants in the proceedings.

Robbers Clean Up Two Banks in Illinois Town

Danville, Ill., Aug. 29.—Six robbers blew the safes of two banks at Homer, Ill., near here early today and escaped in an automobile with $13,000. A general alarm has been sent out. The robbers worked quietly.

Their plans were well laid as the explosions at the two banks were simultaneous and were so similar that only a few people in the town were awakened. Eighty-five hundred dollars was taken from the Rayner & Rabb bank and $4,500 from the Citizens' bank.

There was some delay in spreading the alarm as the gang cut all wires into town except one before entering. The banks could not open this morning until money had been shipped to them from Danville.

RESOLUTIONS CLEAR UP LOCAL SITUATION

Quarantine by One Community Against Another in State is Disapproved.

Dr. E. M. Van Buskirk, health commissioner of Allen county, is in receipt of a letter from the state board of health, suggesting that the local officers adhere to the resolutions that were recently adopted by the conference of state health officers with the United States public health service on poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis. The resolutions adopted at a meeting held in Washington, D. C., August 17 and 18, are self-explanatory and will set right many who have been under the impression that children could not go from one city to another within the state, which is not the case. The resolutions are as follows:

"Uniformity of procedure looking toward the prevention of the spread of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, from state to state, and from one community to another within the same state, recommended by the conference along the following lines:

"Quarantine by one state against another state, or by one community against another community within the same state, was disapproved, on the ground that the federal government, through the United States public health service, can perform all the duties necessary in interstate relations, and that the state can perform like functions with respect to quarantine between communities within its own borders.

"All cases of poliomyelitis should be reported immediately to the local health authorities and to the health authorities of the state, and the latter should make weekly reports to the United States public health service. The public health service should issue each week a summary of the reports received.

"A state health authority, believing its territory to be in danger of invasion by poliomyelitis from another state, should call the attention of the United States public health service to the situation, which should thereupon investigate the supposedly dangerous area. Should any area be found to constitute a menace to interstate travel, the public health service should define that area, and thereafter the general restrictive measures laid down for the prevention of the spread of the disease should be in force with respect to it. Before any person 16 years old or less may leave the restricted area he should provide himself with a health certificate and permit to travel, and notice should be sent by the authority by which such certificate and permit are issued to the state health authority of the state of destination.

"Such health certificate and travel permits should be based on medical inspection and be void unless the journey begins within twenty-four hours after the issue of the permit. It is recommended that they be issued without fee. They must be signed by an officer of the United States public health service, by the state health officer, or by a person empowered by the state health authority so to do.

"A person 16 years of age or less who removes from an infected area to another locality should be kept under medical observation daily for two weeks from the date of his health certificate and travel permit."

first address Tuesday morning, closing that session. The afternoon program included an address by Dr. Smith on "The Rights and Duties of Childhood." Dr. Geisel delivered her second address and Prof. Davis and Mrs. Young took their places on the program.

About 350 teachers are in attendance at the institute the fee for which is 50 cents. Tonight Dr. Geisel will deliver a lecture for ladiies in the auditorium of the high school building.

Dr. A. T. Smith, head of the Thomas Normal Training school, of Detroit, spoke twice Monday afternoon in the absence of Dr. Davis, of Indiana university. He opened a series of talks on "The Concept." Ho asserted pedagogy was as orderly as any of the applied sciences known to men. The cases cited were in the fields of medicine and engineering.

"The two lines of truth that must be grasped by all, who would practice this pedagogical art are the nature of the minds to be educated and the nature of the subjects of learning with which this education is to be done," he declared.

The Three Groups.

He said all branches of curriculum fell within three groups—those presenting a predominance of truths (generalizations,) which must be grasped, if at all, by the understanding; those which present a body of facts that can be stored in the memory and those which are arts to be worked into the habits of life.

Dr. Smith's first address of the afternoon was on "Obedience, the First Law of Life." He showed that obedience was conduct given in response to the commands of a righteous authority, but he held it was not the chief goal of life, but rather absolutely necessary as a first law of life.

loned by Mr. Hackett's death are not confined by any means to the city of Fort Wayne, and many expressions of sorrow are reaching the family from friends in other cities. Mr. Hackett was widely known, particularly in the religious world to which he had devoted much of his effort. He made friends readily and was always striving to make others happy. He was particularly a friend to the man down and out and many such he has helped both financially and in appealing to their better manhood.

Bell Is Tolled.

When word of Mr. Hackett's death reached Winona Lake, where he had spent the summer, a bell was tolled sixty-five times, the deceased having been sixty-five years of age. He had for years been active in the affairs at Winona and took great interest in the summer work conducted there.

Mr. Hackett came to Fort Wayne a week ago last Saturday to attend the democratic editors' banquet at the Anthony hotel. At that time he seemed in the best of health, and declared he never felt better.

List of Pallbearers.

Brothers-in-law of the deceased will act as pallbearers, as follows: Dr. S. C. Dickey, of Winona Lake; G. W. Reid, of Mt. Vernon, Ill.; J. W. Reid, of Greenville, Ill.; John D. Reid, of Pana, Ill.; Frank T. Reid, of Springfield, Ill., and J. L. Rogier, of this city.

Bad Effects of Strike.

"The freight service throughout the United States must stand still until their places are filled, if, indeed, it should prove possible to fill them at all. Cities will be cut off from their food supplies, the whole commerce of the nation will be paralyzed, men of every sort of occupation will be thrown out of employment, countless thousands will in all liklihood be brought, it may be, to the very point of starvation, and a tragical national calamity brought on, to be added to the other distresses of the time, because no basis of accomodation or settlement has been found.

Recounts Own Efforts.

"Just so soon as it became evident that mediation under the existing law had failed and that arbitration had been rendered impossible by the attitude of the men, I considered it my duty to confer with the representatives of both the railways and the brotherhoods, and myself offer mediation, not as an arbitrator but merely as spokesman of the nation, in the interest of justice, indeed, and as a friend of both parties, but not as judge, only as the representative of one hundred million of men, women and children, who would pay the price, the incalculable price of loss and suffering, should these few men insist upon approaching and concluding the matters in controversy between them merely as employers and employes, rather than as patriotic citizens of the United States looking before and after and accosting the large responsibility which the public would put upon them.

The Eight-Hour Day.

"It seemed to me in considering the subject that the whole spirit of the time and the preponderant evidence of recent economic experience spoke for the eight hour day. It has been adjudged by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting as in the interest of health, efficiency, contentment and a general increase of economic vigor. The whole presumption of modern experience would, it seemed to me, be in its favor, whether there was arbitration or not and the debatable points to settle were those which arose out of the acceptance of the eight hour day rather than those which affected its establisment. I terefore proposed that the eight hour day be adopted by the railway managements and put into practice for the present as a substitute for the existing ten hour basis of pay and service; that I should appoint, with the permission of the congress, a small commission to observe the results of the change, carefully studying the figures of the altered operating costs, not only, but also the conditions of labor under which the men worked and the operation of their existing agreements with the railroads, with instructions to report the facts as they found them to congress at the earliest possible day, but without recommendation and that after the facts had been thus disclosed, an adjustment should in some orderly manner be sought of all the matters now left unadjusted between the railroad managers and the men.

Brotherhoods Accepted Plan.

"The representatives of the brotherhoods accepted the plan, but the representatives of the railroads declined to accept it. In the face of what I cannot but regard as the practical certainty that they will be ultimately obliged to accept the eight hour day by the concerted action of organized labor, backed by the favorable judgment of society, the representatives of the railway management have felt justified in declining a peaceful settlement which would engage all the forces of justice, public and private, on their side, to take care of the event. They fear the hostile influence of shippers, who would be opposed to an increase of freight rates (for which, however, of course the public itself would pay); they apparently feel no confidence that the inter-state commerce commission could withstand the objections that would be made. They do not care to rely upon the friendly assurances of the congress or the president. They have thought it best that they should be forced to yield, if they must yield, not by counsel, but by the suffering of the country. While my conferences with them were in progress, and when to all outward appearances those conferences had come to a standstill, the representatives of the brotherhoods suddenly acted and set the strike for the fourth of September.

Position of the Managers.

"The railway managers based their decision to reject my counsel in this matter upon the conviction that they must at any cost to themselves or to the country stand firm for the principle of arbitration which the men had rejected. I based my counsel upon the indisputable fact that there was no means of obtaining arbitration. I yield to no man in firm adherence, alike of conviction and of purpose, to the principle of arbitration in industrial disputes; but matters have come to a sudden crisis in ths particular dspute and the country has been caught unprovided with any practicable means of enforcing that conviction in practice (by whose fault we will not now stop to inquire a situation had to be met whose elements and fixed conditions were in dispute.

"Having failed to bring the parties to this critical controversy to an accommodation, therefore, I turn to you deeming it clearly our duty as public servants to leave nothing undone that we can do to safeguard the life and interests of the nation.

What President Recommends.

"In the spirit of such a purpose, I earnestly recommend the following legislation:

"First, immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission along the lines embodied in the bill recently passed by the house of representatives and now awaiting action by the senate; in order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with its present constitution and means of action, practically impossible.

"Second, that establishment of an eight hour day as the legal basis alike of work and wages in the employment of all railroad employes, who are actually engaged in the work of operating trains in interstate transportation.

"Third, the authorization of appointment by the president of a small body of men to observe the actual results in experience of the adoption of the eight hour day in railway transportation, alike for the men and for the railroads; its effects in the matter of operating costs, in the application of the existing practices and agreements to the new conditions and in all other practical aspects with the provision that the investigators shall report their conclusions to the congress at the earliest possible date, but without recommendation as to legislative action in order that the public may learn from an unprejudiced source just what actual developments have ensued.

"Fourth, explicit approval by the congress of the consideration by the interstate commerce commission of an increase of freight rates to meet such additional expenditures by the railroads as may have been rendered necessary by the adoption of the eight hour day and which have not been offset by administrative readjustments and economies should the facts disclosed justify the increase.

"Fifth, an amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for the mediation, conciliation and arbitration of such controversies as the present by adding to it a provision that in case the methods of accommodation now provided for should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

"And sixth, the lodgment in the hands of the executive of the power, in case of military necessity, to take control of such portions and such rolling stock of the railways of the country as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes with authority to draft into the military service of the United States such train crews and administrative officials as the circumstances require for their safe and efficient use.

"This last suggestion I make because we cannot in any circumstances suffer the nation to be hampered in the essential matter of national defense. At the present moment circumstances render this duty particularly obvious. Almost the entire military force of the nation is stationed upon the Mexican border to guard our territory against hostile raids. It must be supplied and steadily supplied with whatever it needs for its maintenance and efficiency. If it should be necessary for purposes of national defense to transfer any portion of it upon short notice to some other part of the country for reasons now unforseen, ample means for transportation must be available and available without delay.

"The power conferred in this matter should be carefully and explicitly limited to cases of military necessity but in all such cases it should be clear and ample.

One Other Thing Needed.

"There is one other thing we should do if we are true champions of arbitration. We should make all arbitral awards judgments by record of a court of law in order that their interpretation and enforcement may lie, not with one of the parties to the arbitration but with an impartial and authoritative tribunal.

"These things I urge upon you, not in haste or merely as a means of meeting a present emergency, but as permanent and necessary additions to the law of the land, suggested, indeed, by circumstances we had hoped never to see, but imperative as well as just, if such emergencies are to be prevented in the future. I feel that no extended argument is needed to commend them to your favorable consideration. They demonstrate themselves. The time and the occasion only give emphasis to their importance. We need them now and we shall continue to need them."

REJECT LATEST PROPOSAL

Brotherhood Leaders Make Labor Day Strike Order Definite.

Washington, Aug. 29—While President Wilson was announcing that he would lay the railway strike situation before congress at 2:30 o'clock today, the brotherhood leaders rejected the latest proposition of the committee of railway presidents and actually ordered the strike to begin at 7 a. m. Labor day, unless a settlement satisfactory to them is reached in the meantime.

Their previous order for the strike was tentative and required a secret signal to put it into effect. Unless a settlement satisfactory to the labor leaders is reached before that time or unless President Wilson and congress find some way to prevent it, the strike would start Labor day without further notice. The labor leaders admittedly took their action the first thing today in the belief that some means was being sought to prevent the strike actually being called. By their action they think they have anticipated any legal processes which might be brought against them.

Joint Session Arranged.

President Wilson announced his decision to address congress in session at 2:30 o'clock, soon after the decision of the labor leaders became known. Arrangements were made at the capitol for house and senate to assemble in the hall of the house to hear the president propose the legislation which has been agreed upon by the administration leaders.

Up to the present time President Wilson has not consulted with the house leaders because his plans provide for introducing the bills under contemplation as amendments to a bill already passed in the house and now pending in the senate to increase the membership of the interstate commerce commission.

The railway executives last night began departing for their homes, to be with their properties in event that the unions follow out their plan to call a strike on Labor day.

Lay Facts Before Country.

It was said in administration circles, however, that although the president had decided to go before congress he had not entirely given up hope of bringing the two sides together through direct negotiations and that his efforts to that end still were being continued this morning. In addition to starting the machinery to be prepared for a strike if all negotiations fail, it was said the president's purpose in going before congress today was to lay all the facts in the controversy before the country.

The previous order from the brotherhoods' leaders, merely made the strike order tentative and required the transmission of a code word to make it effective. It now requires no additional word to put the strike into effect on labor day but it does require word that a settlement has been reached to prevent one.

Situation Most Serious.

The brotherhood leaders declared after their meeting this morning that nothing but a "satisfactory settlement" could prevent their men walking out. The leaders took the position that with the strike already ordered they could not be prevented by legal processes from making it effective, while it left them free to call it off if a settlement satisfactory to them was reached.

The developments of early morning advanced the situation to the most serious phase it has assumed.

Will Fight One Feature.

Brotherhood leaders, it was understood today, will fight the compulsory investigation feature of President Wilson's legislative program but support his eight-hour proposal.

Every effort will be made, it was said, to get separate votes on the propositions in congress and leaders were confident that it could be done. A. B. Garretson, spokesman for the men, expressed himself as strongly opposed to the compulsory investigation plan and while he did not entirely approve of the proposed eight-hour bill, he said that it would bring benefits to such numbers of non-union men, that the railroads doubtless would oppose it, and he thought the brotherhoods would be behind it.

"The Canadian compulsory investigation plan," he said, "has proven the greatest throttle to labor that ever has been devised. Invariably, and I speak from experience, in dealing with railways, the railroad heads have used this delay guaranteed them by law to prepare for a strike.

"The eight-hour day proposal failing to carry, as it will, of course, any reference to wages would not embrace our present demands and not be wholly satisfactory to us. It would have the effect however, of bringing the unorganized eighty per cent. of railway labor of which the railway heads speak so feelingly, under an eight-hour day. It would be a step in the right direction and I think you would find the railroads opposing it vigorously."

In order to have any effect on the present proposed strike the president's legislative program would have to pass both houses and become a law before next Monday morning. Once the men have left their trains, compulsory investigation would not affect them, in the opinion of the brotherhood officials. The officials declined to discuss this phase of the situation further.

While the president's decision to go before congress was being announced the brotherhood leaders changed their tentative order for a strike on Labor day to actually order the strike at that time unless it is called off by a satisfactory settlement.

President Wilson worked nearly all night on the address to congress and after conferring with Chairman Newlands of the senate interstate commerce committee, announced his decision. Word was sent to the senate and house leaders so they could arrange a joint session.

President Wilson's Plan.

The president will lay before congress a definite plan of legislation for dealing with the situation. It includes bills laid before him by Senator Newlands, after conferences with Acting Attorney General Todd, Secretary Lane and several members of the senate interstate commerce committee.

The bills which will be taken up first are: A bill patterned after the Canadian industrial disputes act providing for investigation of disputes between railroads and their employes and preventing strikes or lockouts during the period of investigation. An eight hour law for railroad employes with a provision that sufficient time shall be given the railroads to prepare for its operation.

Law for Stopping Strike.

The president also discussed with President Newlands early this morning legislation for stopping a strike if it begins before the preventative legislation can be adopted.

Shortly after 10:30 o'clock a telephone call came to the white house from the railroad executives to the effect that the committee of eight would like to see President Wilson. He had engagements up until 1 o'clock but informed the executives that he would see them if possible.

Unfavorable Answer Certain.

Brotherhood leaders promised to give an answer early today to the railroads' proposition made informally to the president yesterday that action by both sides be suspended for three or four months pending investigation by a commission to be appointed by the president. An unfavorable answer was almost sure.

No hopes were entertained, either, that the brotherhoods' committee of 21 would withhold the tentative strike order already issued. On the part of the railroad executives there remained a remnant of a chance that they might grant the eight hour day, providing it should not go into effect for some time. This was not considered probable, however.

As a result of the president's latest visit to the capitol yesterday to discuss with the senate steering committee the railway situation it was said the majority was sympathetic with his legislative program and it was thought the proposed bills could be put through despite any opposition from republicans. Plans for adjournment this week had vanished, however.

Legislators were at work framing the necessary measures providing an eight hour day to become effective at a moderately distant date, and to establish a permanent system of ameliorating railway labor disputes by making them subject to investigation by a commission and forbidding strikes or lockouts pending investigation. It was proposed also to pass measures paving the way for granting of higher rates to railroads if wages under an eight hour day increase expenses and creating authority for forced operation of railroads by the government in case of a strike.

Why Brotherhoods Oppose.

The brotherhood heads, Garrison, Stone, Lee and Carter, issued the following statement explaining their opposition to any legislation along the plan of the Canadian commission:

"Since the abolition of slavery no more effectual means has been devised for ensuring the bondage of the workingmen than the passage of compulsory investigation acts of the character of the Canadian industrial disputes act. The writers speak from their personal experiences thereunder, as these organizations are all international in their jurisdiction. To cite an actual occurrence: 'In 1910 the men upon eighty railroads in the eastern territory of the United States presented to the railway companies of that territory a demand for increase in wages. The companies refused to deal concertedly with the proposition and it was therefore taken up with the individual roads, and two days after negotiations were opened, on January 7, on the first road in the United States, negotiations opened on the three Canadian properties. The negotiations in the United States included federal mediation in the first instance and arbitration in the third case.

"On the nineteenth day of July following settlement was made on the last of the seventy-seven American lines involved.

"On the same date at 6 p. m. a strike took place on the Grand Trunk railway, one of the Canadian railways, settlement not yet having been affected on any of the three, this growing out of the delays which the employers were able to interpose under the industrial disputes act.

"Moreover the period of investigation is eternally utilized by the employer to entrench himself in the effort to defeat the demands of the men, no matter how just their cause may be and in a majority of instances where a verdict by an investigating commission has been favorable to the men it has been repudiated by the employer. In consequence of this attitude, desregard for the provisions of that law has led to placing thousands of men in the attitude of law breakers and the passage of laws which induce men to open violation thereof is a deadly injury to a nation because it breeds universal contempt for law.

"In the present strife, if such an act were passed all that would be necessary would be for the power of attorney to be withdrawn from the national conference committee of managers by the individual roads and then immediate necessity would arise for 250 investigating boards to be created or, if only a limited number were provided for, men would be compelled to remain for years in voluntary servitude if they obeyed the provisions of such a law."

DAILY BIBLE READINGS FOR THE HOME

II Corinthians 12:1-10.

1. It is not expedient for me doubtless to glory. I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord.

2. I knew a man in Christ above fourteen years ago (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such a one caught up to the third heaven.

3. And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;)

4. How that he was caught up into paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter.

5. Of such a one will I glory: yet of myself I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.

6. For though I would desire to glory, I shall not be a fool; for I will say the truth: but now I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

7. And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure.

8. For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me.

9. And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

10. Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong.

E. A. K. Hackett

There is grief today in uncounted hundreds of hearts, a sorrow most deep and poignant over the passing of Edward A. K. Hackett, for many years owner and publisher of The Sentinel, whose death came most suddenly Monday afternoon at St. Joseph's hospital, following a very brief illness. To all who enjoyed even a casual acquaintance with Mr. Hackett there will come in this hour the realization that a lofty character and a good friend has gone from life. To those whose good fortune it has been to be closely associated with him will come the realization of a loss that is irreparable.

There are times when in the stress of sorrow's shock words are powerless to convey the real depth of one's feeling or to adequately measure the generosity of the loving tribute the heart would pay. To the attaches of The Sentinel in every department who have worked, many of them for many years, under Mr. Hackett's guidance and direction, who knew him intimately and who esteemed him thoroughly and deeply, this is one of the occasions when words seem pitifully weak and inadequate.

But Mr. Hackett's life was its own eulogy. The memory of it is a heritage far richer than material wealth or possessions of any kind. It is an inspiration. He was a successful man, but more than that he was a good man—good in the largest measure of that term. For more than thirty-five years the people of Fort Wayne have known him intimately and have appreciated the fine character, the exalted purposes and the high motives that were the outstanding characteristics of this admirable, devoted, kindly, generous man. He was deeply religious, and he found in his religion a joy that was constant, for he lived that religion. He was thoroughly and entirely what he professed to be. His one purpose was to do good in the world, and while it is impossible to adequately measure his achievements in this direction, it is certain they were vast. In a material way his benefactions were large, and they wre given with that fine generosity that is the finer because it is unobtrusive.

Mr. Hackett sought to help others and to make the world better. It was the inspiring motive of his life, and his was a life worth while because it yielded abundantly in good to all who in any way came within the sphere of his influence. His ideals were high. He stood for the best things in life. He gave support to every cause that had for its purpose human betterment. He sought to carry hope and cheer and kindness always. He was kindly, generous and just, and the memory of his life will be a treasured possession to all whose high privilege it was to know him.

THE DEATH OF MR. HACKETT.

(Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette.)

The sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Edward A. K. Hackett, for many years editor and publisher of The Fort Wayne Sentinel, has been a heavy shock to the people of this city as it will be to thousands far and wide who knew him. That he was dead was the first intimation the public here received that he had been ill and the news of his passing on that account carries added distress to the community, which was in no way prepared for the sorrowful intelligence.

It is an ancient—also cynical—injunction that only good should be spoken of the dead, and largely the observance of it operates to make the conventional post-mortuary tribute a thing of cheapness and hypocrisy. Such as may read this may well bear that in mind, for it is solemnly a pleasure at this time here to set down our simple and honest conviction that Mr. Hackett was a man of whom only good can be said. That all of those who knew him well will join us with readiness and sincerity in this is equally our conviction.

We may say of Mr. Hackett that he was a devout and conscientious Christian, a man of honesty and honor, of deep charity and generous practices, of clean life and correct morals. Acknowledgment of these qualities does not describe him wholly. There are many such. He was all of that and more. His Christianity was to him not a dogmatic creed; it was a life to be lived and faithfully he lived it. His religion entered inseparably and intimately into everything that pertained to his daily life—his obligations of family, his relations with his friends, his duties of citizenship, his activities of business and pre-eminently into the multitude of responsibilities he assumed and the labors he bore that he might do good in the world. It might be impressive to many to exhibit in figures his generosity to the cause of religion and the total would astound some. It might raise him in the esteem of many to quote in terms of money what his numerous benevolences and charities had cost him and the sum might scarcely be credited. But these things, vastly to his credit though they be, were not his great merit. He was a man of means and able to be generous.

What we mean is that very few men give back to the world for useful purposes—in charitable, moral and spiritual effort, of both immediate and continuing beneficence—so great a part of what came to him. Few have ever known to what extent Mr. Hackett was lending to the Lord, for it was almost literally his practice not to let his left hand know what his right hand did. Giving—liberal as he was in that—perhaps was the least of his worthy works. Doing good in whatever ways were brought to him, both by settled course and casual opportunity, was fundamental in his scheme of ethics and his religious life. His keeping of faith with himself in all things that bore upon his conscience was the better, higher part of him. He believed in God and His goodness with the implicit and unquestioning faith of a child and his life on all its sides was ordered to that faith.

In journalism Mr. Hackett was keen, alert and progressive. His business sense and habits were of a high order and merited the signal successes they achieved for him. He took The Fort Wayne Sentinel thirty-six years ago, after a successful career as a country publisher, and from a run-down, struggling, almost moribund sheet he built it up to its present position as one of the large, prosperous and influential newspapers of Indiana. His newspaper policies were in perfect correspondence with his daily life. He sought to do good; he strove to be right; he wanted to help; he was always ready to lend a hand. He was pained to have given pain and we doubt if ever in his life he wittingly inflicted injury upon any mortal. All who read or have read his newspaper know that these things are true of him, and all those who were by good fortune permitted to enjoy his companionship and share intimacy with him know them vastly better. The death of Mr. Hackett is a loss to the community on many accounts and there is no fulsomeness in saying that it is a loss to mankind, while in his passing journalism loses a high and worthy exemplar of its better ethics.

This newspaper joins the people of Fort Wayne and many places else where they are well known in extending sincere sympathy to the family of Mr. Hackett.

IMAGINATION IN BUSINESS.

(Dayton Herald.)

Achievement is the basis of the great prosperity which today places America at the head of nations. Achievement is the result of plans and dreams of men. The men who form the bulwark of America's leading industries found the romance and sentiment of industry before they achieved their unparalleled success in American industry. They glowed with the enthusiasm of making things, of hearing the hum of wheels, of seeing the moving trains as they swept across the continent. To know and feel that their efforts were building and developing the commerce of a nation primarily was the inspiration which led them to greater effort.

Men of dreams with the personality and ambition for achievement have developed America's most notable industries. Frank A. Vanderlip, who has become one of the greatest bankers in America, must have dreamed of speeding ships, of busy hands, of the development of untouched resources in foreign lands, before he became chairman of the fifty-million-dollar American International corporation. President Vanderlip has surrounded himself with men, who have vision, personality, imagination and accurate perceptions of the great business before them. He counts personality above everything else, and the personality which achieves is developed to its greatest efficiency in men of imagination and practical vision.

It has often been said that men who have worked their way to positions of great industrial strength have done it with cold, hard facts. But intimate knowledge of big men's achievement will show that dreams produced those cold, hard facts. These men found romance and sentiment in industry and the facts prove that they were not primarily inspired to the achievement of their great industrial strength by the jingle of gold. Men who have worked themselves to big positions were first concerned with achievement with consequent advancement as an ultimate reward.

WINONA LAKE NEWS.

Winona Lake, Ind., Aug. 29.—When the new Winona Federated college opens on Sept. 12 it will have one of the strongest faculties in the central west. Prof. Harold Lawrence, dean of the new institution, is exerting every effort to have every detail attended to before the time set for the opening of the fall term. He is meeting with great success and there is every indication that the new college will soon win a place of distinction among the educational institutions of the country. Glenn Y. Warner, of Wooster, O., will head the public speaking department. Miss Jeannette Shirey, of Fort Wayne, will have charge of the art department.

Fred VanNetter will leave next week for Oakland, O., where he will enter the theological college.

Rev. and Mrs. C. Claud Travis, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Nipper and Rev. D. H. Guild, of Fort Wayne, were in attendance at the Bible conference last week.

The Winona endowment fund has reached $52,000.

The annual conference of the Brethren church is holding its sessions in the auditorium. The attendance is large. All of northern Indiana is represented at the gathering.

GAS.

Y' know, George, I was readin' in the paper the other day about John Rockefeller laffin' out loud in a church durin' services in N' Yawk.

The papers said it was some line in the sermon that slid his wish-bone an' made him laff.

Oh, yes, it was.

You an' me know what made him laff, Ed, an' it wasn't the funny line in the sermon either (or I-ther as they say at afternoon teas).

The merry guffaws from John come out more than once when he thinks as how he's got a half-Nelson on the public with his gas and prices.

Yeh, but go easy on him, Luke, didn't he raise the price of gas from 12c to 24c a gal. and ain't he gradually gettin' kind-hearted and bringing it down a cent every year?

Oh!—we didn't know that. We take back them harsh words, John.

The Trades and Labor council held a meeting last night and made arrangements for Labor Day: They are planning to have the greatest labor demonstration parade ever given in Fort Wayne.

Great credit is due to the congregation of St. Mary's Catholic church for the new school building which is being erected at a cost of $20,000. The new building will be ready for occupancy by the first of October.

A gang of men are engaged in preparing North Lafayette street for block pavement. Between Holman and Montgomery streets this morning a natural gas pipe sprung a leak and as the big steam roller passed over the pipes a spark ignited the gas and flames leaped up ten feet in the air. The engineer had a narrow escape from death. The damage was slight as the blaze was soon extinguished.

COLUMBIA CITY MAN IS BURIED ALIVE

Ira Spittler Has Four Ribs Fractured and is Bruised About the Body as Result.

Columbia City, Ind., Aug. 29.—Ira C. Spittler, of Columbia township, residing about a mile and a half southwest of this city, was partly buried in a gravel pit on his farm Monday, near the noon hour, and the four lower ribs on his right side were fractured.

He and his hired hand, Judd Windle, were working in the pit and Mr. Spittler stood between the wagon and the bank. The gravel came down suddenly and Mr. Spittler had no chance to dodge. He received the full weight of the sand and he was jammed against the wagon wheel with terrible force. His right side struck the wheel and the four ribs were fractured.

Mr. Windle was doing some work with the team when the bank caved in and he was soon on the job with his shovel in an attempt to get Mr. Spittler from under the gravel and away from the wagon. Several persons who were passing stopped and assisted in freeing the man from the gravel and he was loaded into a car and taken to his home nearby. Dr. Ben P. Linvill was called and reduced the fractures and attended to other minor bruises about the body.

CASE AT BLUFFTON

Bluffton, Aug. 29.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDonald is under quarantine here Monday, following the declaration by the family physician that Kathleen McDonald, their one-year-old daughter, has infantile paralysis. The parents assert that they have had the child no place where she could have contracted the dread disease. She has been ill for a week, but they thought at first she was suffering from a cold. They were in Huntington before the child became ill.

SCHOOL OPEN MONDAY.

Auburn, Ind., Aug. 29.—The schools of Auburn will open next Monday for the ensuing term. There are four new teachers this year as follows: Miss Helen Fitch, of this city, being selected to take the fifth grade, recently made vacant by the resignation of Miss Myrtle Hornberger. A. E. Heater, of Valparaiso, is the new teacher in chemistry, and H. C. Anderson, of Veedersburg, instructor in manual training and mathematics in the high school. Miss Lovina Pfaff will be teacher in the fifth and sixth grades at the Washington building. The same teachers have been employed as last year.

HURT IN COLLISION.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 29.—George Locke, of near Kuhn's Landing, was the victim of what might have been a fatal accident about noon on Sunday. Mr. Locke riding a motorcycle, was traveling east on Market street. When he reached the corner of Buffalo street, he encountered two automobiles and in the mixup collided with a big machine, which turned the corner for the north. Locke was thrown to the pavement with great force and at first it was thought he had been seriously injured. He was taken to the office of Dr. Murphy, where his wounds were dressed. An ugly gash was cut above one eye and one stitch was required to close the wound. He also had cuts and bruises about his head and body, none serious. He was able to walk away unassisted about an hour later. Mr. Locke's motorcycle was so badly wrecked that it is beyond repair.

COTTONY MAPLE SCALE

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 29.—Within a short time Mayor Spohn will present to the common council plans for a fight on cottony maple scale, which now prevails in this city. The mayor has gone over the matter with the state entomologist and the Davy School of Forestry and Tree Surgery at Kent, Ohio. It is agreed on all sides that the only way to protect the 19,000 trees of this city is to spray them in the fall and in the spring. Whatever treatment is given for cottony scale must be followed at such times as the trees are without leaves. A high powered spray will be purchased. Various remedies are recommended for the disease.

OLD SETTLERS' DAY

Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 29.—The old settlers' reunion and picnic at Lopez was attended by a very large company of people, coming from many points in northern Indiana and Michigan. The day was fine and the people had an enjoyable time. The Plymouth band was engaged for the occasion and helped to fill in the day's program. A great basket dinner was spread under the trees and hundreds of people enjoyed the picnic occasion. Speeches were made and various games were played and thus another year was added to the list that marks the annual reunion of old settlers of Marshall and St. Joseph counties.

TOOK TOO MANY TABLETS

Delphos, Ohio, Aug. 29.—No one will ever know how close Mrs. Frank J. Hughes, of this city, was to death Sunday, when she became violently ill from poison said to have resulted from taking headache tablets. The tablets, labeled "A.K." were supposed to be taken one every hour until the headache stopped. Mrs. Hughes in her haste, took two at the same time and two more at short intervals thereafter. She became ill at the home of her mother and was assisted to her home, where medical attention was summoned. It was necessary to do hard work to revive the afflicted woman. Reports at the latest show that she is much improved.

BOOTLEGGER IS CAUGHT

Portland, Ind., Aug. 29.—William Walker, colored, an alleged bootlegger, who claims his home as Muncie, was arrested at the fair grounds here Monday afternoon, by ground officials and brought to this city to face charge of liquor law violations. Walker was caught in the act of secreting liquor beneath one of the stalls on the ground. When taken in charge he had two quart bottles and a pint bottle filled with whisky, the bottles being in a grip. In police court before his arraignment he admitted that the whisky was for sale, but denied having disposed of any.

ROBBERY AT HARTFORD CITY.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 29.—No trace has yet been obtained to the identity or whereabouts of the bold thief who shied a paving brick through the window of the William Hirsch jewelry store, West Washington street jeweler, at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, and attempted to carry away the contents of the window in his hat. Two watches, valued at about $15, was the total of the booty obtained by the thief. A string of watches, lavalieres and other jewelry was strung along the alley running past the postoffice, which formed the avenue of flight for the culprit after his actions had been detected. One seventeen-jewel watch was found in front of the Tom Bell home, in West Main street, where the thief fell down as he was fleeing. So far as Mr. Hirsch is able to tell at this time, everything that was in the window has been recovered with the exception of the two watches.

Huntington, Ind., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Lydia Hodson, married thirty years, filed suit in the circuit court Saturday for divorce from John Hodson, on grounds of cruelty in several forms. The Hodsons, who have eight children, six of them of age, live on the Hicks farm west of Huntington. In the complaint, filed by Bowers and Feightner, the forms of cruelty enumerated include refusal to provide medicine to members of the family, refusal to let his daughter, Ella, come to their home, cruelty to his wife and children, and wrongful accusations against his wife and daughter. The complaint asks $3,000 alimony from the plaintiff's property of $5,500. Temporary restraining orders to prevent Hodson from coming home or disposing of his property are also asked.

KENDALLVILLE WITHOUT GAS.

Kendallville, Ind., Aug. 29.—A leak in the boiler, together with several other minor troubles, making it impossible to manufacture gas, has caused considerable inconvenience to gas consumers in this city since Sunday. Housewives doing their weekly washing called in and asked, "What's the matter with the gas?" Restauranteurs and others did likewise. There was a low pressure at the plant Saturday and nearly all day Sunday there was no gas. At 8 p. m. yesterday the pressure was again reduced and until 10:30 there was no gas.

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN FEDERAL ROAD AID

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Great interest is shown by inquiries coming from all parts of the country in the work of the federal aid road act recently enacted by congress. This is the law which appropriates $85,000,000 from the federal treasury to be used in a half-and-half federal and state co-operative policy of road construction. If all states accept the provisions of the law and adopt this chance to get into partnership with Uncle Sam, $75,000,000 will be added to the $85,000,000 by the states for new roads.

"This," says Secretary of Agriculture Houston, "is not so much as it seems. Few people realize that the nation is already spending approximately $250,000,000 a year for new roads, or nearly half the cost of the Panama canal. But it will help to have the federal government co-operate with the states. Indeed, this act and the co-operative agricultural extension act established a new principle in American government—the principal of co-operation between federal and state officers. Heretofore federal and state officers have too often looked at one another across the line, sometimes with apprehension as to what the other was going to do or think; sometimes with jealousy, not infrequently with friction."

The secretary expressed the hope that this law would be the beginning of a new era. Many state highway officials have come to Washington to find out what steps must be taken by a state to avail itself of the new law. To these Secretary Houston has replied:

"The act requires the state to accept it. That, as I understand, implies the assent of the state to every provision of the act. One of these provisions is that projects, plans, specifications, and contracts shall be submitted and approved; and I have a suspicion that plans and specifications will not be approved unless they are submitted by people who know about such things. So the assent of the state involves the calling of trained men into the service of every state which is now without them.

"The law involves another thing, the pledge of the faith of the state to meet in full the federal appropriation for the entire period covered by the act. The state legislature may not be able to appropriate money one year for the whole period covered by the act, but it can pledge the faith of the state to meet the financial provisions of the act for the period covered by it. This is as it should be. It would be wasteful not to make plans at the outset for the full period covered by the act; it would mean piecemeal road building and much dissipation of effort and misdirection of funds. These requirements hold whether the state as such, under the existing law, may engage in road building or not. The provision that where the state may not engage in highway improvement the money may be securied if counties raise an amount sufficient to meet the apportionment to the state involves the necessity on the part of such counties of raising an amount sufficient to meet the full apportionment for the state, the existence of a highway commission, and compliance with all the other terms of the act. I speak of this because there are evidences that individual counties think that, if they raise a certain sum of money, they will of necessity get a corresponding sum from the federal treasury. That is not my construction of the act and not the one that will be likely to prevail.

"The duty will rest upon you gentlemen who represent the states of informing the people as to the meaning of this legislation and as to procedure under it, because the initiative under the law lies with you. We are directed to co-operate with you; with the state through the state highway department. It is your duty, if your state accepts the law, to agree with us on roads to be constructed and to submit projects, plans and specifications. Therefore, individuals, associations, and counties will of necessity take up such matters directly with you, and we shall hear from them through you for the most part."

For the benefit of the people living in or near the national forests where the taxes from privately owned lands are small, the act carries an appropriation of $10,000,000 to build roads and trails in and near these forests. This sum is to be available a million a year for a period of ten years.

The net result of this act should be great improvement in roads and highways throughout the United States. This will mean better facilities for the farmers for getting his produce to market or to the railroad station or shipping point. Compared to European countries, the roads in the United States are extremely primitive. No European government would permit its roads to continue in the condition of most of ours. This legislation, and the action of the agricultural department in carrying it out should be of immense social and economic importance to the people.

Snyder—Collins.

A few days ago The Sentinel told of the approaching wedding of William H. Snyder, the popular chief clerk to the general manager of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, to Miss Princess M. Collins, of Warsaw, but did not tell the part Dan Cupid took in the affair. The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride in Warsaw last Saturday evening, the culmination of a pretty romance that began in Toledo, Ohio, years ago. Both were boys and girls together. They were sweethearts in school and later they were fellow students in a college of music. But somehow they drifted apart and for fifteen years they have not heard from each other. Dan Cupid got busy, however, on May 29, when they met very unexpectedly at Robison park. The friendship of years ago was revived, terminating in the happy marriage Saturday evening. Rev. A. W. Littrell, pastor of the Baptist church, at Warsaw, officiated. The bride's sisters, Mrs. W. O. Heinlein, of Chicago, and Miss M. Collins, of Warsaw, and Mrs. Littrell were present. A wedding dinner followed the ceremony and later Mr and Mrs. Snyder left for Crooked lake, where they are now spending their honeymoon.

The bride wore a dainty dress of white net over silk, with corsage of roses. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Keech left on an eastern trip, the bride wearing a suit of blue broadcloth, with hat of royal blue velvet, the purplish tints harmonizing in both gown and hat. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the immediate families being present. The bride has for the past five years been connected with the European School of Music as a member of the faculty and is well and favorably known. Mr. Keech has been a resident of Fort Wayne for the past ten years. He is connected with the Medical Protective association. Upon their return from their honeymoon they will live at 510 East Creighton avenue.

Ball—Fisher.

Twelve months ago Cletus Ball, of 1025 Eliza street, sat fishing at Centerville, Mich., where he was spending his vacation. He didn't catch many fish, but he did catch a wife. While he sat there fishing two girls crossed the bridge. He heard them approaching and he casually looked up. One of them appealed to him as no other girl had ever done and through a friend he succeeded in later securing an introduction. She was Miss Hulda Fisher, of Columbus, Ohio. Letters were exchanged. He visited her. Both were quite sure it was a case of love at first sight with the result that a few days ago they were married. They had planned to keep the wedding a secret, but somehow their friends heard of it before they had returned to this city. They will make their future home here. The ceremony was performed at Centerville, Mich., Judge John Farrow, of the probate court, officiating.

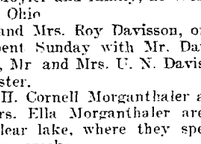
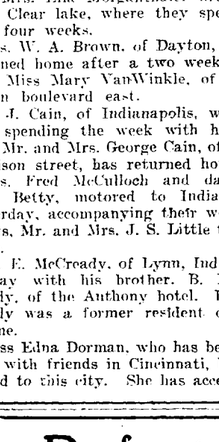
At Your Grocer's



Because men wear so little jewelry anyway—



—the few pieces they do wear must be chosen with an eye for distinctiveness and individuality. Jewelry mode and vogue for men now point to the ring and stick pins shown here. They are set with the Gebhardt Solitaire Diamond Cluster. Have you seen them? Each cluster is a group of seven diamonds so cleverly arranged that it has all the beauty and fire of a solitaire of the same size and color. And its cost is but one-fifth the cost of the solitaire.

AT THE MAJESTIC

New and Revised Edition of "Peck's Bad Boy" Wednesday.

Local theatregoers are to be offered a new and revised edition of "Peck's Bad Boy," by Irving Berlin, at the Majestic theatre, matinee and night, Wednesday, August 30. The mere announcement of the coming of this attraction will be sufficient to arouse the interest of all threatregoers, as it is a classic and is well known in every part of the United States. In its present form it is now one of the cleverest musical farce comedies on the stage.

The present management has been very fortunate in securing a company of clever vaudevillians headed by Lew Herman, the diminutive comedian. The advance sale of seats is now open. Popular prices of 10c, 20c, 30c and 50c will prevail.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"Sinners" at the Temple.

"Sinners," Owen Davis' new American play, which has rushed straight to the heart of everybody, will be the offering of the Temple Stock company next week. The attraction comes direct from a highly successful run of 321 performances at the Playhouse, New York, and is positively the first time it has been released for stock.

Briefly told, "Sinners" has to do with Mary Horton, who has gone to New York to seek her fortune. She is unable to find work, and penniless and hungry she, by chance, meets Hilda Newton, a former friend of her old home, who likewise came to the great city and who is well started on her gay wanderings. Mary, innocent of the danger that threatens her, has reached the brink of the first pitfall. Warning of her mother's dangerous illness saves her from the fatal step, and Mary hurries home where she is presently found by her former associates, who are on a motor trip. This collects all the characters under one roof and gives the opportunity for contrasted principles and points of view which are the burden of the story. There are four acts.

AT THE GRAND

Today the last chapter of "The Mysteries of Myra" will be shown at the Grand. This chapter brings to a close one of the best serial films of its kind ever offered to the show-going public. All those who have been following up this serial have been highly pleased, and, although the picture portrayed many occult and impossible phases, yet the story has been intensely interesting from start to finish.

Helen Gibson is featured today in "At Danger's Call," together with an exceedingly funny comedy, "Pokes and Jabs in the Try Out."

Tomorrow Mary Pickford will be seen in a single reel re-issue, "The Nobler Love."

AT THE PALACE

GROWS TO ORDER.

Gascogne at the Palace Changes Stature to Suit.

If you like your actors a little taller, or with one leg a little shorter or one arm a little longer, Louis Gascogne, of the Royal Gascognes at the New Palace, is on the job. Standing perfectly erect he can by some strange, almost weird muscular movement actually add length. It's ludicrously funny, almost two inches to his height, shorten one leg fully two inches and stretch one arm three inches beyond its normal as much so in fact as the absurd manner in which he performs some remarkable tricks in juggling and balancing. The team provide a splendid top line attraction.

The Ching Wha Four, fresh from the Flowery Kingdom, are some harmonists, reeling off yard after yard of American rags, after opening in what they say is a Chinese love song. The Three Bennett Sisters, a trio of physical culture devotees, go through the various gymnasium training stunts, of swinging indian clubs, etc., in a whirlwind athletic act.

Sandy Shaw, the famous Scotch character comedian, has a grist of Scotch songs and stories, while Alex and Gina Dare open the show with a dainty athletic picnic in which these graceful people give an exhibition of difficult equilibristics. Two men and a girl, White, Mullally and White are versatile entertainers, singing a bit, dancing a bit and playing the piano a bit. Their closing number, a dancing trio, in which they play their own accompaniments at the piano, is a clever novelty.

NOTRE DAME TO HAVE A VERY NOTABLE YEAR

Many Celebrations Will Mark Anniversary of University.

Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 29.—Notre Dame university will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary this year and the observance of the diamond jubilee will be carried through all the school year During the year the celebration will be featured by visits of Taft and Roosevelt, the governors of several states, the three American cardinals, Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell; the American Catholic hierarchy; the laetare medalists and the greatest possible number of Notre Dame alumni. Many of these will come about commencement time. Most of the visitors will deliver addresses.

The dedication of several new buildings also will distinguish this festal year. The new library and the Knights of Columbus building are to be completed within the year and it is expected that the engineering building and old students' hall also will be dedicated.

Elaborate pageants, showing the history of Notre Dame will be given during the year. The history of Notre Dame reads almost like a romance, through which move such men as Marquette, De La Salle, Allouez, DeSeille and later Badin, Alexis Coquillard, Pokagon the Pottawatomie, and Sorin, who converted the little Indian mission into the school. Six books now in course of preparation, by Notre Dame professors, will be published during the year. Chief Justice White, of the United States supreme court, a laetare medalist, is expected.

EXCLSE FOR NOT REPORTING.

Elmer Davis, Paroled From Reformatory, Was at State Penal Farm.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 29.—Elmer Davis, age 22, had a good excuse for reporting monthly to the authorities of the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville, from which he had been paroled. He was busy serving another sentence at the state penal farm.

Davis had received the latter sentence several months ago, but the reformatory officers were not aware of it. Both were for larceny. He was arrested on returning here after serving his penal farm term.

Jude Frank Ellis sentenced the defendant both times, having forgotten the first instance when Davis was before him the second time. Davis's parole has not been revoked.

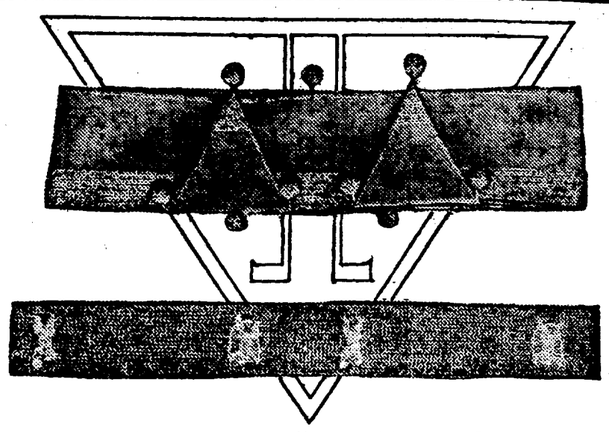
OF INTEREST TO WOMEN



THE VOGUE OF BEADED BELTS

THE popularity of separate skirts has made it necessary to pay strict attention to belts. They are really a necessity, but unless they are rightly chosen they are apt to mar the effect of the costumes with which they are worn.

Belts of white leather ornamented with leather of contrasting color and cut in queer shapes are very stylish with sports suits of bright colors. Much attention is being given to beaded belts just now. In most cases Indian beads are used for the purpose. On the belts shown steel and white beads are used effectively. The narrow one of blue suede leather is given a rather grotesque air by the introduction of little figures brought to light by means of white beads.

The broad belt is of green suede leather. Steel beads ornament the upper edge of the belt, the pointed tabs and form the balls.

MENDING VEILS

THE veil of today's fashion, with its delicate and intricate mesh and its exquisite tracery of pattern, is, at its strongest, a frail possession and one easily rent asunder by a very slight accident. And a veil, however new and costly it may be, that exhibits an oval rap just across the tip of one's chin, or a widening slit at the corner of one's eyebrow, makes but a sorry impression on the beholder and takes from any wearer the feeling of being perfectly dressed.

Yet to find, after two or three wearings, that one's expensive veil has acquired such broken places is a grievous thing. To discard it entirely is hard; to adjust it in such fasnion as to conceal the holes is an uncertain resource apt to end in betrayal, while actual mending is almost impossible, without leaving plain evidence of the repairing. No sewing silk is at once fine enough and strong enough to draw together the sides of the rent and still be invisible. The use of mending tissue, in order to apply securely a patch of the same material, means that a lapping of edge over edge is essential and consequently a thickening of the fabric.

One method there is, however, which, tho "fussy" and requiring both patience and careful handling, gives results that are virtually imperceptible. It is certainly worth trying in the case of veils of even moderate price. For this use instead of sewing silk a long, fine human hair to catch together the break. It has been done by the writer, with success.

If the veil is dark, always work over a white apron or smooth white cloth laid on the lap. The tinier the tear, the easier to mend—so take the "stitch in time" before the first little break is stretched and spread into an unsightly opening by a second wearing. The "fussiness" of this craft consists first in the absolute necessity of fastening the end of the hair thru and to the fabric of the veil by tying it securely in a tiny hard knot before beginning to bring together the sides of the hole, and secondly, in that "stubbornness" latent in hairs, as sewing material, which makes them constantly escape from the eye of one's needle, if not watched vigilantly.

If possible, have the hair used long enough to mend the torn place "in once." When all the edges have been caught carefully together until they have met without bunching, fasten the end of the hair as at the beginning with a tiny, tight hard knot in the net, and do not cut the "thread" too close to it, as the natural elasticity of all human hair may result in its working itself loose.

If uncertain as to one's ability to handle this novel repair work, it is advisable to practice on an old veil until a little ease in "mending with hair" is gained, before commencing on the hole in one's very best veil.

AROUND THE HOUSE

A TIME-SAVING plan which all housekeepers should follow is that of having the exact change ready for the iceman, the milkman, the paper man, etc., when they come each week to collect their bills. In this way the housekeeper can divide her weekly allowance into proper amounts when it is given to her, the separate accounts being slipped into little envelopes. The collectors will be just as grateful as you for the plan.

There are many women who are worn out more by thinking of the household tasks that are to be performed than by the actual performing of the tasks. This can be overcome by hanging in a convenient place a pad. As each idea comes into mind make a note of it, and then forget it until an opportune time for carrying out the idea presents itself. As each task is performed it can be checked off the list.

Purchase three or four wire baskets such as are used in business offices. Fasten them to the inside of the pantry or cellar door. They will prove most convenient for holding papers, lids, twine and other odds and ends for which it is always more or less difficult to find a place.

If you want to prevent people from carrying dripping umbrellas thru your house, fasten a towel rack to the side of the house near the porch door. Place a tray beneath it, so that the water will not trickle over the porch. The rack will prevent the umbrellas from falling or being blown over by the wind.

WHEN THE DAY IS DAWNING

IN THE early morning, when you arise and dash cold water on your face, doesn't it make you feel like a little sprite and give you lots of energy? If not, here is a boudoir cap that will make you feel very gnomelike. It is made of pink and green satin. The satin is cut in small cone shapes and sewn together to fit around the head. Each row is graduated a little so that the end of the last one forms a point at the top. The part fitting the head is faced with sea foam green and pale pink chiffon. Is not this very elflike?

SERGE AND CHIFFON FROCK

THERE will come a time when it will be too cool to wear lingerie frocks on the street without a coat, and yet it will be too warm for a top-coat. Therefore, a demand for a frock that will fit the bill arises. Serge is a material which answers to the call willingly and satisfactorily, and proves very congenial when used in connection with satin, taffeta or chiffon. Here is a frock which bears the "good" stamp. It is practical enough for street wear and at the same time has enough of a dressy atmosphere to warrant its appearance at an afternoon tea or party.

Dark blue chiffon and dark blue serge have been combined for the frock. The fullness of the sleeves is a note not to be overlooked. Another interesting feature of the frock is the vest and the surplice line, gained by the clever manipulation of the serge. Tiny cloth-covered buttons emphasize the vest effect.

Almost every other serge frock shows the use of embroidery of the machine, hand or bead variety. Purple machine stitching is used in this instance to elaborate the blouse and to outline the pockets.

It is interesting to note the different ways in which two materials are combined to fashion skirts. Striped effects, patch pieces, scallops and points are all brought into use. In this case the serge is joined in point effects to the upper part, which is of chiffon.

TIRED FEET

THE woman who stands on her feet all day should make sure to wear comfortable shoes if she wishes to save herself future foot trouble. Should the feet become tired when the day is half or three quarters over, great relief can be gained by changing the shoes. Keep an extra pair in the office, store or library. At night bathe the feet in warm salt water, and after drying them rub olive oil into the skin. The oil will prove most efficacious if one has callous spots.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Sports Dress

What material would you suggest for making a striped skirt and a plain material Russian blouse for tennis? Please suggest how to make a hat to go with this.

Miss W. E.

You might combine a plain linen, pongee, or if you want something more elaborate, silk or wool jersey. If you have a small buckram sailor shape, you may cover the crown with the stripe running from front to back, and face the brim with the plain material, using the striped as well for the top of the brim.

Stout Woman

What will make a pretty dress for a stout woman? I want to use a light colored material, if this is possible, but want to make it up in a becoming style.

Mrs. A. C. N.

Tussor is a good material, as also is pongee as they have some body to them, or in lighter weight materials, voile, net, chiffon cloth and georgette crepe are all good. Make a front panel to the skirt, and then you may have an overskirt or tunic which slope from the side below the hips to the panel in back, where it touches the top of the hem. The waist is made in surplice style, with a vestee of net.

The winner in the civic beauty and health contest will be named Wednesday morning from the ten contestants who have been chosen as victors in their respective wards. The committee to pick the grand prize winner is made up of Miss Minnette Baum, Mrs. Walter Seavey and Mrs. Gaston Bailhe.

The ten highest in the contest in in which 2,000 children enrolled at the opening of spring were chosen Monday afternoon when fifty judges met in the court house at the call of Mrs. Josephine Nesbitt, head of the civic contest.

Names of the ward victors are being kept secret and the grand prize winner will not be announced until sometime in October when all children, who have taken part in the contest, will be called together and the winner presented with the prize. Some form of entertainment will be arranged for the occasion.

Mrs. Nesbitt gave an illustrated lecture on the value and inexpensiveness of making a city beautiful before the gathering Monday afternoon. County Engineer A. W. Reiling operated the picture machine. Mrs. Nesbitt paid tribute to the women who have worked with her during the hot summer months.

William Maier, of Troy, graduate of Michigan university, and noted landscape gardner, was in Fort Wayne Tuesday to view the results of the beautification campaign.

"Everywhere I see the fruits of the persistent work of Mrs. Nesbitt," he said. "Most of the results are modest yet beautiful and a move in the right direction."

MOVEMENT OF BATTERY DEPENDS ON NUMBERS

Captain John Scheffer to Call Adjutant General Tuesday Evening.

Whether Battery D will entrain for Fort Benjamin Harrison Wednesday morning will depend entirely upon the number of men enlisted. An order from the adjutant general a few days ago stated that Captain Scheffer should recruit to war strength of 176 men. At the present time ten more men are needed to meet the demand.

Tuesday evening Captain Scheffer will call the adjutant general to inquire if it is advisable to proceed to the state's mobilization grounds without the required number. The train which will take the men to Indianapolis has arrived in Fort Wayne and is now standing in the Lake Erie and Western railroad yards.

The men are being drilled each day and already much improvement has been shown. All the men who have reported have been assigned to the various sections of the battery.

BRIDE'S TEARS AVAIL; SEVENTEENS ARE WED

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 29.—Before Willard E. Lamb, age 17, of Spiceland, and Rozella Harris, also 17, who lived in Cowan, could be married yesterday it took the combined efforts of those two, the mothers of each, and Judge Frank Ellis, of the circuit court.

When the youth, who is the Union traction station agent at Spiceland, and his sweetheart applied at the county clerk's office for a license, they were refused on account of their age and told to bring the consent of their parents. The mothers of the two then appeared with the children and reluctantly consented to the marriage, although advising that they wait a while. Then the clerk discovered he couldn't issue the license unless ordered to do so by the circuit court, whereupon the applicants and their mothers appeared before Judge Ellis and made the request.

The court was not inclined to give his permission, telling the boy he should wait until he was at least a year older, but when the bride-elect gave evidence of tears the court hurriedly gave the required permission and the two were married yesterday in Cowan.

SEES RELIEF FROM PARALYSIS PLIGHT

Health Board Members Believe Plague is Now Under Control.

With the present wave of cool weather and no new cases of infantile paralysis reported in the past six days, health board members think that spread of the disease has been successfully checked. Continued vigilence on the part of parents for a few weeks should remove all fear of an epidemic of the paralysis, it is given out.

"Cool weather always discourages disease germs. We do not know the temperature at which paralysis germs are inactive but all germs thrive best in torrid weather. We know the germs will not be given a chance if children are kept to themselves," one of the board members said Tuesday.

School is sure to open October 1, unless new complications arise in the paralysis situation, the health board gives out. All cases of the paralysis now existing are improving as rapidly as could possibly be expected. There will be no deaths in the city. No new cases have been discovered in the county outside of Fort Wayne although all outlying towns have been ordered to keep a close watch for symptoms of the disease.

Parents must not take their children to the health board office to have them examined for symptoms of paralysis. This brings children together in the health board room and is as bad as for them to play together, board members say. Children must be examined and given certificates by their family physicians if examined at all.

DEATH PACT BALKED BY CHICAGO LAWYER

Lawyer Intervenes When Husband Suggests That Each End Life.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Frank Harris and his wife, Leota of 1332 South Wabash avenue, arrested on charges of violating the Harrison narcotic act, attempted to make a suicide pact in the court room of United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote yesterday. Michael L. Igoe, assistant United States district attorney, blocked the plan. Mrs. Harris carried her 14-months-old daughter. The infant is a victim of morphine, acquired from her mother's breast. Bridewell physicians say Mrs. Harris' system is saturated with the drug.

When Harris and his wife were arraigned before Commissioner Foote Mr. Igoe suggested that the mother be sent to the bridewell and the infant placed in a hospital.

Harris stepped to his wife's side and whispered: "You cut your throat and I'll cut mine." Mr. Igoe separated them.

"If you are going to take the baby away from me I don't want to live," the woman said. The man and woman are being held in the bridewell. The baby was sent to a hospital.

MILLS EXPLAINS HIS COUNCIL STATEMENT

Asked Money Taken From Light Plant Because Needed Elsewhere.

"I feel that it is my duty to take exception to the advertisement in the Fort Wayne Sentinel last evening, warning the tax payers against the suggestion that the $15,000 taken from the general fund for the lighting department be put back into the fund from which it came. I have no objection to the advertising, as I, myself, am a stockholder in the municipal plant, since I am a tax payer and am also a consumer. While the advertisement does not directly accuse me of working against the lighting department, yet since the suggestion was made to the council by me at the last meeting that the money be put back in the general fund, I want to repeat that the suggestion was originally made by the city controller, in the presence of a number of councilmen.

"As the matter went by without mention, Mr. Baade mentioned it to me again, and at our regular council meeting, August 22nd, while we were taking a recess waiting for the committee report to be made upon the budget, the president wanted to know if someone did not have something for the general good of the city. I took the opportunity of mentioning the suggestion made by Mr. Baade, and am very sorry that Mr. Baade was not present to introduce his argument in favor of this question. Possibly it is not good politics to bring up such matters, but since I agreed with Mr. Baade on this question, I felt it was my duty to put the question before the council. I believe as a member of the city administration, that we should settle these matters on a purely business basis.

"I asked that we cut out the light plant appropriation because the light plant can take care of itself and we need money from the general fund for many other purposes," Councilman J. B. Mills said Tuesday.

"We need money for added police protection, fire protection, paving of streets, street flushing and other things. The lighting plant is self-supporting, according to Controller Baade."

"In the first place I believe the municipal lighting plant was paid for by taxation, at the request of the majority of the voters, and now since it is on a good running basis; in fact they are making more than enough money to run the plant and take care of the improvements as they go along. If this was not the truth the utilities commission would not permit the low rate which we, as consumers, are permitted to enjoy. I understand from the controller the lighting department has an accumulation of $30,000 to their credit. If this is true, then why should we take money from the general fund?

"It must be borne in mind that this question came up because there was not enough money in the general fund to take care of the requirements, and which prompted Mr. Baade to suggest taking the $15,000 and put it back in the general fund. Mr. Baade shauld be given credit for the conserved and business manner in which he has tried to take care of the financial burdens of the city. Since he, himself, is a successful business man, his opinions on these matters should be given consideration. I am sure the general fund would be in better shape and we could take care of the city needs better if we acted more on his suggestion, of making both the city electric lighting and the waterworks departments pay their own expenses, particularly if they are financially able. I want to make it plain, however, that if either of these departments were in need, that I would be willing to help them out, but such is not the case at this time.

"There are many things needed for the city which have to be hampered because of lack of funds to carry out to the fullest extent.

"The question which I think requires earnest and unbiased consideration, is whether or not the electric lighting department and the water works department who are making more than enough money to take care of their business, should not pay into the general fund, or at least pay back the money that has been given them, not included in the original tax assessment in order that we might partly at least take care of some of the above necessities, and for which the taxpayers really think that their money is being paid for. There is only one way to answer this question, what would you do if the money belonged to you? We as citizens are stockholders in all three concerns, namely: City, Electric Light Plant and Water Works Department, because we paid for them through taxation and our tax duplicate is our stock certificate.

"The members of the city council are elected by the people as the board of directors to handle the business of all three concerns and the question now before this board, is whether we shall take the money that we have already given to the lighting department out of the general fund, which department is on good financial basis and making money for the taxpayers, or shall we leave the other business, namely: the City go backward, who is already in debt and cannot take care of the needed improvements and are not even able to increase the pay of their help. Now, do you consider, we take the money out of the city fund to help a prosperous concern that is making more than enough money to take care of their own improvements. Would it not be more logical and business like to take the money from the successful concern to help the one that is in need, or at least pay back what they borrowed. Possibly my judgment in this matter has not been good, but I acted in good faith and had only the general welfare of the city in mind at the time.

"I shall abide my opinion until it has been proven to me otherwise.

"This question really has never come up in council for general discussion, but if it ever does I am sure that the majority will give this question sincere consideration and will act according to their best judgment."

FAMOUS DRIVER TAKES DINNER IN FT. WAYNE

Ray McNay Stops in This City on His Way to Cincinnati Races.

Ray McNay, driving an Ostewig Special and accompanied by Bobby Gunderson, stopped in this city for dinner, Tuesday, while on his way to the big Cincinnati races Labor Day. The car that he is driving is one of the fastest entered in the big race. In a conversation with a Sentinel reporter he said he had made better than a hundred miles an hour in it on a good track. The machine had just finished a racing engagement at Kalamazoo where it gathered in real coin with the aid of McNay. The boys live in Leo, Ill., and are out for the summer racing season. The races Labor Day at Cincinnati are attracting as much attention as any other sporting event on that day. Some of the most noted drivers are entered and are to race for the $30,000 prize money. Dario Resta will try to keep his record clean and take the money, but while he is doing all that Gil Anderson will be thinking the same way. Anderson is Resta's most dangerous competitor and is vowing that he will demonstrate his superiority over the Italian. The other noted drivers are: Ralph DePalma, Mercedes; Eddie Rickenbacker, Maxwell; Ralph Mulfort, Peugeot; Pete Henderson, Maxwell; Josef Christeans, Sunbeam, and Ira Vail, Hudson.

J. FRANK'S PICTURE TURNS UP MISSING

Mystery Surrounds Case of Hanly Portrait at the State Capital.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 29.—It became known today, following a visit of Ed Donnell, clerk of the state board of printing and binding, to the office of Governor Ralston, that the big, framed photograph of J. Frank Hanly, prohibition candidate for president, had mysteriously disappeared from above the doorway of the state printing board's office. The picture, framed in yellow pine and secretly hung above Donnell's door while Donnell was away on his vacation, attracted wide attention at the state house and caused much talk among democrats who hold sway at the capitol.

When Donnell returned from his vacation he disclaimed knowledge of the picture. He was summoned to the office of Governor Ralston and an explanation was asked.

Donnell preferred to use the words of his seatmate at the statehouse, Ben Strickland, while he sought to explain his innocence in connection with the picture or to prove an alibi. He was pressed for something definite, but all he could say was that "the whole thing's decollete to me, governor."

When he was asked how the picture disappeared he referred questioners to Strickland, who disclaimed all knowledge of any theft, other than to declare that he understood the picture had been confiscated by the democratic state committee.

Myers has indicated that if identified by Butler he will not demand requisition papers, it is said. Butler expects to return with the prisoner next Saturday.

CITY MAY BUY BIG COMBINATION TRUCK

Motor Driven Machine to Be Demonstrated Before Officials.

Purchase of a five ton auto truck, to cost $6,500, and to be used for cleaning catch basins, street flushing and general trucking purposes, is being considered by Mayor Hosey, City Engineer Randall and members of the works board. Demonstration of the machine has been asked for by the officials.

R. H. Thompson, civil engineer of Seattle, Wash., representative of the company which manufactures the big car, presented several pictures of the truck at work before city officials Tuesday morning. He said the truck was being used in several large cities, including Seattle.

Chief use of the machine is for removing sand and other sediment from corner catch basins. The motor apparatus does this by a suction process. It is guaranteed to thoroughly clean at least fifty catch basins of ordinary size in a day. There are 3,000 catch basins on Fort Wayne street corners. They are cleaned once a year at a cost of $1 apiece. Often they fill up and clog the sewer in districts where much dirt is washed into them. They could be cleaned several times a year by using the motor driven apparatus.

The truck carries a combination for street flushing. The tank on the big car will hold 1,200 gallons of water. It could be used in summer for street cleaning. It can also be used for general trucking purposes and is equipped with a hoist for unloading its contents.

RAILWAY EARNINGS GREATER.

Increase of 12.4 Per Cent Show nin Weekly Reports to Dunn.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The total gross earnings of American railroads making weekly reports to Dunn's Review are placed for the first two weeks in August at $17,672,553, an increase of 12.4 per cent as compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

These figures are slightly more favorable than for the previous week, when the gain was 10.4 per cent, while, as compared with the same two weeks in 1914, when railroad earnings were the largest ever reported for this period, an improvement of approximately 9.6 per cent appears.

The most satisfactory feature of the returns is the unusual uniformity of the increases, every road included in this week's statement reporting more or less expansion over both previous years, which indicates that business activity is not confined to any particular part of the country.

FRED FIELDS TAKEN ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Leader of Strikebreakers is Accused of Hitting Workman.

Fred Fields, leader of the gang of men employed at the Western Gas plant, was arrested Tuesday afternoon on a charge of striking one of his workmen. Fields was released after putting up $50 bond at the police station. He will appear in court Wednesday.

Joseph Varsailles, Frenchman, employed at the plant for the past two weeks, and who worked under Fields at Findlay, signed the affidavit against Fields. He said Fields struck him twice when Varsailles asked to draw his pay Monday afternoon.

Varsailles has a badly strained wrist, which he tells was sustained as he fell to the floor from the second blow from Fields. Varsailles is being held in jail as a witness against Fields.

Varsailles tells that he was not being paid as much money as Fields paid the men at Findlay, and Varsailles objected. He said he should have received $4 a day and only got $3.50. When Varsailles said he would quit, Fields was angry and hit him, he told. Fields refused to make any comment on the affair.

PRAISES INDIANA PRISON.

Maude Ballington Booth Speaker at Chautauqua in Richmond.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 29.—Maude Ballington Booth, in her address at the Richmond chautauqua, paid high tribute to Indiana for prison reform work.

"We should choose for the heads of our penal institutions the cleanest, brightest and ablest men in the land," Mrs. Booth said. "In many states the prison warden's job is merely a political job. Thank God that is not the attitude of Indiana. It has been my joy to hold up Indiana as an example to other states. I believe your prison at Michigan City is the cleanest state prison in the United States."

Mrs. Booth, during her stay in Richmond, is the guest of the Federation of Woman's clubs here. She was introduced to the audience by Mrs. E. E. McDivitt.

HAKE IS DOWNHEARTED.

Sees Little Chance for Purdue in Football This Year.

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 29.—Capt. "Red" Hake is downhearted over Purdue's chances of football victory this season. He returned here today to take charge of the boilermakers' material in fall practice. "We are without a center, quarterback and ends, the most essential points on the team, and without good men for those positions it is impossible for Coach O'Donnell to turn out a team. Practice will start with the opening of school and Hake will assume the coaching responsibilities until conference rules permit the coach to take charge of the men."

CLEARYITES TO HAVE A REAL BALL GAME

Crack Payne Tossers Coming to Play Another Game in Series.

There can be no doubt concerning the game Sunday for it is an evident fact that Payne, O., has a fast ball club and will give the fans a fine exhibition of baseball. The last appearance of the Buckeyes here broke the ice and as the team gave the Clearyites such a drubbing the fans will turn out in mobs to see them try to duplicate. When the Payne tossers run up against the Clearyites this time they will find a different team, one that can and does play ball all the time.

The little backyard league between the Payne and Fort Wayne teams finds the standing as follows: Payne has played three, won two and lost one, while Fort Wayne has won one and lost two.

The battery for the Buckeyes will be Oestermeyer and Hargrave. In addition the crew has Andy Wares, Red Rabus and Chris Chambers, all of whom are fine ball players.

Labor Day.

The Fort Wayne Colored Giants will have another chance to whip the Clearyites when the two teams get together on Labor day. The management of the Giants are spending all kinds of money to get a lineup that will clean Cleary. Dupee and Wilson have secured Harrison, Carr, Bady and Simmons, four of the fastest men on the Lima Giants. In addition, West of the Louisville Black Sox, has been signed. Bullet Fields will again be seen on the mound and will furnish the same brand of pitching as he always has.

COLORADO'S ALTITUDE DOESN'T WORRY WHITE; CLIMBS TELEGRAPH POLES WHILE TRAINING!

LIGHTWEIGHT CHALLENGER DEPARTS FROM OLD CUSTOMS WHILE ON ROAD.

(By Harold Johnson.)

Colorado's justly celebrated altitude isn't worrying Charlie White in training for his twenty-round battle with Freddie Welsh for the world's lightweight championship at Colorado Springs Labor day.

Pipe this picture for the proof. The Chicago knockerout is seen ascending to the heights of a telegraph pole which chanced to catch his eye during a hike over the mountain roads near his camp. Climbing has been a part of White's daily work ever since he donned fighting togs and a little thing like altitude is the least of his worries.

Both principals in the big battle played safe by arriving upon the scene several days in advance of their titular scrap, and both are fast becoming acclimated. White, having fought twice in Denver, says he never experienced any ill effects from the atmosphere. One of his engagements went nineteen rounds before White's deadly left silenced Stanley Yoakum.

In addition to climbing telegraph poles while on the road White is an enthusiastic bicyclist and occasionally takes a load off his feet to clamber into the saddle of a two-wheeler.

When Coveleskie pitches for them, the Tigers usually pole out a victory.

That American league pennant race looks more and more like a plate of beans every day.

Alexander's pennant band appears to be playing ragtime music.

Frank Moran isn't the speediest boxfighter in the world but he's got something on Dutch Schaefer's phenom, who could run all day on a thin dime.

Fans in Brooklyn aren't a bit excited over the prospects of having a pennant winner. They're just as reserved as a flock of lions when the red meat is being served.

See where Tommy Ryan, former middle champ, is doing well with his boxing club in Syracuse. He's making money glove over glove.

Labor day has it's advantages. For instance it gives some of the star morning infielders a chance to butt into the fracas.

We have it straight from Frank Gotch that speed, endurance and skill are essential to a wrestler who is successful. Naturally the size of the purse hasn't a thing to do with it.

Popp and Plogsterth Reach the Semi-Finals in the City Tourney.

The doubles play of the Fort Wayne city tournament has progressed so nicely that the semi-finals have been reached. The pairing for next Saturday afternoon are Popp and Plogsterth vs. Bailhe and O'Rourke; Porter and Parry vs. Burton and Mulholland. The play of the Popp-Plogsterth and Bailhe-O'Rourke match will be watched with interest as it looks like a good bet that the winner will take the city title. The high school pair have been going fine this season and are due to upset the dope and make a clean win. Another match that will arouse interest is the Porter-Parry and Burton-Mulholland match. Here is another pair of high school stars pitted against experienced and star tennis wielders. The Burton-Mulholland pair are making a name for themselves this season and about ripe enough to fool some of the older ones. Mulholland is the youth that startled the tennis fans by his consistent winning in the northern Indiana tennis tournament in which he went up to the fourth round.

The singles of the city tournament are dragging along with hardly any interest at all. Not a single third round match has been played as yet and to reach the semi-finals by Saturday someone will have to do some tall hustling to get ready. George Bailhe and Clinton Burton wish to make it known that all third round matches must be played so they can make arrangements for the semi-finals at the Country club. The results of the play in the past few days are as follows: Stephens won from Mont, 6-0, 6-2; Mulholland defeated Frank, 6-3, 6-3. The rest of the second round matches that have not been reported to the committee as yet follow:

Dochterman vs. G. Gawhen, winner of which plays Burton; J. Berghoff vs. Parry, winner of which plays Stephens; O'Rourke vs. W. Berghoff, winner of which plays Mulholland. In the other third round contest Dr. Miles F. Porter, jr., the present city champion, meets George Bailhe.

The doubles results are as follows: Bailhe-O'Rourke won from Gawehn-Gawehn 6-3, 6-3; Carver-Lanche won from Fern-Schulte, 6-4, 2-6 and 7-5; Popp-Plogsterth won from Fischer-Stephens, 4-6, 6-4 and 6-3; Bailhe-O'Rourke won from Ortlieb-Skeer 6-3, 6-2; Porter-Parry won from Leucke-Kruse, 6-2 and 6-3; Burton-Mulholland won from Carver-Lansche 6-2, 6-1.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

LARRY CHENEY, BROOKLYN NATIONALS.

"I pitched my first curve ball in the National league during our last trip to Pittsburg. I have never had a curve, and every player and manager in the majors knows it.

"I have always depended on my fast one—my spitter—and using my head, but I have lately been working with a curve and think I will fool a lot of the wise boys.

"I took a chance in the fifth inning against Pittsburg when Bob Harmon was up with two out and we were four runs to the good. I offered Bob as nice a curve as you ever saw. He came near making a hit off me but McCarty made a great play and retired him. I'll try the experiment again."

"RED" FABER, CHICAGO WHITE SOX.

"Baseball would have been played generally in France this summer had it not been for the war. When the White Sox and Giants toured the world we found the citizens of Paris quite enthusiastic over the game.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see France adopt baseball as the national game at the close of hostilities. Look at the manner in which they took to boxing and the short time in which they produced good fighters of their own.

"Canadian soldiers have been playing baseball during their spare time at the front and in several games they have opposed teams made up of French sol-[illegible]

DIDN'T LIKE NEW BUNK CAR LOCATION

Eight Macedonians Strike When Car is Moved From Local Yards.

Because the company refused to grant their request to either have their bunk car removed down town or to put a watchman in it to prevent raids by hobos while the men were out of it, eight Macedonian section hands quit work on the Nickel Plate last night and are now seeking employment elsewhere. The strikers comprised the working force on section 72, which has its eastern terminus just west of the local yards. For some time their car was stationed on a siding near the knitting mills, but when the company commenced exchanging engines on its passenger trains at that point instead of down at the depot, the car was in the way and was moved down to a point near the G. R. & I. road. The men objected to the move at that time, but continued to work until last night, when they discovered a thief in the car at 5:30, in time to prevent a robbery. Then they told Foreman E. Duddleson that the car must be moved down town or a watchman provided and when he informed them that each proposition was impossible, they told him they would quit work and they did not show up this morning. Mr. Duddleson has been looking about for other men, but up to noon today had succeeded in getting only one.

All the men on the other sections are at work as usual and it is believed the places vacated by the Macedonians will soon be filled.

Federation of Labor Will Co-operate to Secure Students.

The members of the Federation of Labor in their meeting last night strongly endorsed the work of the vocational school, and instructed the delegates to co-operate in the work of securing students. The meeting was addressed by W. E. Gordon, the head of the vocational school in this city. Cards and printed matter were distributed explaining the courses and training offered at the school.

As was expected, the central body voted to demand a public hearing on the proposal to reduce the lighting rate from seven to six cents, the hearing to be given before the 15th of September.

F. E. Phelps was appointed chairman of the visiting committee, taking the place of F. J. Schwanz, who asked to be relieved because of the fact that he will be out of the city a large part of the time. J. J. Perry was also chosen a member of this committee. The central body voted to accept an invitation from Rev. D. H. Guild, pastor of the First Methodist church, to attend service on Sunday, September 3, when a special sermon appropriate for Labor day will be delivered.

NO LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Picnic Abandoned Because of Infantile Paralysis Rule.

For the first time in many years, Fort Wayne is to be entirely without a celebration of any kind on Labor day. This was decided last night when the Federation of Labor, at their meeting, voted to abandon the picnic and outing that had been planned for Centlivre park next Monday. The ruling of the board of health that no children are to be allowed to congregate is the reason for abandoning the celebration, as the federation feels that without the children, the outing would not be a success. Since the parade feature had already been given up, the prospect is that Fort Wayne is to have a Labor day without any celebration of any kind.

ATTENDED I NA BODY

Pennsy Blacksmith Shop Shut Down for Rehling Funeral.

erations at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop were almost entirely suspended this afternoon, in order that the men might attend the funeral of L. E. Rehling, who died last Saturday. Mr. Rehling was a veteran blacksmith, having started work for the Pennsylvania company in 1887, and with the exception of a few months when he worked at the B. & O. shops at Garrett, had been in the employ of the company continuously for the last twenty-nine years. He was forced to leave his forge about six months ago because of ill health.

BOY BANDIT PLEADS GUILTY AT SEYMOUR

Admits Shooting Woman in Effort to Rob Medora State Bank.

Seymour, Ind., Aug. 29.—Herschel Phillips, 17-year-old Medora bank bandit, pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill, as a result of his shooting and wounding Miss Mera Hunsucker, assistant cashier of the Medora State bank, who was in charge alone when Phillips attempted a holdup Friday. Bluford Phillips, elder brother of the bandit, held as an accessory, pleaded not guilty, and his case was continued until Friday. The young men were brought here for arraignment from New Albany, where they were held two days to avoid possible violence in Jackson county.

The Phillips brothers arrived here at 2 o'clock in charge of Sheriff Van Robertson and Deputy Ed Snyder of Jackson county. They were arraigned immediately before C. L. D. Wilson, justice of the peace, this city also being in Jackson county.

Bluford Phillips later was taken to jail at Brownstown, the county seat, while Herschel was taken to Columbus to be held for some time. Sheriff Robertson said he did not care to invite violence by taking the young bandit back to Brownstown, and also desired to have the brothers in separate jails. He is convinced that the elder brother had a part in planning the holdup.

RUMANIA SETS OUT REASONS

Interests and National Aspirations of Rumania Threatened.

Bucharest, Aug. 28.—(Via Petrograd and London, Aug. 29.—7:19 a. m.)—The causes which led Rumania to declare war on Austria-Hungary are set forth in a note presented to Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian minister to Rumania, after a meeting of the Rumanian crown council, which it was decided to declare. Summarized, the reasons given are:

The triple alliance, to which Rumania was a party, was broken when Italy declared war against Austria.

Austria-Hungary threatened the interests and national aspirations of Rumania.

Austria-Hungary's assurances that it was not inspired by a spirit of conquest or territorial gains, in attacking Serbia, have not been fulfilled.

Rumania was confronted with territorial and political changes menacing her future.

Regarding the Triple Alliance.

The note, after defining the purpose of the triple alliance, as constituted prior to the war and after declaring that this alliance no longer existed, after Italy declared war upon Austria-Hungary, read as follows:

"Rumania remained in the peace group of states, seeking to work in agreement in order to assure peace and to conserve the situation de facto and dejure created by treaties. Rumania then found herself in the presence of powers making war for the sole purpose of transforming from top to bottom the old arrangements which had served as a basis for their treaty of alliance. These changes were for Rumania proof that the object she pursued in joining the triple alliance no longer could be attained and that she must direct her efforts in new paths, especially as the work undertaken by Austria-Hungary threatened the interests of Rumania and her national aspirations.

"The neutrality which Rumania imposed upon itself in consequence of a declaration of war made independently of its will, and contrary to its interests, had been adopted as the results of assurances that Austria-Hungary, in declaring war against Serbia, was not inspired by a spirit of conquest or of territorial gains. These assurances have not been realized.

Grave Menace Seen.

"Today we are confronted by a situation de facto threatening great territorial transformations and political changes of a nature constituting a grave menace to the future of Rumania. The work of peace which Rumania attempted to accomplish in a spirit of faithfulness to the triple alliance, thus was rendered barren by the very powers called upon to defend it.

"In adhering, in 1883, to the group of central powers, Rumania was far from forgetting the bonds of blood constituting between them a pledge for her domestic transquility, as well as for the improvement of the lot of the Rumanians of Austria-Hungary. In fact, Germany and Italy, who re-constituted their states on the basic principle of nationality, could not but recognize the legitimacy of the foundation upon which their own existence reposed.

"As for Austria-Hungary, she found in the friendly relations established between her and Rumania, assurance of tranquility both in her interior and on our common frontiers, for she was bound to know to what extent the discontent of her Rumanian population found echo amongst us, threatening our good relations.

"For a period of thirty years, the Rumanians of Austria-Hungary not only never saw a reform introduced, but instead, were treated as an inferior race and condemned to suffer the oppression of a foreign element which constitutes only a minority amidst the diverse nationalities constituting the Austro-Hungarian states.

"All the injustices our brothers thus were made to suffer maintained between our country and the monarchy a continual state of animosity. At the outbreak of the war, Austria-Hungary made no effort to ameliorate these conditions. After two years of war, Austria-Hungary showed herself as prompt to sacrifice her peoples, as powerless to defend them. The war in which almost the whole of Europe is partaking, raises the gravest problems affecting the national development and very existence of the states.

"Rumania, from a desire to hasten the end of the conflict and to safeguard her racial interests, sees herself forced to enter into line by the side of those who are able to assure her realization of her national unity. For these reasons Rumani considers herself, from this moment, in a state of war with Austria-Hungary."

DIPLOMAT IS MISSING.

Berlin Cannot Locate Rumanian Minister to Germany.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—The people of Berlin received with remarkable calmness and resignation the announcement of Rumania's declaration of war against Austria-Hungary and the German government's step in recalling its minister to Bucharest and declaring that a state of war exists between the two countries. The situation was discussed tonight in all the cafes with the feeling that one more or less makes no difference. The announcement in the German official report that Rumanians had been taken prisoner was greeted with general satisfaction, some of the evening papers pointing out that the central powers were not sleeping, as the public might have thought.

Meanwhile Berlin has a little Ru-

[illegible] Bucharest, Aug. 29, to the Rumanian minister. It was stated yesterday that he was at his home in a watering place, but inquiries showed that he was not there and had not been there. At the Rumanian legation tonight it was stated that the minister would be in evidence tomorrow morning. Since early morning the Rumanian consulate and legation have been besieged by Rumanian residents of Berlin to whom the declaration of war came like a bomb out of blue sky, no warning of any sort having reached them. Rumanians crowding the legation spoke bitterly of their government for thus leaving them in the dark, but realized this was done to conceal the intentions of the Rumanian government. Some of them said they were certain unusual pressure was brought to bear upon King Ferdinand at the meeting of the Rumanian crown council, which decided upon a declaration of war, and they were sure that otherwise he would not have attached his signature to the necessary documents. The German press generally seems to share in this belief.

ELECTRICIAN ROASTS TO DEATH IN A BOX

Current of 13,500 Volts Sends Death in Frightful Form.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—While Charles Burns, an electrician, was working in a large transformer box 13,200 volts of electricity were suddenly switched on and before horrified fellow workers could turn off the current he was literally torn and roadster to death.

The fatality occurred in the new munitions factory of the Baldwin Locomotive works at Eighteenth and Hamilton streets. Burns, an employe of the Philadelphia Electric company, was aiding in the installation of electrical equipment.

According to employes who witnessed the accident the current had been switched off so that Burns could adjust the brushes in the rotary transformer box in the basement of the plant. He had been working in the box but a few moments when some one turned a switch and the death-dealing voltage shot through him.

His clothes were burned off and his body burned black. A hole was torn in his left jaw, his chest torn open and his body almost seared in two at the waist.

For probably three minutes doctors at the Garretson hospital said, the current coursed through him. When it was turned off he hung lifeless on the electric brushes.

When the hospital doctors reached the scene the body was still in the box, and they assisted in removing it.

At the office of the Philadelphia Electric company it was asserted that Burns had met death in a "bus structure," and not a transformer, and that it was not part of his duties to approach the structure.

Burns was 20 years old and lived at 2050 East Bellmore avenue.

All these ships now are in a state of "material readiness for war," according to Admiral Benson, chief of operations.

All public schools, including the Fort Wayne high and manual training school, will open on October 1, according to the ruling of the school board, which met in regular session Monday afternoon, in the office of Superintendent Justin N. Study. A few days ago when the ruling was made by the board of health, it was thought that the high school would open for junior and senior classes, but the board was of the opinion that too much confusion would result from this method.

MAKES PLEA FOR STATES

Federal Government Should Not Levy Inheritance Tax, Says Speaker.

WISCONSIN TAX EXPERT IS HEARD

National Conference on Taxation Under Way at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 29.—A plea that the right to raise revenue by means of the inheritance tax be permitted to remain with the states and not be usurped by the federal government was voiced at today's session of the tenth national conference on taxation by Nils P. Haughen, chairman of the Wisconsin tax commission.

He urged the members of the conference to get in communication with their United States senators and "call their attention to the objectionable features" connected with the inheritance tax bill now pending before the finance committee of the United States senate.

Says States Need It.

Mr. Haugen contended that nearly all of the states had adopted inheritance tax methods, that the states need the revenue more than the federal government and that the administration of the inheritance tax, which he said was particularly burdensome on the taxpayers, fits well in to our state governmental machinery, while it does not adapt itself to federal laws. He declared there was no pressing need why the federal government should resort to this method of taxation.

The report of the committee on federal income tax as read by Alfred E. Holcomb, of New York, treasurer of the national association, suggests that the members of the association as such, leave the advocacy of plans to secure greater uniformity and equity in tax laws before legislative bodies, to organizations of tax payers and business men.

Round Table Discussion.

The morning session of the conference was given over to a round table discussion of "tax laws and administration," which was presided over by John B. Phillips, chairman of the Colorado tax commission. The program given this afternoon was originally planned for tonight, but was advanced to make room for a banquet and entertainment arranged for the members.

Other speeches on the program today included the presidential address of Samuel T. Howe, president of the association and chairman of the Kansas tax commission, and an address by Dr Adam Short, member of the civil service commission of Canada, who spoke on "Some Aspects of Canadian War Finance."

Members of the Real Estate exchange declared they desire to comply with all orders which are designed to check infantile paralysis. Many members of the exchange have children who would have attended the picnic.

FOOD INSPECTOR IN SOLDIERS' KITCHEN

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 29.—In each kitchen of the Massachusetts camp an officer will be stationed daily hereafter to inspect food, both during and after cooking, and to make note of any complaints of militiamen of the fare. This order was issued today by Gen LeRoy Sweetser, commanding the Massachusetts brigade, and is an army innovation that rather startled some of the regiments. But the general, on the theory that a well fed army is a contented one, has decided that a company officer must be on duty in every kitchen during the mess hours.

A number of new Carranza troops arrived in Juarez today, but it was said at the American military headquarters that these were doubtless concentrating in readiness for the withdrawal of the Pershing expedition.

GRAPE CROP WILL BE FAIR ONE THIS FALL

Tomatoes Remain at the High Price of $1.60 Per Bushel.

Farmers throughout Allen county state that the grape crop will be a fairly good one this fall. The vines are well filled and the bunches are large. A few of the early grapes were on market Tuesday morning. Tomatoes, which are said to be scarce, remained at $1.60 a bushel, with a slight indication that the price might go lower in a few days.

With the markets on the large trading centers getting weaker and falling off as much as 8c, it is very likely that local wheat prices will start on the decline in a day or so. Local dealers kept their prices at $1.43 and $1.45 per bushel. The other grain markets held steady and no change in prices was quoted.

The live stock market is also holding very steady but buyers are unable to predict which way the market is going. Locally top hogs are still being bought at $10.25 per hundredweight.

Corn reflected the wheat strength. After opening ⅛c to ¾c lower, the market rose to well above yesterday's level.

Oats tood the same course as other cereals.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 29.—Heaviness ruled at the opening of today's market, the acute railway labor situation contributing largely to that condition. Reading and Union Pacific lost a point or more with equal or greated celines in Studebaker, Crucible, Marine common and American Can, while Tennessee Copper yielded over two points. Metals were more steady but minor industrials, including Colorado Fuel, Republic and Lackawanna Steels and Mexicans lost substantial fractions. Among the few offsetting features were "Soo" preferred, which rose over four points, and Pacific Mail, which gained almost two.

Selling became almost precipitate later, Marine proving the only noteworthy exception on its advance of 1⅜ points. Declines were accelerated by the vague character of the news from Washington which found further reflection in the heaviness of rails and other high grade issues. Among the weakest specialties was Studebaker, which broke over four points on extensive offerings in connection with reports of new financing by that company. Other motor stocks weakened in sympathy and munitions and equipments added to early losses. Pressure relaxed somewhat before midday with moderate rallies. Bonds were lower.

JUDGE PUTNAM WITHDRAWS

Says Boston & Maine Bill Attacks Integrity of Court.

Boston, Aug. 29.—United States Circuit Judge Wm. L. Putnam today withdrew from the Boston & Maine railroad receivership proceedings because of a bill filed by counsel for minority stockholders, which, according to Judge Putnam, attacked the integrity of the court. Judge Putnam further ordered that the bill be sent to the office of the federal district attorney for investigation by the grand jury. James H. H. Hustis, president of the Boston & Maine, was appointed temporary receiver of the road.

TEXAS PUTS UP THE BARS.

Declares Quarantine Against World on Account of Child Plague.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 29.—The Texas health board has declared a quarantine against the world to arrest the spread of infantile paralysis. The resolution was adopted yesterday at a session of the board. Children under 16 years of age entering the state must show certificates of good health signed by authorized health officers at the border. The quarantine becomes effective at once.

FIRST MORTGAGES PROTECT BABY BONDS

Investors in Baby Bonds are assured of the soundness of this security by the fact that they are secured by first mortgages on local real estate, which is regarded as the most staple of all values. For this reason, Baby Bonds not only appeal to the usual purchasers of bonds but also to those who cannot afford to speculate in making an investment. Baby Bonds are in $10 denominations and pay six per cent. interest. There are also a number of larger bonds of the same issue which come in $500 denominations with the same security and the same rate of interest. Full details regarding either may be secured from the Wildwood Sales company, Shoaff building.—Advertisement.

WOMEN FINED FOR ATTEMPTED HOLDUP

Farmer Lad Tells Police His Life Was Threatened With Knife.

A farmer youth, all out of breath and very pale, told a patrolman at the corner of Lafayette and Holman streets Monday night, that a colored woman had threatened to cut his heart out if he did not give her money. The lad described the two women whom he said had stopped him on the street.

May Dunn, 25, colored, and Bernice White, 30, also colored, were arrested. The Dunn woman had a big jack-knife in her belt. The women told in police court, Tuesday morning, that they were from Detroit. May Dunn was fined $35 and costs and Mrs. White, $25 and costs. Mrs. White paid her fine but her companion went to jail.

Defer Redmerski's Hearing.

Joe Redmerski, forger, who escaped from the county jail three weeks ago, and who was captured in Cleveland, Sunday, will have a hearing in about a week, Judge Kerr decided Tuesday morning. Arrival of officers from Jeffersonville reformatory is awaited.

Redmerski refuses to give any clue as to the whereabouts of William Schidler, the youth who broke from both the county and city jails. Redmerski said a door was open on the east side of the police station and sheltered the two men from the view of two officers, who stood near at hand, when Redmerski and his partner wormed through the little cellar window and creeped along the side of the police station at midnight three weeks ago. Redmerski, who is now wearing a gray suit, said he sold his blue suit for $4 in order to change his disguise.

Continue Trespass Case.

Louis Jocquez refused to allow burlesque show bills pasted in the window of his store room on North Calhoun street and later he found the interior of his store streaked with green paint, he told in court. As Herman Selman, billposter for the Majestic theatre, had asked to put bills in the window, he was arrested on suspicion of being the person who damaged the store room.

Selman said he did not enter the store. Sergeant Detective Junk is said to know more of the case and will be called to testify, Wednesday morning.

Other Police Cases.

Minnie Cannon, colored, will be tried Thursday, on an intoxication charge. She was arrested late Monday night.

Christ Richard, who has not been drunk "since the last administration," before Monday night, he says, was released after pleading guilty to an intoxication charge. John Walsh will be tried Thursday on a similar charge.

William McAdams, colored, drunk, $5 and costs; Chief Mango, Indian, 30, drunk, $5 and costs; James Burns, drunk, $1 and costs.

Plans for New Building Will Be Submitted at That Time.

The executive board of the Hope hospital will meet in regular session on Friday evening, September 8, at which time the architect who has been engaged for the past few weeks on the drawing of plans for the new hospital to be located on South Clinton street will present them to the board. Alterations and changes in the plans and specifications will be discussed at this time.

From various sources it is understood that on offer will be made to the board in regards to the selling of the old building and the property on which it is now located. It is said that a fraternal order is considering purchasing the property. However, nothing definite can be ascertained.

Presumably the old building is to be torn away and a large modern five story building will take its place.

As soon as the plans for the new building are approved and accepted by the board, work will begin on the new building. All preliminary work is to be finished by next spring and work on the new building will be started. However, the committee is anxious to dispose of the old property before the new one is started.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Sig W. Kann, of Ligonier, democratic candidate for state statistician, was in Fort Wayne Monday. He called on party workers. He has visited 27 counties. Mr. Kann declares he found the German sentiment molding strong with Wilson throughout the state. Mr. Kann will make every county in the district twice, he says. The candidate said the voters knew Root would be secretary-of-state and Roosevelt secretary-of-war if Hughes was elected.

"Silks Not Alarmingly Increased; Fall Silks Coming at Comparatively Low Prices," Says Mr. H. Clauser, Buyer for Grand Leader.

The war has hit the silk market, of course, just the same as it has every other commodity, but it has not sent prices sky-high, as some buyers would make the public believe," said Mr. H. Clauser, in conversation with a Sentinel reporter today. "While today's market quotations on silks are higher than the silks could be bought for a year ago, yet we were fortunate in placing our orders six and eight months ago at practically the old prices and we are in a position to sell these goods today at a very slight advance.

"I recently noticed an article in a local paper to the effect that silks have increased from 30 to 50 per cent. The fact of the matter is, I just returned from the New York market, having spent a week there in the interests of my departments, and did not find a single instance where silks were increased 50 per cent, and I am at a loss to know why such an erroneous statement would be made. The public need not be alarmed about the prices as things are not as bad as they are painted."

This is a somewhat different story than the article published in a local paper a few days ago in which the views of several local silk buyers were quoted and in which they stated that silks are coming in at an increase of 30 to 50 per cent.

NOTIFY SHIPPERS OF THE STRIKE CRISIS

Railroad Chiefs Begin to Flash the Warning to Business Men.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Chicago railroad officials began verifying early in the afternoon yesterday the report emanating from labor circles that the general chairmen of the four brotherhoods had left Washington with the orders in their pockets to call a strike at 7 o'clock next Monday morning, if a settlement had not been reached with the managers in the meantime.

The Erie railroad was the first to begin notifying Chicago shippers of the possibilities ahead as a result of the action, producing a telegram from President Underwood to the general manager.

Flash Prepare Message.

"The date for the strike has been set for 7 o'clock in the morning, Sept. 4," read the message that was flashed all over Chicago. "The general chairmen have left Washington with instructions to call the strike. A committee of twelve was left along with the grand officers. If no agreement is reached before Moiday they will call the negotiations off."

Railroad representatives have as yet developed nothing more substantial for operating trains in case of a strike than general plans, it was admitted on all sides yesterday.

Denies Union of Effort.

"It is untrue that the railroads have joined together in one big move to operate under an agreement," H. E. Bryam, vice president of the Burlington, said last night in denying reports of wholesale hiring of men to break a probable strike.

"We are all working on our own plans as far as plans have been made. We intend to try to operate our trains and we believe that enough of our men will be loyal to do this. In fact, we are counting on a large part of our men sticking with us."

"How long would it take to break the strike?"

"That is hard to estimate. No one can guess. The unions are strong, but there are too many other conditions that enter to make any guesses."

Still Hopeful of Peace.

"I am still hoping that peace will be preserved in some way," R. W. Nicol, local representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said, at the same time insisting that only the men in Washington were in a position to talk authoritatively. "Our organization has an excellent record as a peaceful organization. Bnut the men want the eight hour day and they are entitled to it."

Business Men Keep Up Fight.

Chicago busines sinterests continued their fight for the establishment of the arbitration principle in settlement of the rilroad controversy, with the lumbermen's association of Chicago joining the ranks with a telegram to President Wilson. The Illinois Manufacturers' association, at the same time, made public the program adopted for today's meeting at the LaSalle hotel, where manufacturing and industrial representatives will frame a protest against throwing overboard arbitration to be carried directly to Washington.

The lumbermen's association plea to the president, signed by President Herman H. Hettler, sent yesterday, follows:

"We sincerely hope that owing to the critical conditions as applies to the railroad stuation, you will truly represent the people as a whole, insisting upon a thorough investigation of all the subjects at interest and the settlement of the controversy on the basis of arbitration."

RAIL NEGOTIATIONS OFF

BROTHERHOODS MAKE STRIKE ORDER DEFINITE AS WILSON ASKS LAWS TO AVERT BREAK

Washington, Aug. 29.—President Wilson laid the threatened railway strike before congress today in an address to both houses assembled in joint session. He spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the congress: I have come to you to seek your assistance in dealing with a very grave situation which has arisen out of the demand of the employes of the railroads engaged in freight train service that they be granted an eight-hour working day, safeguarded by payment for an hour and a half of service for every hour of work beyond the eight.

"The matter has been agitated for more than a year. The public has been made familiar with the demands of the men and the arguments urged in favor of them and even more familiar with the objections of the railroads and their counter demand that certain privileges now enjoyed by their men and certain bases of payment worked out through many years of contest be reconsidered, especially in their relation to the adoption of an eight-hour day. The matter came, some three weeks ago, to a final issue, and resulted in a complete deadlock between the parties.

Legal Means Failed.

"The means provided by law for the mediation of the controversy failed and the means of arbitration for which the law provides were rejected. The representatives of the railway executives

Order for Strike to Start on Labor Day

Washington, Aug. 29.—Copies of the tentative strike order sent out by the rail brotherhoods, fixing Labor Day, Sept. 4, as the date for the strike, were made public here last night. The strike order is brief. It is addressed to all members of the four brotherhoods, is signed by the various general chairmen and reads as follows:

"Sirs and Brothers: This is to advise that the vote of the employes in train and engine service on the eight hour day and time and one-half overtime proposed, was overwhelmingly in favor of a strike.

"Notwithstanding this, your representatives have been unable to effect a satisfactory settlement and a strike under the laws of the respective organizations becomes effective on September 4, 1916, at 7 a. m.

"Impart this information so those interested will understand that they are to obey promptly."

Duties of Members.

On a separate sheet the duties of members and officers in the conduct of a strike are set forth. Particular emphasis is placed on conducting the proposed strike as peacefully as possible. Among the duties of members set forth are these:

"No man in road service involved in the strike will perform any service after the hour set to strike, unless he has already begun a trip and has actually left the terminal. If the train has left the terminal he will complete the trip and deliver the engine and train at the end of the run, or tie up point if tied up under the law, after which he will perform no further service until the close of the strike. Men in other than road service will leave the service at the appointed time.

"So far as your legal right to strike is concerned, there is no difference between a mail train and a freight train. You have identically the same right to refuse to perform service on a mail train as you have to refuse to perform service on a freight train.

"All men on strike will keep away from the company's property except such men as are designated certain duties to be performed by the authority of organizations.

"Every man should understand that the laws of the land must be obeyed. Acts of violence of any nature will not be tolerated by the organizations."

ESCAPED YOUTH HAS RETURNED TO HOME

Fifth Lad to Break Away From Institution Got Tired and Came Back.

Norman Vincent, 16, for four years an inmate of the school for feeble minded youths, and who escaped from the institution early Monday morning, came shuffling back to the big hall Monday night. He had run and walked five miles from the farm and growing tired had turned around and made his way back. He is back to stay, he says.

The four young men, two of whom had been in the institution for eight years, and who ran away from the place Sunday night, have not been located. No trace of the direction in which they traveled has been learned by officers of the home. The young men are absolutely harmless.

"Their leaving is due to their personal belief that they should not be in such an institution," one of the officials said Tuesday. "All the young men here think that all the other young men should be here but themselves. Their minds are childish and the runaways will soon be returned. Escape from the home is easy as there are no walls about the farm. Of the 1,340 patients on the farm the percentage of those who try to get away is remarkably few."

PLANS COMPLETE FOR THE JEWISH NEW YEAR

The Jewish New Year's service, which takes place on September 27 and 28, will be held by the congregation of the children of Israel in the hall of the new Moose home. The services for the day of atonement on October 7 will be held at the same place, the congregation having rented the hall for those days.

Rumanians Aim at Mountain Passes on Hungarian Border.

Monarch Leaves Bucharest for the Front to Direct the Fighting.

London, Aug. 29.—Desperate fighting on the border between Rumania and Hungary is reported in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Berne, Switzerland. The Rumanians, the message says, are making furious efforts to capture the important mountain passes.

A Hague dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company says the Rumanian minister to Berlin leaves that city and that he requested a special interview with the imperial chancellor Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg last night, but it was promptly refused.

A British official statement regarding military operations in Greece issued this afternoon says: "There were no developments on the Struma or Doiran fronts."

Meeting is Scheduled for Sept. 5, New Township Trustee States.

Annual meeting of the Wayne township advisory board will be held September 5, when appropriations to cover township expense will be placed in the budget. Allen Hamilton, Wayne township trustee, said Tuesday that he would ask a considerable appropriation to cover expense of school buildings upkeep and yards.

The advisory board met Monday and approved the report of H. P. Scherer, Wayne township trustee, who was ousted from office. The report of the accountants was also examined, and approved.

Trip Over Township.

Mr. Hamilton made a trip over parts of the township Tuesday. He inspected work on the Simons road and visited the orphans' home, where, he states, school will open next Tuesday. He found the orphans' home in good condition. Miss Teresa Hammond is teacher at the home and Mrs. Overmeyer, superintendent. Papering has been done at the orphans' home and the improvement was noted by the trustee.

At the meeting of the advisory board September 5 Mr. Hamilton says the township tax levy for 1917 will be made. The present levy is 64 cents on the $100 and the next levy will not reduce that figure nor exceed it.

At the same time the president signed the new uniform bill of lading law. He was surrounded by chairmen and members of the house and senate committees and army and navy officers. Moving picture cameras recorded the event.

Mr. Fairbanks' speech will be short, but will touch on all the leading issues of the campaign. Mr. Fairbanks has telegraphed to Mr. Willcox, Mr. Hitchcock and Mr. Hert, asking them to be his guests with Senator Sherman and the committee during their stay in Indianapolis.

Mr. Hert will arrive in Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon for a conference with the nominee. He will bring with him Ralph D. Cole, chairman of the speakers' bureau, and the three will map out Mr. Fairbanks' campaign plans.

MICHIGAN VOTERS HOLDING PRIMARY

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 29.—Candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, United States senator, representatives in congress and for the state legislature are being chosen by the voters of Michigan in state-wide primary today. There were virtually no contests in the democratic ranks and interest centered principally in the fight for the republican nomination for governor in which five candidates participated. Five also sought the nomination as lieutenant governor on the republican ticket. Charles H. Bender, of Grand Rapids, and General John P. Kirk, of Ypsilanti, respectively candidates for governor and lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket.

FUNERAL RITES HELD FOR NOTED CHURCHMAN

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 29.—Solemn and impressive ceremonies attended the burial here today of John Lancaster Spalding, Archbishop of Scitopolis and noted educator and author who died Aug. 26, following a long illness. Services were held in St. Mary's cathedral, where he presided for many years as bishop of Peoria.

Escorted by uniformed guards the body was taken to the cemetery and placed in a temporary vault pending the construction of a permanent memorial chapel planned by Archbishop Spalding before his death. Flags flew at half mast in Peoria today and many business places were closed at the hour of the funeral.

FEDERAL CAMPAIGN ON PLAGUE TO END SOON

New York, Aug. 29.—The federal campaign here against infantile paralysis may be concluded by September 15, Dr. Charles E. Banks, senior surgeon in charge of the certificates of travelers out of New York, said today.

"I think we will have accomplished our objects by that time and that the cases will be down to ten a day," Dr. Banks said. "That figure will not be normal but for all practical purposes it will be negligible."

An increase of thirty new cases and seven deaths was shown in the report for the 24 hours ending at 10 a. m. today. New cases numbered 73, deaths 12.

Reed Says Change Would Mean a Plunge Into War

Washington, Aug. 29.—Reviewing the record of the democratic administration, Senator Reed, of Missouri, told the senate today that the republican party demanded a change, which if granted by the people, would mean the precipitation of America into war and the undoing of national prosperity, built up by industrial, commercial and banking reforms during the term of President Wilson.

"If Mr. Hughes is to be elected to the presidency," said Senator Reed, "then it is notice to all the world that America has repudiated Wilson's policy of peace for the Roosevelt-Hughes policy of war.

"Let the issue be not misunderstood; we know, the world knows that Woodrow Wilson will maintain peace unless the nation's honor is assailed. Thoughtful men know that a president advised by Roosevelt, in accord and in agreement with Roosevelt, will stir up war if possible."

Senator Reed referred to Mr. Hughes' criticisms of the administration policy and reviewed the utterances of Mr. Roosevelt since the war. He declared Mr. Hughes "in complete accord with a man who has persistently insisted we should have intervened against Germany when she invaded Belgium; in complete accord with a man who refers in coarse language to the president as a 'molly-coddle,' a man of weasel words, in complete accord with a man who falsely asserts that we were bound by treaty to engage in the conflict against Germany."

Dr. Smith Says It is Essential They Know Students' Minds.

DR. GEISEL SPEAKS TUESDAY MORNING

About 350 Pedagogues Are in Attendance at Annual Institute Meeting.

Dr. A. T. Smith, principal of the Thomas Normal Training school, Detroit, declared Tuesday morning before Allen county teachers in institute at the high school building that it was essential for teachers to know the character of the minds they educated and that the emotional and volitional elements of a student's mind were as important as the thought element. His talk was a continuation of the subject, "The Concept."

Rev. Harry L. Overdeer, pastor of the Simpson M. E. church, gave the invocation. D. O. McComb, county school superintendent, presided and made announcements.

Are Not Experimentors.

"It is not your province to be experimentors in pedagogy," declared the speaker. "Pedagogy is the science of problems of other realms. It makes no difference how some one else might have succeeded in the place you are in, it is a matter of how you will succeed in it."

"The greatest trouble with mathematics comes because we can't read. We don't think values." The realms of actuality, thinking and language must be brought into harmony. Pedagogy in many ways is a dependent science and in others strictly independent."

Davis on Program.

Prof. A. H. Davis, of Johnstown, Pa., gave the regular period to music instruction during the morning. Mrs. Gertrude Green Young appeared in readings, and Dr. Carolyn Geisel delivered her

He stated he did not see Mannis as he turned to go around a repair wagon near which Mannis was welding rails.

HARLAN UNDERTAKER SUFFERS A STROKE

Ensign Carrington, a well known undertaker at Harlan, was suddenly stricken with paralysis Monday afternoon in his barn where he had gone to hitch up a team of horses for a funeral.

Mr. Carrington was apparently in the best of health and while engaged in hitching the team to the hearse he suffered the stroke and was carried into his house by men in the barn. His condition is regarded as extremely serious.

AGENTS HEAR TALKS ON RISKS TUESDAY

Lincoln Life Convention is Attended by Forty Field Workers.

Forty agents of the Lincoln Life Insurance company heard Arthur F. Hall, vice president; Drs. C. H. English and S. A. Barlow, medical examiners; Franklin B. Mead, secretary and actuary, and Miss A. H. O'Rourke, in charge of the new business department, give talks at the morning session Tuesday of the three days' convention in the Lincoln Life building. A. F. Hall presided.

Dr. English Speaks.

Dr. English spoke of the growing necessity in insurance fields of careful medical examination of applicants for insurance. Mr. Mead said the question of rejected risks was a serious one as the company desired to give the agents and the company all the business possible without taking a risk. The Lincoln Life was shown to have a low rate of rejection based on physical impairments, occupations and moral hazards. During 1915, he said, but two cases were rejected because of physical impairment and one because of moral hazard, coupled with the feature of occupation.

Tuesday afternoon the agents were taken for an auto drive of the city and a ball game and field sports were to be indulged. Tonight at the Hotel Anthony at 6:30 o'clock the banquet will be held.

Program for Banquet.

Samuel M. Foster, president of the Lincoln Life Insurance company, will preside at the banquet of agents. The speakers will be Rev. Arthur J. Folsom, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church; B. Paul Mossman, vice president of the Lincoln Life Insurance company; Irving Williams, associate editor of Rough Notes, Indianapolis; Louis A. Hebert, president of Melting Pot Sales association, Chicago; Arthur F. Hall, vice president and general manager of the Lincoln Life, and Walter T. Shepard, vice president and manager of agencies.

It is expected that the owner will return in a few days and as soon as he arrives the committee will hold a meeting with him and consider terms.

BABE'S BODY IN A SHOE BOX.

Remains of Infant Cast Up by River at Evansville.

Funeral for Late E. A. K. Hackett at the First Presbyterian Church.

Bell at Winona Lake Tolls Out News of Mr. Hackett's Demise.

Funeral services for the late E. A. K. Hackett, publisher and owner of The Sentinel, who died at the St. Joseph hospital, Monday afternoon, following an operation for gallstones from which he had been suffering since last Wednesday, when he was stricken suddenly at his summer home at Winona Lake, will be held at the First Presbyterian church, Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

Rev. Henry B. Master, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was a ruling elder, will officiate, assisted by Dr. D. W. Moffat, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian church, and Dr. S. C. Dickey, of Winona Lake, a brother-in-law of the deceased. The burial will be private.

The death of Mr. Hackett came as a shock and surprise. Only a few of his most intimate friends knew of his illness and even they did not realize the seriousness of it until Sunday when he was taken for the worse. It was then that an operation seemed to be the only means by which his life could be saved.

Mr. Hackett made a brave fight and accepted the inevitable with courage and confidence. It is believed that from the first he realized the seriousness of his condition. However, he bore his suffering without complaint.

The sorrow and heartaches occas-

Factory Inspector, Who is Here, Operates Under Provisions.

The workmen's compensation law was one of the best pieces of legislation ever enacted into law, according to M. M. Murphy, of Elwood, a factory inspector, who is in Fort Wayne for a visit with T. A. Wilkinson, county school attendance officer. Mr. Murphy is taking a two weeks' vacation. He has eighteen counties under his charge, his territory being in central Indiana.

Mr. Murphy makes thorough investigations of accidents in factories together with inspection of factories. He says the compensation law has been alike an advantage to insurance companies and factory employes seeking adjustments. Mr. Murphy has served a year of his office term.

HETTY GREEN HEIR IS INMATE OF POOR FARM

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 29.—Contending that William P. Grinnell, an inmate of its poor farm, was entitled to $20,000 of the $1,500,000 estate of the late Sylvia Ann Howland, which was released by the death recently of Mrs. Hetty Green, the town of Tewksbury today filed in the superior court here a bill in equity to establish its claim against Grinnell for shelter and food furnished him for nine years.

Judge Fox granted the town's petition for a temporary injunction restraining Grinnell from receipt or disposal of the property.

Edward H. R. Green, of New York, and Texas, son of Mrs. Green, Henry B. Day of Boston, and Oliver Prescott of New Bedford, trustees of the Howland will, are joined with Grinnell as defendants in the proceedings.

TODAY'S DEVELOPMENTS IN RAILWAY STRIKE SITUATION

Washington, August 29.—A summary of developments in the strike situation follows:

Negotiations between the railroads and the brotherhoods through President Wilson definitely broken off.

The brotherhood leaders definitely ordered the strike to begin at 7 a. m. Labor Day, unless the order is countermanded and declared that only a settlement favorable to the men could change it.

President Wilson prepared to go before congress in joint session at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon with proposals to prevent the strike. The latest authentic outline of the proposal is as follows:

Increase of the interstate commerce commission from seven to nine members. An eight-hour law for railroad employes in actual interstate transportation. To empower the federal board of mediation to fully investigate operation of an eight-hour day on railroads. To empower the interstate commerce commission to consider the eight-hour day in connection with making rates. A measure similar to the Canadian industrial disputes act for an investigation of all disputes between railroads and their employes. A measure empowering the president to operate trains with the primary object of providing the American troops on the Mexican border with food.

Robbers Clean Up Two Banks in Illinois Town

Danville, Ill., Aug. 29.—Six robbers blew the safes of two banks at Homer Ill., near here early today and escaped in an automobile with $13,000. A general alarm has been sent out. The robbers worked quietly.

Their plans were well laid as the explosions at the two banks were simultaneous and were so muffled that only a few people in the town were awakened. Eighty-five hundred dollars was taken from the Rayner & Rabb bank and $4,500 from the Citizens' bank.

There was some delay in spreading the alarm as the gang cut all wires into town except one before entering. The banks could not open this morning until money had been shipped to them from Danville.

Quarantine by One Community Against Another in State is Disapproved.

Dr. E. M. Van Buskirk, health commissioner of Allen county, is in receipt of a letter from the state board of health, suggesting that the local officers adhere to the resolutions that were recently adopted by the conference of state health officers with the United States public health service on poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis. The resolutions adopted at a meeting held in Washington, D. C., August 17 and 18, are self-explanatory and will set right many who have been under the impression that children could not go from one city to another within the state, which is not the case. The resolutions are as follows:

"Uniformity of procedure looking toward the prevention of the spread of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, from state to state, and from one community to another within the same state, recommended by the conference along the following lines:

"Quarantine by one state against another state, or by one community against another community within the same state, was disapproved, on the ground that the federal government, through the United States public health service, can perform all the duties necessary in interstate relations, and that the state can perform like functions with respect to quarantine between communities within its own borders.

"All cases of poliomyelitis should be reported immediately to the local health authorities and to the health authorities of the state, and the latter should make weekly reports to the United States public health service. The public health service should issue each week a summary of the reports received.

"A state health authority, believing its territory to be in danger of invasion by poliomyelitis from another state, should call the attention of the United States public health service to the situation, which should thereupon investigate the supposedly dangerous area. Should any area be found to constitute a menace to interstate travel, the public health service should define that area, and thereafter the general restrictive measures laid down for the prevention of the spread of the disease should be in force with respect to it. Before any person 16 years old or less may leave the restricted area he should provide himself with a health certificate and permit to travel, and notice should be sent by the authority by which such certificate and permit are issued to the state health authority of the state of destination.

"Such health certificate and travel permits should be based on medical inspection and be void unless the journey begins within twenty-four hours after the issue of the permit. It is recommended that they be issued without fee. They must be signed by an officer of the United States public health service, by the state health officer, or by a person empowered by the state health authority so to do.

"A person 16 years of age or less who removes from an infected area to another locality should be kept under medical observation daily for two weeks from the date of his health certificate and travel permit."

first address Tuesday morning, closing that session. The afternoon program included an address by Dr. Smith on "The Rights and Duties of Childhood." Dr. Geisel delivered her second address and Prof. Davis and Mrs. Young took their places on the program.

About 350 teachers are in attendance at the institute the fee for which is 50 cents. Tonight Dr. Geisel will deliver a lecture for ladiies in the auditorium of the high school building.

Dr. A. T. Smith, head of the Thomas Normal Training school, of Detroit, spoke twice Monday afternoon in the absence of Dr. Davis, of Indiana university. He opened a series of talks on "The Concept." He asserted pedagogy was as orderly as any of the applied sciences known to men. The cases cited were in the fields of medicine and engineering.

"The two lines of truth that must be grasped by all, who would practice this pedagogical art are the nature of the minds to be educated and the nature of the subjects of learning with which this education is to be done," he declared.

The Three Groups.

He said all branches of curriculum fell within three groups—those presenting a predominance of truths (generalizations,) which must be grasped, if at all, by the understanding; those which present a body of facts that can be stored in the memory and those which are arts to be worked into the habits of life.

Dr. Smith's first address of the afternoon was on "Obedience, the First Law of Life." He showed that obedience was conduct given in response to the commands of a righteous authority, but he held it was not the chief goal of life, but rather absolutely necessary as a first law of life.

tioned by Mr. Hackett's death are not confined by any means to the city of Fort Wayne, and many expressions of sorrow are reaching the family from friends in other cities. Mr. Hackett was widely known, particularly in the religious world to which he had devoted much of his effort. He made friends readily and was always striving to make others happy. He was particularly a friend to the man down and out and many such he has helped both financially and in appealing to their better manhood.

Bell Is Tolled.

When word of Mr. Hackett's death reached Winona Lake, where he had spent the summer, a bell was tolled sixty-five times, the deceased having been sixty-five years of age. He had for years been active in the affairs at Winona and took great interest in the summer work conducted there.

Mr. Hackett came to Fort Wayne a week ago last Saturday to attend the democratic editors' banquet at the Anthony hotel. At that time he seemed in the best of health, and declared he never felt better.

List of Pallbearers.

Brothers-in-law of the deceased will act as pallbearers, as follows: Dr. S. C. Dickey, of Winona Lake; G. W. Reid, of Mt. Vernon, Ill.; J. W. Reid, of Greenville, Ill.; Dr. John D. Reid, of Pana, Ill.; Frank T. Reid, of Springfield, Ill., and J. L. Rogier, of this city.

The honorary pallbearers will be: Dr. G. W. McCaskey, Charles H. Worden, E. F. Yarnelle, Charles L. Olds, A. H. Perfect, James M. McKay, David Corey, Charles Crall and Dr. S. H. Havice.

BROTHERHOODS MAKE STRIKE ORDER DEFINITE

proposed that the demands of the men be submitted in their entirety to arbitration, along with certain questions of readjustment as to pay and conditions of employment which seemed to them to be either closely associated with the demands or to call for reconsideration on their own merits; the men absolutely declined arbitration, especially if any of their established privileges were by that means to be drawn again in question. The law in the matter put no compulsion upon them. The four hundred thousand men from whom the demands proceeded had voted to strike if their demands were refused; the strike was imminent; it has since been set for the fourth of September next. It affects the men who man the freight trains on every road in the Bad Effects of Strike.

"The freight service throughout the United States must stand still until their places are filled, if, indeed, it should prove possible to fill them at all. Cities will be cut off from their food supplies, the whole commerce of the nation will be paralyzed, men of every sort of occupation will be thrown out of employment, countless thousands will in all liklihood be brought, it may be, to the very point of starvation, and a tragical national calamity brought on, to be added to the other distresses of the time, because no basis of accomodation or settlement has been found.

Recounts Own Efforts.

"Just so soon as it became evident that mediation under the existing law had failed and that arbitration had been rendered impossible by the attitude of the men, I considered it my duty to confer with the representatives of both the railways and the brotherhoods, and myself offer mediation, not as an arbitrator but merely as spokesman of the nation, in the interest of justice, indeed, and as a friend of both parties, but not as judge, only as the representative of one hundred million of men, women and children, who would pay the price, the incalculable price of loss and suffering, should these few men insist upon approaching and concluding the matters in controversy between them merely as employers and employes, rather than as patriotic citizens of the United States looking before and after and accosting the large responsibility which the public would put upon them.

The Eight-Hour Day.

"It seemed to me in considering the subject that the whole spirit of the time and the preponderant evidence of recent economic experience spoke for the eight hour day. It has been adjudged by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting as in the interest of health, efficiency, contentment and a general increase of economic vigor. The whole presumption of modern experience would, it seemed to me, be in its favor, whether there was arbitration or not and the debatable points to settle were those which arose out of the acceptance of the eight hour day rather than those which affected its establisment. I therefore proposed that the eight hour day be adopted by the railway managements and put into practice for the present as a substitute for the existing ten hour basis of pay and service: that I should appoint, with the permission of the congress, a small commission to observe the results of the change, carefully studying the figures of the altered operating costs, not only, but also the conditions of labor under which the men worked and the operation of their existing agreements with the railroads, with instructions to report the facts as they found them to congress at the earliest possible day, but without recommendation and that after the facts had been thus disclosed, an adjustment should in some orderly manner be sought of all the matters now left unadjusted between the railroad managers and the men.

Brotherhoods Accepted Plan.

"The representatives of the brotherhoods accepted the plan, but the representatives of the railroads declined to accept it. In the face of what I cannot but regard as the practical certainty that they will be ultimately obliged to accept the eight hour day by the concerted action of organized labor, backed by the favorable judgment of society, the representatives of the railway management have felt justified in declining a peaceful settlement which would engage all the forces of justice, public and private, on their side, to take care of the event. They fear the hostile influence of shippers, who would be opposed to an increase of freight rates (for which, however, of course the public itself would pay); they apparently feel no confidence that the inter-state commerce commission could withstand the objections that would be made. They do not care to rely upon the friendly assurances of the congress of the president. They have thought it best that they should be forced to yield, if they must yield, not by counsel, but by the suffering of the country. While my conferences with them were in progress, and when to all outward appearances those conferences had come to a standstill, the representatives of the brotherhoods suddenly acted and set the strike for the fourth of September.

Position of the Managers.

"The railway managers based their decision to reject my counsel in this matter upon the conviction that they must at any cost to themselves or to the country stand firm for the principle of arbitration which the men had rejected. I based my counsel upon the indisputable fact that there was no means of obtaining arbitration. I yield to no man in firm adherence, alike of conviction and of purpose, to the principle of arbitration in industrial disputes; but matters have come to a sudden crisis in this particular dispute and the country has been caught unprovided with any practicable means of enforcing that conviction in practice (by whose fault we will not now stop to inquire a situation had to be met whose elements and fixed conditions were in dispute.

"Having failed to bring the parties to this critical controversy to an accommodation, therefore, I turn to you deeming it clearly our duty as public servants to leave nothing undone that we can do to safeguard the life and interests of the nation.

What President Recommends.

"In the spirit of such a purpose, I earnestly recommend the following legislation:

"First, immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission along the lines embodied in the bill recently passed by the house of representatives and now awaiting action by the senate; in order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with it present constitution and means of action, practically impossible.

"Second, that establishment of an eight hour day as the legal basis alike of work and wages in the employment of all railroad employes, who are actually engaged in the work of operating trains in interstate transportation.

"Third, the authorization of appointment by the president of a small body of men to observe the actual results in experience of the adoption of the eight hour day in railway transportation, alike for the men and for the railroads; its effects in the matter of operating costs, in the application of the existing practices and agreements to the new conditions and in all other practical aspects with the provision that the investigators shall report their conclusions to the congress at the earliest possible date, but without recommendation as to legislative action in order that the public may learn from an unprejudiced source just what actual developments have ensued.

"Fourth, explicit approval by the congress of the consideration by the interstate commerce commission of an increase of freight rates to meet such additional expenditures by the railroads as may have been rendered necessary by the adoption of the eight hour day and which have not been offset by administrative readjustments and economies should the facts disclosed justify the increase.

"Fifth, an amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for the mediation, conciliation and arbitration of such controversies as the present by adding to it a provision that in case the methods of accommodation now provided for should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

"And sixth, the lodgment in the hands of the executive of the power, in case of military necessity, to take control of such portions and such rolling stock of the railways of the country as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes with authority to draft into the military service of the United States such train crews and administrative officials as the circumstances require for their safe and efficient use.

"This last suggestion I make because we cannot in any circumstances suffer the nation to be hampered in the essential matter of national defense. At the present moment circumstances render this duty particularly obvious. Almost the entire military force of the nation is stationed upon the Mexican border to guard our territory against hostile raids. It must be supplied and steadily supplied with whatever it needs for its maintenance and efficiency. If it should be necessary for purposes of national defense to transfer any portion of it upon short notice to some other part of the country for reasons now unforseen, ample means for transportation must be available and available without delay.

"The power conferred in this matter should be carefully and explicitly limited to cases of military necessity but in all such cases it should be clear and ample.

One Other Thing Needed.

"There is one other thing we should do if we are true champions of arbitration. We should make all arbitral awards judgments by record of a court of law in order that their interpretation and enforcement may lie, not with one of the parties to the arbitration but with an impartial and authoritative tribunal.

"These things I urge upon you, not in haste or merely as a means of meeting a present emergency, but as permanent and necessary additions to the law of the land, suggested, indeed, by circumstances we had hoped never to see, but imperative as well as just, if such emergencies are to be prevented in the future. I feel that no extended argument is needed to commend them to your favorable consideration. They demonstrate themselves. The time and the occasion only give emphasis to their importance. We need them now and we shall continue to need them."

Brotherhood Leaders Make Labor Day Strike Order Definite.

Washington, Aug. 29—While President Wilson was announcing that he would lay the railway strike situation before congress at 2:30 o'clock today, the brotherhood leaders rejected the latest proposition of the committee of railway presidents and actually ordered the strike to begin at 7 a. m. Labor day, unless a settlement satisfactory to them is reached in the meantime.

Their previous order for the strike was tentative and required a secret signal to put it into effect. Unless a settlement satisfactory to the labor leaders is reached before that time or unless President Wilson and congress find some way to prevent it, the strike would start Labor day without further notice. The labor leaders admittedly took their action the first thing today in the belief that some means was being sought to prevent the strike actually being called. By their action they think they have anticipated any legal processes which might be brought against them.

Joint Session Arranged.

President Wilson announced his decision to address congress in session at 2:30 o'clock, soon after the decision of the labor leaders became known. Arrangements were made at the capitol for house and senate to assemble in the hall of the house to hear the president propose the legislation which has been agreed upon by the administration leaders.

Up to the present time President Wilson has not consulted with the house leaders because his plans provide for introducing the bills under contemplation as amendments to a bill already passed in the house and now pending in the senate to increase the membership of the interstate commerce commission.

The railway executives last night began departing for their homes, to be with their properties in event that the unions follow out their plan to call a strike on Labor day.

Lay Facts Before Country.

It was said in administration circles, however, that although the president had decided to go before congress he had not entirely given up hope of bringing the two sides together through direct negotiations and that his efforts to that end still were being continued this morning. In addition to starting the machinery to be prepared for a strike if all negotiations fail, it was said the president's purpose in going before congress today was to lay all the facts in the controversy before the country.

The previous order from the brotherhoods' leaders, merely made the strike order tentative and required the transmission of a code word to make it effective. It now requires no additional word to put the strike into effect on labor day but it does require word that a settlement has been reached to prevent one.

Situation Most Serious.

The brotherhood leaders declared after their meeting this morning that nothing but a "satisfactory settlement" could prevent their men walking out. The leaders took the position that with the strike already ordered they could not be prevented by legal processes from making it effective, while it left them free to call it off if a settlement satisfactory to them was reached.

The developments of early morning advanced the situation to the most serious phase it has assumed.

Will Fight One Feature.

Brotherhood leaders, it was understood today, will fight the compulsory investigation feature of President Wilson's legislative program but support his eight-hour proposal.

Every effort will be made, it was said, to get separate votes on the propositions in congress and leaders were confident that it could be done. A. B. Garretson, spokesman for the men, expressed himself as strongly opposed to the compulsory investigation plan and while he did not entirely approve of the proposed eight-hour bill, he said that it would bring benefits to such numbers of non-union men, that the railroads doubtless would oppose it, and he thought the brotherhoods would be behind it.

"The Canadian compulsory investigation plan," he said, "has proven the greatest throttle to labor that ever has been devised. Invariably, and I speak from experience, in dealing with railways, the railroad heads have used this delay guaranteed them by law to prepare for a strike.

"The eight-hour day proposal failing to carry, as it will, of course, any reference to wages would not embrace our present demands and not be wholly satisfactory to us. It would have the effect however, of bringing the unorganized eighty per cent. of railway labor of which the railway heads speak so feelingly, under an eight-hour day. It would be a step in the right direction and I think you would find the railroads opposing it vigorously."

In order to have any effect on the present proposed strike the president's legislative program would have to pass both houses and become a law before next Monday morning. Once the men have left their trains, compulsory investigation would not affect them, in the opinion of the brotherhood officials. The officials declined to discuss this phase of the situation further.

While the president's decision to go before congress was being announced the brotherhood leaders changed their tentative order for a strike on Labor day to actually order the strike at that time unless it is called off by a satisfactory settlement.

President Wilson worked nearly all night on the address to congress and after conferring with Chairman Newlands of the senate interstate commerce committee, announced his decision. Word was sent to the senate and house leaders so they could arrange a joint session.

President Wilson's Plan.

The president will lay before congress a definite plan of legislation for dealing with the situation. It includes bills laid before him by Senator Newlands, after conferences with Acting Attorney-General Todd, Secretary Lane and several members of the senate interstate commerce committee.

The bills which will be taken up first are: A bill patterned after the Canadian industrial disputes act providing for investigation of disputes between railroads and their employes and preventing strikes or lockouts during the period of investigation. An eight hour law for railroad employes with a provision that sufficient time shall be given the railroads to prepare for its operation.

Law for Stopping Strike.

The president also discussed with President Newlands early this morning legislation for stopping a strike if it begins before the preventative legislation can be adopted.

Shortly after 10:30 o'clock a telephone call came to the white house from the railroad executives to the effect that the committee of eight would like to see President Wilson. He had engagements up until 1 o'clock but informed the executives that he would see them if possible.

Unfavorable Answer Certain.

Brotherhood leaders promised to give an answer early today to the railroads' proposition made informally to the president yesterday that action by both sides be suspended for three or four months pending investigation by a commission to be appointed by the president. An unfavorable answer was almost sure.

No hopes were entertained, either, that the brotherhoods' committee of 21 would withhold the tentative strike order already issued. On the part of the railroad executives there remained a remnant of a chance that they might grant the eight hour day, providing it should not go into effect for some time. This was not considered probable, however.

As a result of the president's latest visit to the capitol yesterday to discuss with the senate steering committee the railway situation it was said the majority was sympathetic with his legislative program and it was thought the proposed bills could be put through despite any opposition from republicans. Plans for adjournment this week had vanished, however.

Legislators were at work framing the necessary measures providing an eight hour day to become effective at a moderately distant date, and to establish a permanent system of ameliorating railway labor disputes by making them subject to investigation by a commission and forbidding strikes or lockouts pending investigation. It was proposed also to pass measures paving the way for granting of higher rates to railroads if wages under an eight hour day increase expenses and creating authority for forced operation of railroads by the government in case of a strike.

Why Brotherhoods Oppose.

The brotherhood heads, Garrison, Stone, Lee and Carter, issued the following statement explaining their opposition to any legislation along the plan of the Canadian commission:

"Since the abolition of slavery no more effectual means has been devised for ensuring the bondage of the workingmen than the passage of compulsory investigation acts of the character of the Canadian industrial disputes act. The writers speak from their personal experiences thereunder, as these organizations are all international in their jurisdiction. To cite an actual occurrence: "In 1910 the men upon eighty railroads in the eastern territory of the United States presented to the railway companies of that territory a demand for increase in wages. The companies refused to deal concertedly with the proposition and it was therefore taken up with the individual roads, and two days after negotiations were opened, on January 7, on the first road in the United States, negotiations opened on the three Canadian properties. The negotiations in the United States included federal mediation in the first instance and arbitration in the third case.

"On the nineteenth day of July following settlement was made on the last of the seventy-seven American lines involved.

"On the same date at 6 p. m. a strike took place on the Grand Trunk railway, one of the Canadian railways, settlement not yet having been affected on any of the three, this growing out of the delays which the employers were able to interpose under the industrial disputes act.

"Moreover the period of investigation is eternally utilized by the employer to entrench himself in the effort to defeat the demands of the men, no matter how just their cause may be and in a majority of instances where a verdict by an investigating commission has been favorable to the men it has been repudiated by the employer. In consequence of this attitude, desregard for the provisions of that law has led to placing thousands of men in the attitude of law breakers and the passage of laws which induce men to open violation thereof is a deadly injury to a nation because it breeds universal contempt for law.

"In the present strife, if such an act were passed all that would be necessary would be for the power of attorney to be withdrawn from the national conference committee of managers by the individual roads and then immediate necessity would arise for 250 investigating boards to be created or, if only a limited number were provided for; men would be compelled to remain for years in voluntary servitude if they obeyed the provisions of such a law."

Ira Spittler Has Four Ribs Fractured and is Bruised About the Body as Result.

Columbia City, Ind., Aug. 29.—Ira C. Spittler, of Columbia township, residing about a mile and a half southwest of this city, was partly buried in a gravel pit on his farm Monday, near the noon hour, and the four lower ribs on his right side were fractured.

He and his hired hand, Judd Windle, were working in the pit and Mr. Spittler stood between the wagon and the bank. The gravel came down suddenly and Mr. Spittler had no chance to dodge. He received the full weight of the sand and he was jammed against the wagon wheel with terrible force. His right side struck the wheel and the four ribs were fractured.

Mr. Windle was doing some work with the team when the bank caved in and he was soon on the job with his shovel in an attempt to get Mr. Spittler from under the gravel and away from the wagon. Several persons who were passing stopped and assisted in freeing the man from the gravel and he was loaded into a car and taken to his home nearby. Dr. Ben P. Linvill was called and reduced the fractures and attended to other minor bruises about the body.

CASE AT BLUFFTON

Bluffton, Aug. 29.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDonald is under quarantine here Monday, following the declaration by the family physician that Kathleen McDonald, their one-year-old daughter, has infantile paralysis. The parents assert that they have had the child no place where she could have contracted the dread disease. She has been ill for a week, but they thought at first she was suffering from a cold. They were in Huntington before the child became ill.

SCHOOL OPEN MONDAY.

Auburn, Ind., Aug. 29.—The schools of Auburn will open next Monday for the ensuing term. There are four new teachers this year as follows: Miss Helen Fitch, of this city, being selected to take the fifth grade, recently made vacant by the resignation of Miss Myrtle Hornberger. A. E. Heater, of Valparaiso, is the new teacher in chemistry, and H. C. Anderson, of Veedersburg, instructor in manual training and mathematics in the high school. Miss Lovina Pfaff will be teacher in the fifth and sixth grades at the Washington building. The same teachers have been employed as last year.

HURT IN COLLISION.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 29.—George Locke, of near Kuhn's Landing, was the victim of what might have been a fatal accident about noon on Sunday. Mr. Locke riding a motorcycle, was traveling east on Market street. When he reached the corner of Buffalo street, he encountered two automobiles and in the mixup collided with a big machine, which turned the corner for the north. Locke was thrown to the pavement with great force and at first it was thought he had been seriously injured. He was taken to the office of Dr. Murphy, where his wounds were dressed. An ugly gash was cut above one eye and one stitch was required to close the wound. He also had cuts and bruises about his head and body, none serious. He was able to walk away unassisted about an hour later. Mr. Locke's motorcycle was so badly wrecked that it is beyond repair.

COTTONY MAPLE SCALE

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 29.—Within a short time Mayor Spohn will present to the common council plans for a fight on cottony maple scale, which now prevails in this city. The mayor has gone over the matter with the state entomologist and the Davy School of Forestry and Tree Surgery at Kent, Ohio. It is agreed on all sides that the only way to protect the 10,000 trees of this city is to spray them in the fall and in the spring. Whatever treatment is given for cottony scale must be followed at such times as the trees are without leaves. A high powered spray will be purchased. Various remedies are recommended for the disease.

A great basket dinner was spread under the trees and hundreds of people enjoyed the picnic occasion. Speeches were made and various games were played and thus another year was added to the list that marks the annual reunion of old settlers of Marshall and St. Joseph counties.

Delphos, Ohio, Aug. 29.—No one will ever know how close Mrs. Frank J. Hughes, of this city, was to death Sunday, when she became violently ill from poison said to have resulted from taking headache tablets. ROBBERY AT HARTFORD CITY.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 29.—No trace has yet been obtained to the identity or whereabouts of the bold thief who shied a paving brick through the window of the William Hirsch jewelry store, West Washington street jeweler, at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, and attempted to carry away the contents of the window in his hat. Two watches, valued at about $15, was the total of the booty obtained by the thief. A string of watches, lavalieres and other jewelry was strung along the alley running past the postoffice, which formed the avenue of flight for the culprit after his actions had been detected. One seventeen-jewel watch was found in front of the Tom Bell home, in West Main street, where the thief fell down as he was fleeing. So far as Mr. Hirsch is able to tell at this time, everything that was in the window has been recovered with the exception of the two watches.

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN FEDERAL ROAD AID

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Great interest is shown by inquiries coming from all parts of the country in the work of the federal aid road act recently enacted by congress. This is the law which appropriates $85,000,000 from the federal treasury to be used in a half-and-half federal and state co-operative policy of road construction. If all states accept the provisions of the law and adopt this chance to get into partnership with Uncle Sam, $75,000,000 will be added to the $85,000,000 by the states for new roads.

"This," says Secretary of Agriculture Houston, "is not so much as it seems. Few people realize that the nation is already spending approximately $250,000,000 a year for new roads, or nearly half the cost of the Panama canal. But it will help to have the federal government co-operate with the states. Indeed, this act and the co-operative agricultural extension act established a new principle in American government—the principal of co-operation between federal and state officers. Heretofore federal and state officers have too often looked at one another across the line, sometimes with apprehension as to what the other was going to do or think; sometimes with jealousy, not infrequently with friction."

The secretary expressed the hope that this law would be the beginning of a new era. Many state highway officials have come to Washington to find out what steps must be taken by a state to avail itself of the new law. To these Secretary Houston has replied:

"The act requires the state to accept it. That, as I understand, implies the assent of the state to every provision of the act. One of these provisions is that projects, plans, specifications, and contracts shall be submitted and approved; and I have a suspicion that plans and specifications will not be approved unless they are submitted by people who know about such things. So the assent of the state involves the calling of trained men into the service of every state which is now without them.

"The law involves another thing, the pledge of the faith of the state to meet in full the federal appropriation for the entire period covered by the act. The state legislature may not be able to appropriate money one year for the whole period covered by the act, but it can pledge the faith of the state to meet the financial provisions of the act for the period covered by it. This is as it should be. It would be wasteful not to make plans at the outset for the full period covered by the act; it would mean piecemeal road building and much dissipation of effort and misdirection of funds. These requirements hold whether the state as such, under the existing law, may engage in road building or not. The provision that where the state may not engage in highway improvement the money may be securied if counties raise an amount sufficient to meet the apportionment to the state involves the necessity on the part of such counties of raising an amount sufficient to meet the full apportionment for the state, the existence of a highway commission, and compliance with all the other terms of the act. I speak of this because there are evidences that individual counties think that, if they raise a certain sum of money, they will of necessity get a corresponding sum from the federal treasury. That is not my construction of the act and not the one that will be likely to prevail.

"The duty will rest upon you gentlemen who represent the states of informing the people as to the meaning of this legislation and as to procedure under it, because the initiative under the law lies with you. We are directed to co-operate with you; with the state through the state highway department. It is your duty, if your state accepts the law, to agree with us on roads to be constructed and to submit projects, plans and specifications. Therefore, individuals, associations, and counties will of necessity take up such matters directly with you, and we shall hear from them through you for the most part."

For the benefit of the people living in or near the national forests where the taxes from privately owned lands are small, the act carries an appropriation of $10,000,000 to build roads and trails in and near these forests. This sum is to be available a million a year for a period of ten years.

The net result of this act should be great improvement in roads and highways throughout the United States. This will mean better facilities for the farmers for getting his produce to market or to the railroad station or shipping point. Compared to European countries, the roads in the United States are extremely primitive. No European government would permit its roads to continue in the condition of most of ours. This legislation, and the action of the agricultural department in carrying it out should be of immense social and economic importance to the people.

Quarantine by One Community Against Another in State is Disapproved.

Dr. E. M. Van Buskirk, health commissioner of Allen county, is in receipt of a letter from the state board of health, suggesting that the local officers adhere to the resolutions that were recently adopted by the conference of state health officers with the United States public health service on polio myelitis, or infantile paralysis. The resolutions adopted at a meeting held in Washington, D. C., August 17 and 18, are self-explanatory and will set right many who have been under the impression that children could not go from one city to another within the state, which is not the case. The resolutions are as follows:

"Uniformity of procedure looking toward the prevention of the spread of poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, from state to state, and from one community to another within the same state, recommended by the conference along the following lines:

"Quarantine by one state against another state, or by one community against another community within the same state, was disapproved, on the ground that the federal government, through the United States public health service, can perform all the duties necessary in interstate relations, and that the state can perform like functions with respect to quarantine between communities within its own borders.

"All cases of poliomyelitis should be reported immediately to the local health authorities and to the health authorities of the state, and the latter should make weekly reports to the United States public health service. The public health service should issue each week a summary of the reports received.

"A state health authority, believing its territory to be in danger of invasion by poliomyelitis from another state, should call the attention of the United States public health service to the situation, which should thereupon investigate the supposedly dangerous area. Should any area be found to constitute a menace to interstate travel, the public health service should define that area, and thereafter the general restrictive measures laid down for the prevention of the spread of the disease should be in force with respect to it. Before any person 16 years old or less may leave the restricted area he should provide himself with a health certificate and permit to travel, and notice should be sent by the authority by which such certificate and permit are issued to the state health authority of the state of destination.

"Such health certificate and travel permits should be based on medical inspection and be void unless the journey begins within twenty-four hours after the issue of the permit. It is recommended that they be issued without fee. They must be signed by an officer of the United States public health service, by the state health officer, or by a person empowered by the state health authority so to do.

"A person 16 years of age or less who removes from an infected area to another locality should be kept under medical observation daily for two weeks from the date of his health certificate and travel permit."

first address Tuesday morning, closing that session. The afternoon program included an address by Dr. Smith on "The Rights and Duties of Childhood." Dr. Geisel delivered her second address and Prof. Davis and Mrs. Young took their places on the program.

About 350 teachers are in attendance at the institute the fee for which is 50 cents. Tonight Dr. Geisel will deliver a lecture for ladies in the auditorium of the high school building.

Dr. A. T. Smith, head of the Thomas Normal Training school, of Detroit, spoke twice Monday afternoon in the absence of Dr. Davis, of Indiana university. He opened a series of talks on "The Concept." He asserted pedagogy was as orderly as any of the applied sciences known to men. The cases cited were in the fields of medicine and engineering.

"The two lines of truth that must be grasped by all, who would practice this pedagogical art are the nature of the minds to be educated and the nature of the subjects of learning with which this education is to be done," he declared.

The Three Groups.

He said all branches of curriculum fell within three groups those presenting a predominance of truths (generalizations,) which must be grasped, if at all, by the understanding; those which present a body of facts that can be stored in the memory and those which are arts to be worked into the habits of life.

Dr. Smith's first address of the afternoon was on "Obedience, the First Law of Life." He showed that obedience was conduct given in response to the commands of a righteous authority, but he held it was not the chief goal of life, but rather absolutely necessary as a first law of life.

loned by Mr. Hackett's death are not confined by any means to the city of Fort Wayne, and many expressions of sorrow are reaching the family from friends in other cities. Mr. Hackett was widely known, particularly in the religious world to which he had devoted much of his effort. He made friends readily and was always striving to make others happy. He was particularly a friend to the man down and out and many such he has helped both financially and in appealing to their better manhood.

Bell Is Tolled.

When word of Mr. Hackett's death reached Winona Lake, where he had spent the summer, a bell was tolled sixty-five times, the deceased having been sixty-five years of age. He had for years been active in the affairs at Winona and took great interest in the summer work conducted there.

Mr. Hackett came to Fort Wayne a week ago last Saturday to attend the democratic editors' banquet at the Anthony hotel. At that time he seemed in the best of health, and declared he never felt better.

List of Pallbearers.

Brothers-in-law of the deceased will act as pallbearers, as follows: Dr. S. C. Dickey, of Winona Lake; G. W. Reid, of Mt. Vernon, Ill.; J. W. Reid, of Greenville, Ill.; Dr. John D. Reid, of Pana, Ill.; Frank T. Reid, of Springfield, Ill., and J. L. Rogler, of this city.

proposed that the demands of the men be submitted in their entirety to arbitration, along with certain questions of readjustment as to pay and conditions of employment which seemed to them to be either closely associated with the demands or to call for reconsideration on their own merits; the men absolutely declined arbitration, especially if any of their established privileges were by that means to be drawn again in question. The law in the matter put no compulsion upon them. The four hundred thousand men from whom the demands proceeded had voted to strike if their demands were refused; the strike was imminent; it has since been set for the fourth of September next. It affects the men who man the freight trains on every road in the Bad Effects of Strike.

"The freight service throughout the United States must stand still until their places are filled, if, indeed, it should prove possible to fill them at all. Cities will be cut off from their food supplies, the whole commerce of the nation will be paralyzed, men of every sort of occupation will be thrown out of employment, countless thousands will in all liklihood be brought, it may be, to the very point of starvation, and a tragical national calamity brought on, to be added to the other distresses of the time, because no basis of accomodation or settlement has been found.

Recounts Own Efforts.

"Just so soon as it became evident that mediation under the existing law had failed and that arbitration had been rendered impossible by the attitude of the men, I considered it my duty to confer with the representatives of both the railways and the brotherhoods, and myself offer mediation, not as an arbitrator but merely as spokesman of the nation, in the interest of justice, indeed, and as a friend of both parties, but not as judge, only as the representative of one hundred million of men, women and children, who would pay the price, the incalculable price of loss and suffering, should these few men insist upon approaching and concluding the matters in controversy between them merely as employers and employes, rather than as patriotic citizens of the United States looking before and after and accosting the large responsibility which the public would put upon them.

The Eight-Hour Day.

"It seemed to me in considering the subject that the whole spirit of the time and the preponderant evidence of recent economic experience spoke for the eight hour day. It has been adjudged by the thought and experience of recent years a thing upon which society is justified in insisting as in the interest of health, efficiency, contentment and a general increase of economic vigor. The whole presumption of modern experience would, it seemed to me, be in its favor, whether there was arbitration or not and the debatable points to settle were those which arose out of the acceptance of the eight hour day rather than those which affected its establisment. I therefore proposed that the eight hour day be adopted by the railway managements and put into practice for the present as a substitute for the existing ten hour basis of pay and service; that I should appoint, with the permission of the congress, a small commission to observe the results of the change, carefully studying the figures of the altered operating costs, not only, but also the conditions of labor under which the men worked and the operation of their existing agreements with the railroads, with instructions to report the facts as they found them to congress at the earliest possible day, but without recommendation and that after the facts had been thus disclosed, an adjustment should in some orderly manner be sought of all the matters now left unadjusted between the railroad managers and the men.

Brotherhoods Accepted Plan.

"The representatives of the brotherhoods accepted the plan, but the representatives of the railroads declined to accept it. In the face of what I cannot but regard as the practical certainty that they will be ultimately obliged to accept the eight hour day by the concerted action of organized labor, backed by the favorable judgment of society, the representatives of the railway management have felt justified in declining a peaceful settlement which would engage all the forces of justice, public and private, on their side, to take care of the event. They fear the hostile influence of shippers, who would be opposed to an increase of freight rates (for which, however, of course the public itself would pay); they apparently feel no confidence that the inter-state commerce commission could withstand the objections that would be made. They do not care to rely upon the friendly assurances of the congress or the president. They have thought it best that they should be forced to yield, if they must yield, not by counsel, but by the suffering of the country. While my conferences with them were in progress, and when to all outward appearances those conferences had come to a standstill, the representatives of the brotherhoods suddenly acted and set the strike for the fourth of September.

Position of the Managers.

"The railway managers based their decision to reject my counsel in this matter upon the conviction that they must at any cost to themselves or to the country stand firm for the principle of arbitration which the men had rejected. I based my counsel upon the indisputable fact that there was no means of obtaining arbitration. I yield to no man in firm adherence, alike of conviction and of purpose, to the principle of arbitration in industrial disputes; but matters have come to a sudden crisis in this particular dspute and the country has been caught unprovided with any practicable means of enforcing that conviction in practice (by whose fault we will not now stop to inquire a situation had to be met whose elements and fixed conditions were in dispute.

"Having failed to bring the parties to this critical controversy to an accommodation, therefore, I turn to you deeming it clearly our duty as public servants to leave nothing undone that we can do to safeguard the life and interests of the nation.

What President Recommends.

"In the spirit of such a purpose, I earnestly recommend the following legislation:

"First, immediate provision for the enlargement and administrative reorganization of the interstate commerce commission along the lines embodied in the bill recently passed by the house of representatives and now awaiting action by the senate; in order that the commission may be enabled to deal with the many great and various duties now devolving upon it with a promptness and thoroughness which are, with it present constitution and means of action, practically impossible.

"Second, that establishment of an eight hour day as the legal basis alike of work and wages in the employment of all railroad employes, who are actually engaged in the work of operating trains in interstate transportation.

"Third, the authorization of appointment by the president of a small body of men to observe the actual results in experience of the adoption of the eight hour day in railway transportation alike for the men and for the railroads; its effects in the matter of operating costs, in the application of the existing practices and agreements to the new conditions and in all other practical aspects with the provision that the investigators shall report their conclusions to the congress at the earliest possible date, but without recommendation as to legislative action in order that the public may learn from an unprejudiced source just what actual developments have ensued.

"Fourth, explicit approval by the congress of the consideration by the interstate commerce commission of an increase of freight rates to meet such additional expenditures by the railroads as may have been rendered necessary by the adoption of the eight hour day and which have not been offset by administrative readjustments and economies should the facts disclosed justify the increase.

"Fifth, an amendment of the existing federal statute which provides for the mediation, conciliation and arbitration of such controversies as the present by adding to it a provision that in case the methods of accommodation now provided for should fail, a full public investigation of the merits of every such dispute shall be instituted and completed before a strike or lockout may lawfully be attempted.

"And sixth, the lodgment in the hands of the executive of the power, in case of military necessity, to take control of such portions and such rolling stock of the railways of the country as may be required for military use and to operate them for military purposes with authority to draft into the military service of the United States such train crews and administrative officials as the circumstances require for their safe and efficient use.

"This last suggestion I make because we cannot in any circumstances suffer the nation to be hampered in the essential matter of national defense. At the present moment circumstances render this duty particularly obvious. Almost the entire military force of the nation is stationed upon the Mexican border to guard our territory against hostile raids. It must be supplied and steadily supplied with whatever it needs for its maintenance and efficiency. If it should be necessary for purposes of national defense to transfer any portion of it upon short notice to some other part of the country for reasons now unforseen, ample means for transportation must be available and available without delay.

"The power conferred in this matter should be carefully and explicitly limited to cases of military necessity but in all such cases it should be clear and ample.

"There is one other thing we should do if we are true champions of arbitration. We should make all arbitral awards judgments by record of a court of law in order that their interpretation and enforcement may lie, not with one of the parties to the arbitration but with an impartial and authoritative tribunal.

"These things I urge upon you, not in haste or merely as a means of meeting a present emergency, but as permanent and necessary additions to the law of the land, suggested, indeed, by circumstances we had hoped never to see, but imperative as well as just, if such emergencies are to be prevented in the future. I feel that no extended argument is needed to commend them to your favorable consideration. They demonstrate themselves. The time and the occasion only give emphasis to their importance. We need them now and we shall continue to need them."

Brotherhood Leaders Make Labor Day Strike Order Definite.

Washington, Aug. 29—While President Wilson was announcing that he would lay the railway strike situation before congress at 2:30 o'clock today, the brotherhood leaders rejected the latest proposition of the committee of railway presidents and actually ordered the strike to begin at 7 a. m. Labor day, unless a settlement satisfactory to them is reached in the meantime.

Their previous order for the strike was tentative and required a secret signal to put it into effect. Unless a settlement satisfactory to the labor leaders is reached before that time or unless President Wilson and congress find some way to prevent it, the strike would start Labor day without further notice. The labor leaders admittedly took their action the first thing today in the belief that some means was being sought to prevent the strike actually being called. By their action they think they have anticipated any legal processes which might be brought against them.

Joint Session Arranged.

President Wilson announced his decision to address congress in session at 2:30 o'clock, soon after the decision of the labor leaders became known. Arrangements were made at the capitol for house and senate to assemble in the hall of the house to hear the president propose the legislation which has been agreed upon by the administration leaders.

Up to the present time President Wilson has not consulted with the house leaders because his plans provide for introducing the bills under contemplation as amendments to a bill already passed in the house and now pending in the senate to increase the membership of the interstate commerce commission.

The railway executives last night began departing for their homes, to be with their properties in event that the unions follow out their plan to call a strike on Labor day.

Lay Facts Before Country.

It was said in administration circles, however, that although the president had decided to go before congress he had not entirely given up hope of bringing the two sides together through direct negotiations and that his efforts to that end still were being continued this morning. In addition to starting the machinery to be prepared for a strike if all negotiations fail, it was said the president's purpose in going before congress today was to lay all the facts in the controversy before the country.

The previous order from the brotherhoods' leaders, merely made the strike order tentative and required the transmission of a code word to make it effective. It now requires no additional word to put the strike into effect on labor day but it does require word that a settlement has been reached to prevent one.

Situation Most Serious.

The brotherhood leaders declared after their meeting this morning that nothing but a "satisfactory settlement" could prevent their men walking out. The leaders took the position that with the strike already ordered they could not be prevented by legal processes from making it effective, while it left them free to call it off if a settlement satisfactory to them was reached.

The developments of early morning advanced the situation to the most serious phase it has assumed.

Will Fight One Feature.

Brotherhood leaders, it was understood today, will fight the compulsory investigation feature of President Wilson's legislative program but support his eight-hour proposal.

Every effort will be made, it was said, to get separate votes on the propositions in congress and leaders were confident that it could be done. A. B. Garretson, spokesman for the men, expressed himself as strongly opposed to the compulsory investigation plan and while he did not entirely approve of the proposed eight-hour bill, he said that it would bring benefits to such numbers of non-union men, that the railroads doubtless would oppose it, and he thought the brotherhoods would be behind it.

"The Canadian compulsory investigation plan," he said, "has proven the greatest throttle to labor that ever has been devised. Invariably, and I speak from experience, in dealing with railways, the railroad heads have used this delay guaranteed them by law to prepare for a strike.

"The eight-hour day proposal failing to carry, as it will, of course, any reference to wages would not embrace our present demands and not be wholly satisfactory to us. It would have the effect however, of bringing the unorganized eighty per cent. of railway labor of which the railway heads speak so feelingly, under an eight-hour day. It would be a step in the right direction and I think you would find the railroads opposing it vigorously."

In order to have any effect on the present proposed strike the president's legislative program would have to pass both houses and become a law before next Monday morning. Once the men have left their trains, compulsory investigation would not affect them, in the opinion of the brotherhood officials. The officials declined to discuss this phase of the situation further.

While the president's decision to go before congress was being announced the brotherhood leaders changed their tentative order for a strike on Labor day to actually order the strike at that time unless it is called off by a satisfactory settlement.

President Wilson worked nearly all night on the address to congress and after conferring with Chairman Newlands of the senate interstate commerce committee, announced his decision. Word was sent to the senate and house leaders so they could arrange a joint session.

President Wilson's Plan.

The president will lay before congress a definite plan of legislation for dealing with the situation. It includes bills laid before him by Senator Newlands, after conferences with Acting Attorney General Todd, Secretary Lane and several members of the senate interstate commerce committee.

The bills which will be taken up first are: A bill patterned after the Canadian industrial disputes act providing for investigation of disputes between railroads and their employes and preventing strikes or lockouts during the period of investigation. An eight hour law for railroad employes with a provision that sufficient time shall be given the railroads to prepare for its operation.

Law for Stopping Strike.

The president also discussed with President Newlands early this morning legislation for stopping a strike if it begins before the preventative legislation can be adopted.

Shortly after 10:30 o'clock a telephone call came to the white house from the railroad executives to the effect that the committee of eight would like to see President Wilson. He had engagements up until 1 o'clock but informed the executives that he would see them if possible.

Unfavorable Answer Certain.

Brotherhood leaders promised to give an answer early today to the railroads' proposition made informally to the president yesterday that action by both sides be suspended for three or four months pending investigation by a commission to be appointed by the president. An unfavorable answer was almost sure.

No hopes were entertained, either, that the brotherhoods' committee of 21 would withhold the tentative strike order already issued. On the part of the railroad executives there remained a remnant of a chance that they might grant the eight hour day, providing it should not go into effect for some time. This was not considered probable, however.

As a result of the president's latest visit to the capitol yesterday to discuss with the senate steering committee the railway situation it was said the majority was sympathetic with his legislative program and it was thought the proposed bills could be put through despite any opposition from republicans. Plans for adjournment this week had vanished, however.

Legislators were at work framing the necessary measures providing an eight hour day to become effective at a moderately distant date, and to establish a permanent system of ameliorating railway labor disputes by making them subject to investigation by a commission and forbidding strikes or lockouts pending investigation. It was proposed also to pass measures paving the way for granting of higher rates to railroads if wages under an eight hour day increase expenses and creating authority for forced operation of railroads by the government in case of a strike.

Why Brotherhoods Oppose.

The brotherhood heads, Garrison, Stone, Lee and Carter, issued the following statement explaining their opposition to any legislation along the plan of the Canadian commission:

"Since the abolition of slavery no more effectual means has been devised for ensuring the bondage of the workingmen than the passage of compulsory investigation acts of the character of the Canadian industrial disputes act. The writers speak from their personal experiences thereunder, as these organizations are all international in their jurisdiction. To cite an actual occurrence: 'In 1910 the men upon eighty railroads in the eastern territory of the United States presented to the railway companies of that territory a demand for increase in wages. The companies refused to deal concertedly with the proposition and it was therefore taken up with the individual roads, and two days after negotiations were opened, on January 7, on the first road in the United States, negotiations opened on the three Canadian properties. The negotiations in the United States included federal mediation in the first instance and arbitration in the third case.

"On the nineteenth day of July following settlement was made on the last of the seventy-seven American lines involved.

"On the same date at 6 p. m. a strike took place on the Grand Trunk railway, one of the Canadian railways, settlement not yet having been affected on any of the three, this growing out of the delays which the employers were able to interpose under the industrial disputes act.

"Moreover the period of investigation is eternally utilized by the employer to entrench himself in the effort to defeat the demands of the men, no matter how just their cause may be and in a majority of instances where a verdict by an investigating commission has been favorable to the men it has been repudiated by the employer. In consequence of this attitude, disregard for the provisions of that law has led to placing thousands of men in the attitude of law breakers and the passage of laws which induce men to open violation thereof is a deadly injury to a nation because it breeds universal contempt for law.

"In the present strife, if such an act were passed all that would be necessary would be for the power of attorney to be withdrawn from the national conference committee of managers by the individual roads and then immediate necessity would arise for 250 investigating boards to be created or, if only a limited number were provided for, men would be compelled to remain for years in voluntary servitude if they obeyed the provisions of such a law."

Ira Spittler Has Four Ribs Fractured and is Bruised About the Body as Result.

Columbia City, Ind., Aug. 29.—Ira C. Spittler, of Columbia township, residing about a mile and a half southwest of this city, was partly buried in a gravel pit on his farm Monday, near the noon hour, and the four lower ribs on his right side were fractured.

He and his hired hand, Judd Windle, were working in the pit and Mr. Spittler stood between the wagon and the bank. The gravel came down suddenly and Mr. Spittler had no chance to dodge. He received the full weight of the sand and he was jammed against the wagon wheel with terrible force. His right side struck the wheel and the four ribs were fractured.

Mr. Windle was doing some work with the team when the bank caved in and he was soon on the job with his shovel in an attempt to get Mr. Spittler from under the gravel and away from the wagon. Several persons who were passing stopped and assisted in freeing the man from the gravel and he was loaded into a car and taken to his home nearby. Dr. Ben P. Linvill was called and reduced the fractures and attended to other minor bruises about the body.

CASE AT BLUFFTON

Bluffton, Aug. 29.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl McDonald is under quarantine here Monday, following the declaration by the family physician that Kathleen McDonald, their one-year-old daughter, has infantile paralysis. The parents assert that they have had the child no place where she could have contracted the dread disease. She has been ill for a week, but they thought at first she was suffering from a cold. They were in Huntington before the child became ill.

SCHOOL OPEN MONDAY.

Auburn, Ind., Aug. 29.—The schools of Auburn will open next Monday for the ensuing term. There are four new teachers this year as follows: Miss Helen Fitch, of this city, being selected to take the fifth grade, recently made vacant by the resignation of Miss Myrtle Hornberger. A. E. Heater, of Valparaiso, is the new teacher in chemistry, and H. C. Anderson, of Veedersburg, instructor in manual training and mathematics in the high school. Miss Lovina Pfaff will be teacher in the fifth and sixth grades at the Washington building. The same teachers have been employed as last year.

HURT IN COLLISION.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 29.—George Locke, of near Kuhn's Landing, was the victim of what might have been a fatal accident about noon on Sunday. Mr. Locke riding a motorcycle, was traveling east on Market street. When he reached the corner of Buffalo street, he encountered two automobiles and in the mixup collided with a big machine, which turned the corner for the north. Locke was thrown to the pavement with great force and at first it was thought he had been seriously injured. He was taken to the office of Dr. Murphy, where his wounds were dressed. An ugly gash was cut above one eye and one stitch was required to close the wound. He also had cuts and bruises about his head and body, none serious. He was able to walk away unassisted about an hour later. Mr. Locke's motorcycle was so badly wrecked that it is beyond repair.

COTTONY MAPLE SCALE

Goshen, Ind., Aug. 29.—Within a short time Mayor Spohn will present to the common council plans for a fight on cottony maple scale, which now prevails in this city. The mayor has gone over the matter with the state entomologist and the Davy School of Forestry and Tree Surgery at Kent, Ohio. It is agreed on all sides that the only way to protect the 10,000 trees of this city is to spray them in the fall and in the spring. Whatever treatment is given for cottony scale must be followed at such times as the trees are without leaves. A high powered spray will be purchased. Various remedies are recommended for the disease.

OLD SETTLERS' DAY

Plymouth, Ind., Aug. 29.—The old settlers' reunion and picnic at Lapaz was attended by a very large company of people, coming from many points in northern Indiana and Michigan. The day was fine and the people had an enjoyable time. The Plymouth band was engaged for the occasion and helped to fill in the day's program. A great basket dinner was spread under the trees and hundreds of people enjoyed the picnic occasion. Speeches were made and various games were played and thus another year was added to the list that marks the annual reunion of old settlers of Marshall and St. Joseph counties.

TOOK TOO MANY TABLETS

Delphos, Ohio, Aug. 29.—No one will ever know how close Mrs. Frank J. Hughes, of this city, was to death Sunday, when she became violently ill from poison said to have resulted from taking headache tablets. The tablets, labeled "AK," were supposed to be taken one every hour until the headache stopped. Mrs. Hughes in her haste, took two at the same time and two more at short intervals thereafter. She became ill at the home of her mother and was assisted to her home, where medical attention was summoned. It was necessary to do hard work to revive the afflicted woman. Reports at the latest show that she is much improved.

BOOTLEGGER IS CAUGHT

Portland, Ind., Aug. 29.—William Walker, colored, an alleged bootlegger, who claims his home as Muncie, was arrested at the fair grounds here Monday afternoon, by ground officials and brought to this city to face charge of liquor law violations. Walker was caught in the act of secreting liquor beneath one of the stalls on the ground. When taken in charge he had two quart bottles and a pint bottle filled with whisky, the bottles being in a grip. In police court before his arraignment he admitted that the whisky was for sale, but denied having disposed of any.

ROBBERY AT HARTFORD CITY.

Hartford City, Ind., Aug. 29.—No trace has yet been obtained to the identity or whereabouts of the bold thief who shied a paving brick through the window of the William Hirsch jewelry store, West Washington street jeweler, at 3 o'clock Sunday morning, and attempted to carry away the contents of the window in his hat. Two watches, valued at about $15, was the total of the booty obtained by the thief. A string of watches, lavalieres and other jewelry was strung along the alley running past the postoffice, which formed the avenue of flight for the culprit after his actions had been detected. One seventeen-jewel watch was found in front of the Tom Bell home, in West Main street, where the thief fell down as he was fleeing. So far as Mr. Hirsch is able to tell at this time, everything that was in the window has been recovered with the exception of the two watches.

DEMANDS BIG ALIMONY.

Huntington, Ind., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Lydia Hodson, married thirty years, filed suit in the circuit court Saturday for divorce from John Hodson, on grounds of cruelty in several forms. The Hodsons, who have eight children, six of them of age, live on the Hicks farm west of Huntington. In the complaint, filed by Bowers and Feightner, the forms of cruelty enumerated include refusal to provide medicine to members of the family, refusal to let his daughter, Ella, come to their home, cruelty to his wife and children, and wrongful accusations against his wife and daughter. The complaint asks $3,000 alimony from the plaintiff's property of $5,500. Temporary restraining orders to prevent Hodson from coming home or disposing of his property are also asked.

Decatur, Ind., Aug. 29.—Word was received in the city Monday of the death of Joe Harris, of Lima, Ohio, for many years a resident of this city. The word came to Joe Rice, in Decatur, who notified the only daughter of the deceased at Van Wert, Ohio, where she was visiting. Mr. Harris is survived by two children, Lillian, wife of Louis Rice, of this city, and John, who recently has not been heard from and may not be located. Mrs. Rice returned today from Van Wert and her husband, who has been a pharmacist in a drug store in Marion, has returned to make funeral arrangements.

NAMED SUPERINTENDENT.

Ossian, Ind., Aug. 29.—Harry King, living south of Ossian, has been appointed superintendent of the turkey and water fowl department of the Coliseum Mid-West Poultry show, to be held in Chicago in December. Mr. King has been in touch with the Chicago show several years, as he has exhibited his Bronze turkeys there for several years, taking numerous premiums.

KENDALLVILLE WITHOUT GAS.

Kendallville, Ind., Aug. 29.—A leak in the boiler, together with several other minor troubles, making it impossible to manufacture gas, has caused considerable inconvenience to gas consumers in this city since Sunday. Housewives doing their weekly washing called in and asked, "What's the matter with the gas?" Restauranteurs and others did likewise. There was a low pressure at the plant Saturday and nearly all day Sunday there was no gas. At 8 p. m. yesterday the pressure was again reduced and until 10:30 there was no gas.

ATTACKED ON DARK STREET.

Huntington, Ind., Aug. 29.—Miss Agnes Goble, daughter of Frank Goble, 1214 Gay street, was saved from a brutal assault about 11 o'clock Sunday night, when E. Q. Drummond, returning with his family from a visit with friends, heard muffled screams coming from the ditch on the north side of the Wabash railway tracks, west of Condit street. Drummond shouted when he heard the scream for assistance, and started toward the sound, when a tall figure raised up and fled. Miss Goble then appeared.

Auburn Ind., Aug. 29.—The annual teachers' institute of DeKalb county convened in the assembly room of the court house in this city Monday morning. At the noon hour one hundred and thirty-seven teachers had registered. This large registration number on the first day bespeaks for the teachers of the county a great enthusiasm and interest in their work of "going to school."

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN IN FEDERAL ROAD AID

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Great interest is shown by inquiries coming from all parts of the country in the work of the federal aid road act recently enacted by congress. This is the law which appropriates $85,000,000 from the federal treasury to be used in a half-and-half federal and state co-operative policy of road construction. If all states accept the provisions of the law and adopt this chance to get into partnership with Uncle Sam, $75,000,000 will be added to the $85,000,000 by the states for new roads.

"This," says Secretary of Agriculture Houston, "is not so much as it seems. Few people realize that the nation is already spending approximately $250,000,000 a year for new roads, or nearly half the cost of the Panama canal. But it will help to have the federal government co-operate with the states. Indeed, this act and the co-operative agricultural extension act established a new principle in American government—the principal of co-operation between federal and state officers. Heretofore federal and state officers have too often looked at one another across the line, sometimes with apprehension as to what the other was going to do or think; sometimes with jealousy, not infrequently with friction."

The secretary expressed the hope that this law would be the beginning of a new era. Many state highway officials have come to Washington to find out what steps must be taken by a state to avail itself of the new law. To these Secretary Houston has replied:

"The act requires the state to accept it. That, as I understand, implies the assent of the state to every provision of the act. One of these provisions is that projects, plans, specifications, and contracts shall be submitted and approved; and I have a suspicion that plans and specifications will not be approved unless they are submitted by people who know about such things. So the assent of the state involves the calling of trained men into the service of every state which is now without them.

"The law involves another thing, the pledge of the faith of the state to meet in full the federal appropriation for the entire period covered by the act. The state legislature may not be able to appropriate money one year for the whole period covered by the act, but it can pledge the faith of the state to meet the financial provisions of the act for the period covered by it. This is as it should be. It would be wasteful not to make plans at the outset for the full period covered by the act; it would mean piecemeal road building and much dissipation of effort and misdirection of funds. These requirements hold whether the state as such, under the existing law, may engage in road building or not. The provision that where the state may not engage in highway improvement the money may be secured if counties raise an amount sufficient to meet the apportionment to the state involves the necessity on the part of such counties of raising an amount sufficient to meet the full apportionment for the state, the existence of a highway commission, and compliance with all the other terms of the act. I speak of this because there are evidences that individual counties think that, if they raise a certain sum of money, they will of necessity get a corresponding sum from the federal treasury. That is not my construction of the act and not the one that will be likely to prevail.

"The duty will rest upon you gentlemen who represent the states of informing the people as to the meaning of this legislation and as to procedure under it, because the initiative under the law lies with you. We are directed to co-operate with you; with the state through the state highway department. It is your duty, if your state accepts the law, to agree with us on roads to be constructed and to submit projects, plans and specifications. Therefore, individuals, associations, and counties will of necessity take up such matters directly with you, and we shall hear from them through you for the most part."

For the benefit of the people living in or near the national forests where the taxes from privately owned lands are small, the act carries an appropriation of $10,000,000 to build roads and trails in and near these forests. This sum is to be available a million a year for a period of ten years.

The net result of this act should be great improvement in roads and highways throughout the United States. This will mean better facilities for the farmers for getting his produce to market or to the railroad station or shipping point. Compared to European countries, the roads in the United States are extremely primitive. No European government would permit its roads to continue in the condition of most of ours. This legislation, and the action of the agricultural department in carrying it out should be of immense social and economic importance to the people.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Korein capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

II Corinthians 12:1-10.

1. It is not expedient for me doubtless to glory. I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord.
2. I knew a man in Christ above fourteen years ago (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such a one caught up to the third heaven.
3. And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;)
4. How that he was caught up into paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter.
5. Of such a one will I glory: yet of myself I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.
6. For though I would desire to glory, I shall not be a fool; for I will say the truth: but now I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.
7. And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure.
8. For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me.
9. And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me.
10. Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong.

E. A. K. Hackett

There is grief today in uncounted hundreds of hearts, a sorrow most deep and poignant over the passing of Edward A. K. Hackett, for many years owner and publisher of The Sentinel, whose death came most suddenly Monday afternoon at St. Joseph's hospital, following a very brief illness. To all who enjoyed even a casual acquaintance with Mr. Hackett there will come in this hour the realization that a lofty character and a good friend has gone from life. To those whose good fortune it has been to be closely associated with him will come the realization of a loss that is irreparable.

There are times when in the stress of sorrow's shock words are powerless to convey the real depth of one's feeling or to adequately measure the generosity of the loving tribute the heart would pay. To the attaches of The Sentinel in every department who have worked, many of them for many years, under Mr. Hackett's guidance and direction, who knew him intimately and who esteemed him thoroughly and deeply, this is one of the occasions when words seem pitifully weak and inadequate.

But Mr. Hackett's life was its own eulogy. The memory of it is a heritage far richer than material wealth or possessions of any kind. It is an inspiration. He was a successful man, but more than that he was a good man—good in the largest measure of that term. For more than thirty-five years the people of Fort Wayne have known him intimately and have appreciated the fine character, the exalted purposes and the high motives that were the outstanding characteristics of this admirable, devoted, kindly, generous man. He was deeply religious, and he found in his religion a joy that was constant, for he lived that religion. He was thoroughly and entirely what he professed to be. His one purpose was to do good in the world, and while it is impossible to adequately measure his achievements in this direction, it is certain they were vast. In a material way his benefactions were large, and they wre given with that fine generosity that is the finer because it is unobtrusive.

Mr. Hackett sought to help others and to make the world better. It was the inspiring motive of his life, and his was a life worth while because it yielded abundantly in good to all who in any way came within the sphere of his influence. His ideals were high. He stood for the best things in life. He gave support to every cause that had for its purpose human betterment. He sought to carry hope and cheer and kindness always. He was kindly, generous and just, and the memory of his life will be a treasured possession to all whose high privilege it was to know him.

The sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Edward A. K. Hackett, for many years editor and publisher of The Fort Wayne Sentinel, has been a heavy shock to the people of this city as it will be to thousands far and wide who knew him. That he was dead was the first intimation the public here received that he had been ill and the news of his passing on that account carries added distress to the community, which was in no way prepared for the sorrowful intelligence.

It is an ancient—also cynical—injunction that only good should be spoken of the dead, and largely the observance of it operates to make the conventional post-mortuary tribute a thing of cheapness and hypocrisy. Such as may read this may well bear that in mind, for it is solemnly a pleasure at this time here to set down our simple and honest conviction that Mr. Hackett was a man of whom only good can be said. That all of those who knew him well will join us with readiness and sincerity in this is equally our conviction.

We may say of Mr. Hackett that he was a devout and conscientious Christian, a man of honesty and honor, of deep charity and generous practices, of clean life and correct morals. Acknowledgment of these qualities does not describe him wholly. There are many such. He was all of that and more. His Christianity was to him not a dogmatic creed; it was a life to be lived and faithfully he lived it. His religion entered inseparably and intimately into everything that pertained to his daily life—his obligations of family, his relations with his friends, his duties of citizenship, his activities of business and pre-eminently into the multitude of responsibilities he assumed and the labors he bore that he might do good in the world. It might be impressive to many to exhibit in figures his generosity to the cause of religion and the total would astound some. It might raise him in the esteem of many to quote in terms of money what his numerous benevolences and charities had cost him and the sum might scarcely be credited. But these things, vastly to his credit though they be, were not his great merit. He was a man of means and able to be generous.

What we mean is that very few men give back to the world for useful purposes—in charitable, moral and spiritual effort, of both immediate and continuing beneficence—so great a part of what came to him. Few have ever known to what extent Mr. Hackett was lending to the Lord, for it was almost literally his practice not to let his left hand know what his right hand did. Giving—liberal as he was in that—perhaps was the least of his worthy works. Doing good in whatever ways were brought to him, both by settled course and casual opportunity, was fundamental in his scheme of ethics and his religious life. His keeping of faith with himself in all things that bore upon his conscience was the better, higher part of him. He believed in God and His goodness with the implicit and unquestioning faith of a child and his life on all its sides was ordered to that faith.

In journalism Mr. Hackett was keen, alert and progressive. His business sense and habits were of a high order and merited the signal successes they achieved for him. He took The Fort Wayne Sentinel thirty-six years ago, after a successful career as a country publisher, and from a run-down, struggling, almost moribund sheet he built it up to its present position as one of the large, prosperous and influential newspapers of Indiana. His newspaper policies were in perfect correspondence with his daily life. He sought to do good; he strove to be right; he wanted to help; he was always ready to lend a hand. He was pained to have given pain and we doubt if ever in his life he wittingly inflicted injury upon any mortal. All who read or have read his newspaper know that these things are true of him, and all those who were by good fortune permitted to enjoy his companionship and share intimacy with him know them vastly better. The death of Mr. Hackett is a loss to the community on many accounts and there is no fulsomeness in saying that it is a loss to mankind, while in his passing journalism loses a high and worthy exemplar of its better ethics.

This newspaper joins the people of Fort Wayne and many places else where they are well known in extending sincere sympathy to the family of Mr. Hackett.

(Dayton Herald.)

Achievement is the basis of the great prosperity which today places America at the head of nations. Achievement is the result of plans and dreams of men. The men who form the bulwark of America's leading industries found the romance and sentiment of industry before they achieved their unparalleled success in American industry. They glowed with the enthusiasm of making things, of hearing the hum of wheels, of seeing the moving trains as they swept across the continent. To know and feel that their efforts were building and developing the commerce of a nation primarily was the inspiration which led them to greater effort.

Men of dreams with the personality and ambition for achievement have developed America's most notable industries. Frank A. Vanderlip, who has become one of the greatest bankers in America, must have dreamed of speeding ships, of busy hands, of the development of untouched resources in foreign lands, before he became chairman of the fifty-million-dollar American International corporation. President Vanderlip has surrounded himself with men, who have vision, personality, imagination and accurate perceptions of the great business before them. He counts personality above everything else, and the personality which achieves is developed to its greatest efficiency in men of imagination and practical vision.

It has often been said that men who have worked their way to positions of great industrial strength have done it with cold, hard facts. But intimate knowledge of big men's achievement will show that dreams produced those cold, hard facts. These men found romance and sentiment in industry and the facts prove that they were not primarily inspired to the achievement of their great industrial strength by the jingle of gold. Men who have worked themselves to big positions were first concerned with achievement with consequent advancement as an ultimate reward.

AIN'T NATURE WONDERFUL?

Unnatural History, by Eugene Ahern.

GAS.

Y' know, George, I was readin' in the paper the other day about John Rockefeller laffin' out loud in a church durin' services in N' Yawk.

The papers said it was some line in the sermon that slid his wish-bone an' made him laff.

Oh, yes, it was.

You an' me know what made him laff, Ed, an' it wasn't the funny line in the sermon either (or I-ther as they say at afternoon teas).

The merry guffaws from John come out more than once when he thinks as how he's got a half-Nelson on the public with his gas and prices.

Yeh, but go easy on him, Luke, didn't he raise the price of gas from 12c to 24c a gal. and ain't he gradually gettin' kind-hearted and bringing it down a cent every year?

Oh!—we didn't know that. We take back them harsh words, John.

TO EXAMINE ALL SCHOOL CHILDREN

At the beginning of the term is the order from the board. This examination conducted by the school physicians cannot uncover every case, but does untold good. Teachers and those having experience with children agree they can't study when made nervous, irritable and unattentive by bad eyesight.

Meigs, the eyesight specialist, gives the most careful examination in the city. You, as a wise parent, want advice, not only for, but against glasses if not needed. You can have this advice without charge by calling at the Meigs' Optical Shop, 1012 Calhoun street.—Advertisement.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

The beautiful new St. Patrick's Catholic church which is nearly completed will be dedicated on October 9.

President Brice, of the Lake Erie and Western, was in the city yesterday visiting with local officials. He continued his journey today.

After a vacation of six weeks, the Fort Wayne Business College will reopen next Monday morning at the old place, Berry and Calhoun street.

Carpenters of the city are finding work very scarce this summer and many report that they have only done half what they did the previous year.

Work on the paving of West Berry street goes on steadily but oh how slow. The gang today is laying concrete between Van Buren and Jackson streets.

J. M. E. Riedel, the architect, has moved his offices to the Schmidt's building, corner Washington and Calhoun streets. His office is on the third floor.

The six-year-old son of George Hoffman, of Erie street, while playing with other children yesterday afternoon, fell from the top of the barn and fractured the bone of his left arm.

Professor Patterson, the newly elected member of the faculty of Taylor university, will arrive from Covington, Ind., next week, to take charge of his department in the local college.

Last evening the barbers elected E. R. Robinson, delegate and Charles Yeakly, alternate to the national convention of journeymen barbers to be held at Grand Rapids, Mich., December 1.

The Trades and Labor council held a meeting last night and made arrangements for Labor Day. They are planning to have the greatest labor demonstration parade ever given in Fort Wayne.

Great credit is due to the congregation of St. Mary's Catholic church for the new school building which is being erected at a cost of $20,000. The new building will be ready for occupancy by the first of October.

A gang of men are engaged in preparing North Lafayette street for block pavement. Between Holman and Montgomery streets this morning a natural gas pipe sprung a leak and as the big steam roller passed over the pipes a spark ignited the gas and flames leaped up ten feet in the air. The engineer had a narrow escape from death. The damage was slight as the blaze was soon extinguished.

In fact you left him rather pleased with yourself but vaguely wondering just why you had never done any better.

There is just one little thing he knows that most people are slow to realize—the value of a dollar.

He knows where they come from—how hard they are to keep—and he knows his best friend is a—

Snyder—Collins.

A few days ago The Sentinel told of the approaching wedding of William H. Snyder, the popular chief clerk to the general manager of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, to Miss Princess M. Collins, of Warsaw, but did not tell the part Dan Cupid took in the affair. The wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride in Warsaw last Saturday evening, the culmination of a pretty romance that began in Toledo, Ohio, years ago. Both were boys and girls together. They were sweethearts in school and later they were fellow students in a college of music. But somehow they drifted apart and for fifteen years they have not heard from each other. Dan Cupid got busy, however, on May 29, when they met very unexpectedly at Robison park. The friendship of years ago was revived, terminating in the happy marriage Saturday evening. Rev. A. W. Littrell, pastor of the Baptist church, at Warsaw, officiated. The bride's sisters, Mrs. W. O. Heinlein, of Chicago and Miss M. Collins, of Warsaw, and Mrs. Littrell were present. A wedding dinner followed the ceremony and later Mr and Mrs. Snyder left for Crooked lake, where they are now spending their honeymoon.

The bride wore a dainty dress of white net over silk, with corsage of roses. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Keech left on an eastern trip, the bride wearing a suit of blue broadcloth, with hat of royal blue velvet, the purplish tints harmonizing in both gown and hat. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the immediate families being present. The bride has for the past five years been connected with the European School of Music as a member of the faculty and is well and favorably known. Mr. Keech has been a resident of Fort Wayne for the past ten years. He is connected with the Medical Protective association. Upon their return from their honeymoon they will live at 510 East Creighton avenue.

Ball—Fisher.

Twelve months ago Cletus Ball, of 1025 Eliza street, sat fishing at Centerville, Mich., where he was spending his vacation. He didn't catch many fish, but he did catch a wife. While he sat there fishing two girls crossed the bridge. He heard them approaching and he casually looked up. One of them appealed to him as no other girl had ever done and through a friend he succeeded in later securing an introduction. She was Miss Hulda Fisher, of Columbus, Ohio. Letters were exchanged. He visited her. Both were quite sure it was a case of love at first sight with the result that a few days ago they were married. They had planned to keep the wedding a secret, but somehow their friends heard of it before they had returned to this city. They will make their future home here. The ceremony was performed at Centerville, Mich., Judge John Farrow, of the probate court, officiating.

If you like your actors a little taller, or with one leg a little shorter or one arm a little longer, Louis Gascogne, of the Royal Gascognes at the New Palace, is on the job. Standing perfectly erect he can by some strange, almost weird muscular movement actually add length. It's ludicrously funny, almost two inches to his height, shorten one leg fully two inches and stretch one arm three inches beyond its normal as much so in fact as the absurd manner in which he performs some remarkable tricks in juggling and balancing. The team provide a splendid top line attraction.

The Ching Wha Four, fresh from the Flowery Kingdom, are some harmonists, reeling off yard after yard of American rags, after opening in what they say is a Chinese love song. The Three Bennett Sisters, a trio of physical culture devotees, go through the various gymnasium training stunts, of swinging indian clubs, etc., in a whirlwind athletic act.

Sandy Shaw, the famous Scotch character comedian, has a grist of Scotch songs and stories, while Alex and Gina Dare open the show with a dainty athletic picnic in which these graceful people give an exhibition of difficult equilibristics. Two men and a girl, White, Mullally and White are versatile entertainers, singing a bit, dancing a bit and playing the piano a bit. Their closing number, a dancing trio, in which they play their own accompaniments at the piano, is a clever novelty.

AT THE MAJESTIC

New and Revised Edition of "Peck's Bad Boy" Wednesday.

Local theatregoers are to be offered a new and revised edition of "Peck's Bad Boy," by Irving Berlin, at the Majestic theatre, matinee and night, Wednesday, August 30. The mere announcement of the coming of this attraction will be sufficient to arouse the interest of all threatregoers, as it is a classic and is well known in every part of the United States. In its present form it is now one of the cleverest musical farce comedies on the stage.

The present management has been very fortunate in securing a company of clever vaudevillians headed by Lew Herman, the diminutive comedian. The advance sale of seats is now open. Popular prices of 10c, 20c, 30c and 50c will prevail.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"Sinners" at the Temple.

"Sinners," Owen Davis' new American play, which has rushed straight to the heart of everybody, will be the offering of the Temple Stock company next week. The attraction comes direct from a highly successful run of 321 performances at the Playhouse, New York, and is positively the first time it has been released for stock.

Briefly told, "Sinners" has to do with Mary Horton, who has gone to New York to seek her fortune. She is unable to find work, and penniless and hungry she, by chance, meets Hilda Newton, a former friend of her old home, who likewise came to the great city and who is well started on her gay wanderings. Mary, innocent of the danger that threatens her, has reached the brink of the first pitfall. Warning of her mother's dangerous illness saves her from the fatal step, and Mary hurries home where she is presently found by her former associates, who are on a motor trip. This collects all the characters under one roof and gives the opportunity for contrasted principles and points of view which are the burden of the story. There are four acts.

AT THE GRAND

Today the last chapter of "The Mysteries of Myra" will be shown at the Grand. This chapter brings to a close one of the best serial films of its kind ever offered to the show-going public. All those who have been following up this serial have been highly pleased, and, although the picture portrayed many occult and impossible phases, yet the story has been intensely interesting from start to finish.

Many Celebrations Will Mark Anniversary of University.

Notre Dame, Ind., Aug. 29.—Notre Dame university will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary this year and the observance of the diamond jubilee will be carried through all the school year. During the year the celebration will be featured by visits of Taft and Roosevelt, the governors of several states, the three American cardinals, Gibbons, Farley and O'Connell; the American Catholic hierarchy; the lactare medalists and the greatest possible number of Notre Dame alumni. Many of these will come about commencement time. Most of the visitors will deliver addresses.

The dedication of several new buildings also will distinguish this festal year. The new library and the Knights of Columbus building are to be completed within the year and it is expected that the engineering building and old students' hall also will be dedicated.

Elaborate pageants, showing the history of Notre Dame will be given during the year. The history of Notre Dame reads almost like a romance, through which move such men as Marquette, De La Salle, Allouez, DeSeille and later Badin, Alexis Coquillard, Pokagon the Pottawatomie, and Sorin, who converted the little Indian mission into the school. Six books now in course of preparation, by Notre Dame professors, will be published during the year. Chief Justice White, of the United States supreme court, a lactare medalist, is expected.

Elmer Davis, Paroled From Reformatory, Was at State Penal Farm.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 29.—Elmer Davis, age 22, had a good excuse for reporting monthly to the authorities of the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville, from which he had been paroled. He was busy serving another sentence at the state penal farm.

Davis had received the latter sentence several months ago, but the reformatory officers were not aware of it. Both were for larceny. He was arrested on returning here after serving his penal farm term.

Jude Frank Ellis sentenced the defendant both times, having forgotten the first instance when Davis was before him the second time. Davis's parole has not been revoked.

THE VOGUE OF BEADED BELTS

THE popularity of separate skirts has made it necessary to pay strict attention to belts. They are really a necessity, but unless they are rightly chosen they are apt to mar the effect of the costumes with which they are worn.

Belts of white leather ornamented with leather of contrasting color and cut in queer shapes are very stylish with sports suits of bright colors. Much attention is being given to beaded belts just now. In most cases Indian beads are used for the purpose. On the belts shown steel and white beads are used effectively. The narrow one of blue suede leather is given a rather grotesque air by the introduction of little figures brought to light by means of white beads.

MENDING VEILS

THE veil of today's fashion, with its delicate and intricate mesh and its exquisite tracery of pattern, is, at its strongest, a frail possession and one easily rent asunder by a very slight accident. And a veil, however new and costly it may be, that exhibits an oval gap just across the tip of one's chin, or a widening slit at the corner of one's eyebrow, makes but a sorry impression on the beholder and takes from any wearer the feeling of being perfectly dressed.

Yet to find, after two or three wearings, that one's expensive veil has acquired such broken places is a grievous thing. To discard it entirely is hard; to adjust it in such fashion as to conceal the holes is an uncertain resource apt to end in betrayal, while actual mending is almost impossible, without leaving plain evidence of the repairing. No sewing silk is at once fine enough and strong enough to draw together the sides of the rent and still be invisible. The use of mending tissue, in order to apply securely a patch of the same material, means that a lapping of edge over edge is essential and consequently a thickening of the fabric.

One method there is, however, which, tho "fussy" and requiring both patience and careful handling, gives results that are virtually imperceptible. It is certainly worth trying in the case of veils of even moderate price. For this use instead of sewing silk a long, fine human hair to catch together the break. It has been done by the writer, with success.

If the veil is dark, always work over a white apron or smooth white cloth laid on the lap. The tinier the tear, the easier to mend—so take the "stitch in time" before the first little break is stretched and spread into an unsightly opening by a second wearing. The "fussiness" of this craft consists first in the absolute necessity of fastening the end of the hair thru and to the fabric of the veil by tying it securely in a tiny hard knot before beginning to bring together the sides of the hole, and secondly, in that "stubbornness" latent in hairs, as sewing material, which makes them constantly escape from the eye of one's needle, if not watched vigilantly.

If possible, have the hair used long enough to mend the torn place "in once." When all the edges have been caught carefully together until they have met without bunching, fasten the end of the hair as at the beginning with a tiny, tight hard knot in the net, and do not cut the "thread" too close to it, as the natural elasticity of all human hair may result in its working itself loose.

If uncertain as to one's ability to handle this novel repair work, it is advisable to practice on an old veil until a little ease in "mending with hair" is gained, before commencing on the hole in one's very best veil.

AROUND THE HOUSE

A TIME-SAVING plan which all housekeepers should follow is that of having the exact change ready for the iceman, the milkman, the paper man, etc., when they come each week to collect their bills. In this way the housekeeper can divide her weekly allowance into proper amounts when it is given to her, the separate accounts being slipped into little envelopes. The collectors will be just as grateful as you for the plan.

There are many women who are worn out more by thinking of the household tasks that are to be performed than by the actual performing of the tasks. This can be overcome by hanging in a convenient place a pad. As each idea comes into mind make a note of it, and then forget it until an opportune time for carrying out the idea presents itself. As each task is performed it can be checked off the list.

Purchase three or four wire baskets such as are used in business offices. Fasten them to the inside of the pantry or cellar door. They will prove most convenient for holding papers, lids, twine and other odds and ends for which it is always more or less difficult to find a place.

If you want to prevent people from carrying dripping umbrellas thru your house, fasten a towel rack to the side of the house near the porch door. Place a tray beneath it, so that the water will not trickle over the porch. The rack will prevent the umbrellas from falling or being blown over by the wind.

WHEN THE DAY IS DAWNING

IN THE early morning, when you arise and dash cold water on your face, doesn't it make you feel like a little sprite and give you lots of energy? If not, here is a boudoir cap that will make you feel very gnomelike. It is made of pink and green satin. The satin is cut in small cone shapes and sewn together to fit around the head. Each row is graduated a little so that the end of the last one forms a point at the top. The part fitting the head is faced with sea foam green and pale pink chiffon. Is not this very elflike?

SERGE AND CHIFFON FROCK

THERE will come a time when it will be too cool to wear lingerie frocks on the street without a coat, and yet it will be too warm for a top-coat. Therefore, a demand for a frock that will fit the bill arises. Serge is a material which answers to the call willingly and satisfactorily, and proves very congenial when used in connection with satin, taffeta or chiffon. Here is a frock which bears the "good" stamp. It is practical enough for street wear and at the same time has enough of a dressy atmosphere to warrant its appearance at an afternoon tea or party.

Dark blue chiffon and dark blue serge have been combined for the frock. The fullness of the sleeves is a note not to be overlooked. Another interesting feature of the frock is the vest and the surplice line, gained by the clever manipulation of the serge. Tiny cloth-covered buttons emphasize the vest effect.

Almost every other serge frock shows the use of embroidery of the machine, hand or bead variety. Purple machine stitching is used in this instance to elaborate the blouse and to outline the pockets.

It is interesting to note the different ways in which two materials are combined to fashion skirts. Striped effects, patch pieces, scallops and points are all brought into use. In this case the serge is joined in point effects to the upper part, which is of chiffon.

TIRED FEET

THE woman who stands on her feet all day should make sure to wear comfortable shoes if she wishes to save herself future foot trouble. Should the feet become tired when the day is half or three quarters over, great relief can be gained by changing the shoes. Keep an extra pair in the office, store or library. At night bathe the feet in warm salt water, and after drying them rub olive oil into the skin. The oil will prove most efficacious if one has callous spots.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Sports Dress

What material would you suggest for making a striped skirt and a plain material Russian blouse for tennis? Please suggest how to make a hat to go with this.

Miss W. E.

You might combine a plain linen, pongee, or if you want something more elaborate, silk or wool jersey. If you have a small buckram sailor shape, you may cover the crown with the stripe running from front to back, and face the brim with the plain material, using the striped as well for the top of the brim.

Stout Woman

What will make a pretty dress for a stout woman? I want to use a light colored material, if this is possible, but want to make it up in a becoming style.

Mrs. A. C. N.

Tussor is a good material, as also is pongee as they have some body to them, or in lighter weight materials, voile, net, chiffon cloth and georgette crepe are all good. Make a front panel to the skirt, and then you may have an overskirt or tunic which slope from the side below the hips to the panel in back, where it touches the top of the hem. The waist is made in surplice style, with a vestee of net.

MEDICAL MEN TO MEET.

The annual convention of the Indiana State Medical association will be held in this city September 27, 28 and 29. Between four and five hundred doctors from all parts of the state will be in attendance. An interesting program has been arranged. The winner in the civic beauty and health contest will be named Wednesday morning from the ten contestants who have been chosen as victors in their respective wards. The committee to pick the grand prize winner is made up of Miss Minnette Baum, Mrs. Walter Seavey and Mrs. Gaston Bailhe.

The ten highest in the contest in in which 2,000 children enrolled at the opening of spring were chosen Monday afternoon when fifty judges met in the court house at the call of Mrs. Josephine Nesbitt, head of the civic contest.

Names of the ward victors are being kept secret and the grand prize winner will not be announced until sometime in October when all children, who have taken part in the contest, will be called together and the winner presented with the prize. Some form of entertainment will be arranged for the occasion.

Mrs. Nesbitt gave an illustrated lecture on the value and inexpensiveness of making a city beautiful before the gathering Monday afternoon. County Engineer A. W. Reiling operated the picture machine. Mrs. Nesbitt paid tribute to the women who have worked with her during the hot summer months.

William Maier, of Troy, graduate of Michigan university, and noted landscape gardner, was in Fort Wayne Tuesday to view the results of the beautification campaign.

"Everywhere I see the fruits of the persistent work of Mrs. Nesbitt," he said. "Most of the results are modest yet beautiful and a move in the right direction."

MOVEMENT OF BATTERY DEPENDS ON NUMBERS

Captain John Scheffer to Call Adjutant General Tuesday Evening.

Whether Battery D will entrain for Fort Benjamin Harrison Wednesday morning will depend entirely upon the number of men enlisted. An order from the adjutant general a few days ago stated that Captain Scheffer should recruit to war strength of 176 men. At the present time ten more men are needed to meet the demand.

Tuesday evening Captain Scheffer will call the adjutant general to inquire if it is advisable to proceed to the state's mobilization grounds without the required number. The train which will take the men to Indianapolis has arrived in Fort Wayne and is now standing in the Lake Erie and Western railroad yards.

The men are being drilled each day and already much improvement has been shown. All the men who have reported have been assigned to the various sections of the battery.

BRIDE'S TEARS AVAIL; SEVENTEENS ARE WED

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 29.—Before Willard E. Lamb, age 17, of Spiceland, and Rozella Harris, also 17, who lived in Cowan, could be married yesterday it took the combined efforts of those two, the mothers of each, and Judge Frank Ellis, of the circuit court.

When the youth, who is the Union traction station agent at Spiceland, and his sweetheart applied at the county clerk's office for a license, they were refused on account of their age and told to bring the consent of their parents. The mothers of the two then appeared with the children and reluctantly consented to the marriage, although advising that they wait a while. Then the clerk discovered he couldn't issue the license unless ordered to do so by the circuit court, whereupon the applicants and their mothers appeared before Judge Ellis and made the request.

The court was not inclined to give his permission, telling the boy he should wait until he was at least a year older, but when the bride-elect gave evidence of tears the court hurriedly gave the required permission and the two were married yesterday in Cowan.

SEES RELIEF FROM PARALYSIS PLIGHT

With the present wave of cool weather and no new cases of infantile paralysis reported in the past six days, health board members think that spread of the disease has been successfully checked. Continued vigilence on the part of parents for a few weeks should remove all fear of an epidemic of the paralysis, it is given out.

"Cool weather always discourages disease germs. We do not know the temperature at which paralysis germs are inactive but all germs thrive best in torrid weather. We know the germs will not be given a chance if children are kept to themselves," one of the board members said Tuesday.

School is sure to open October 1, unless new complications arise in the paralysis situation, the health board gives out. All cases of the paralysis now existing are improving as rapidly as could possibly be expected. There will be no deaths in the city. No new cases have been discovered in the county outside of Fort Wayne although all outlying towns have been ordered to keep a close watch for symptoms of the disease.

Parents must not take their children to the health board office to have them examined for symptoms of paralysis. This brings children together in the health board room and is as bad as for them to play together, board members say. Children must be examined and given certificates by their family physicians if examined at all.

DEATH PACT BALKED BY CHICAGO LAWYER

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Frank Harris and his wife, Leota, of 1332 South Wabash avenue, arrested on charges of violating the Harrison narcotic act, attempted to make a suicide pact in the court room of United States Commissioner Mark A. Foote yesterday. Michael L. Igoe, assistant United States district attorney, blocked the plan. Mrs. Harris carried her 14-months-old daughter. The infant is a victim of morphine, acquired from her mother's breast. Bridewell physicians say Mrs. Harris' system is saturated with the drug.

When Harris and his wife were arraigned before Commissioner Foote Mr. Igoe suggested that the mother be sent to the bridewell and the infant placed in a hospital.

"If you are going to take the baby away from me I don't want to live," the woman said. The man and woman are being held in the bridewell. The baby was sent to a hospital.

MILLS EXPLAINS HIS COUNCIL STATEMENT

Asked Money Taken From Light Plant Because Needed Elsewhere.

"I feel that it is my duty to take exception to the advertisement in the Fort Wayne Sentinel last evening, warning the tax payers against the suggestion that the $15,000 taken from the general fund for the lighting department be put back into the fund from which it came. I have no objection to the advertising, as I, myself, am a stockholder in the municipal plant, since I am a tax payer and am also a consumer. While the advertisement does not directly accuse me of working against the lighting department, yet since the suggestion was made to the council by me at the last meeting that the money be put back in the general fund, I want to repeat that the suggestion was originally made by the city controller, in the presence of a number of councilmen.

"As the matter went by without mention, Mr. Baade mentioned it to me again, and at our regular council meeting, August 22nd, while we were taking a recess waiting for the committee report to be made upon the budget, the president wanted to know if someone did not have something for the general good of the city. I took the opportunity of mentioning the suggestion made by Mr. Baade, and am very sorry that Mr. Baade was not present to introduce his argument in favor of this question. Possibly it is not good politics to bring up such matters, but since I agreed with Mr. Baade on this question, I felt it was my duty to put the question before the council. I believe as a member of the city administration, that we should settle these matters on a purely business basis.

"I asked that we cut out the light plant appropriation because the light plant can take care of itself and we need money from the general fund for many other purposes," Councilman J. B. Mills said Tuesday.

"We need money for added police protection, fire protection, paving of streets, street flushing and other things. The lighting plant is self-supporting, according to Controller Baade."

"In the first place I believe the municipal lighting plant was paid for by taxation, at the request of the majority of the voters, and now since it is on a good running basis; in fact they are making more than enough money to run the plant and take care of the improvements as they go along. If this was not the truth the utilities commission would not permit the low rate which we, as consumers, are permitted to enjoy. I understand from the controller the lighting department has an accumulation of $30,000 to their credit. If this is true, then why should we take money from the general fund?

"It must be borne in mind that this question came up because there was not enough money in the general fund to take care of the requirements, and which prompted Mr. Baade to suggest taking the $15,000 and put it back in the general fund. Mr. Baade should be given credit for the conserved and business manner in which he has tried to take care of the financial burdens of the city. Since he, himself, is a successful business man, his opinions on these matters should be given consideration. I am sure the general fund would be in better shape and we could take care of the city needs better if we acted more on his suggestion, of making both the city electric lighting and the waterworks departments pay their own expenses, particularly if they are financially able. I want to make it plain, however, that if either of these departments were in need, that I would be willing to help them out, but such is not the case at this time.

"There are many things needed for the city which have to be hampered because of lack of funds to carry out to the fullest extent.

"The question which I think requires earnest and unbiased consideration, is whether or not the electric lighting department and the water works department who are making more than enough money to take care of their business, should not pay into the general fund, or at least pay back the money that has been given them, not included in the original tax assessment in order that we might partly at least take care of some of the above necessities, and for which the taxpayers really think that their money is being paid for. There is only one way to answer this question, what would you do if the money belonged to you? We as citizens are stockholders in all three concerns, namely: City, Electric Light Plant and Water Works Department, because we paid for them through taxation and our tax duplicate is our stock certificate.

"The members of the city council are elected by the people as the board of directors to handle the business of all three concerns and the question now before this board, is whether we shall take the money that we have already given to the lighting department out of the general fund, which department is on good financial basis and making money for the taxpayers, or shall we leave the other business, namely: the City go backward, who is already in debt and cannot take care of the needed improvements and are not even able to increase the pay of their help. Now, do you consider, we take the money out of the city fund to help a prosperous concern that is making more than enough money to take care of their own improvements. Would it not be more logical and business like to take the money from the successful concern to help the one that is in need, or at least pay back what they borrowed. Possibly my judgment in this matter has not been good, but I acted in good faith and had only the general welfare of the city in mind at the time.

"I shall abide my opinion until it has been proven to me otherwise.

"This question really has never come up in council for general discussion, but if it ever does I am sure that the majority will give this question sincere consideration and will act according to their best judgment."

Ray McNay, driving an Ostewig Special and accompanied by Bobby Gunderson, stopped in this city for dinner, Tuesday, while on his way to the big Cincinnati races Labor Day. The car that he is driving is one of the fastest entered in the big race. In a conversation with a Sentinel reporter he said he had made better than a hundred miles an hour in it on a good track. The machine had just finished a racing engagement at Kalamazoo where it gathered in real coin with the aid of McNay. The boys live in Leo, Ill., and are out for the summer racing season. The races Labor Day at Cincinnati are attracting as much attention as any other sporting event on that day. Some of the most noted drivers are entered and are to race for the $30,000 prize money. J. FRANK'S PICTURE TURNS UP MISSING

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 29.—It became known today, following a visit of Ed Donnell, clerk of the state board of printing and binding, to the office of Governor Ralston, that the big, framed photograph of J. Frank Hanly, prohibition candidate for president, had mysteriously disappeared from above the doorway of the state printing board's office. The picture, framed in yellow pine and secretly hung above Donnell's door while Donnell was away on his vacation, attracted wide attention at the state house and caused much talk among democrats who hold sway at the capitol.

When Donnell returned from his vacation he disclaimed knowledge of the picture. He was summoned to the office of Governor Ralston and an explanation was asked.

Donnell preferred to use the words of his seatmate at the statehouse, Ben Strickland, while he sought to explain his innocence in connection with the picture or to prove an alibi. He was pressed for something definite, but all he could say was that "the whole thing's decollete to me, governor."

When he was asked how the picture disappeared he referred questioners to Strickland, who disclaimed all knowledge of any theft, other than to declare that he understood the picture had been confiscated by the democratic state committee.

CITY MAY BUY BIG COMBINATION TRUCK

Purchase of a five ton auto truck, to cost $6,500, and to be used for cleaning catch basins, street flushing and general trucking purposes, is being considered by Mayor Hoser, City Engineer Randall and members of the works board. Demonstration of the machine has been asked for by the officials.

R. H. Thompson, civil engineer of Seattle, Wash., representative of the company which manufactures the big car, presented several pictures of the truck at work before city officials Tuesday morning. He said the truck was being used in several large cities, including Seattle.

Chief use of the machine is for removing sand and other sediment from corner catch basins. The motor apparatus does this by a suction process. It is guaranteed to thoroughly clean at least fifty catch basins of ordinary size in a day. There are 3,000 catch basins on Fort Wayne street corners. They are cleaned once a year at a cost of $1 apiece. Often they fill up and clog the sewer in districts where much dirt is washed into them. They could be cleaned several times a year by using the motor driven apparatus.

The truck carries a combination for street flushing. The tank on the big car will hold 1,200 gallons of water. It could be used in summer for street cleaning. It can also be used for general trucking purposes and is equipped with a hoist for unloading its contents.

RAILWAY EARNINGS GREATER.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The total gross earnings of American railroads making weekly reports to Dunn's Review are placed for the first two weeks in August at $17,672,553, an increase of 12.4 per cent as compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

These figures are slightly more favorable than for the previous week, when the gain was 10.4 per cent, while, as compared with the same two weeks in 1914, when railroad earnings were the largest ever reported for this period, an improvement of approximately 9.6 per cent appears.

The most satisfactory feature of the returns is the unusual uniformity of the increases, every road included in this week's statement reporting more or less expansion over both previous years, which indicates that business activity is not confined to any particular part of the country.

FRED FIELDS TAKEN ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Fred Fields, leader of the gang of men employed at the Western Gas plant, was arrested Tuesday afternoon on a charge of striking one of his workmen. Fields was released after putting up $50 bond at the police station. He will appear in court Wednesday.

Joseph Varsailles, Frenchman, employed at the plant for the past two weeks, and who worked under Fields at Findlay, signed the affidavit against Fields. He said Fields struck him twice when Varsailles asked to draw his pay Monday afternoon.

Varsailles has a badly strained wrist, which he tells was sustained as he fell to the floor from the second blow from Fields. Varsailles is being held in jail as a witness against Fields.

Varsailles tells that he was not being paid as much money as Fields paid the men at Findlay, and Varsailles objected. He said he should have received $4 a day and only got $3.50. When Varsailles said he would quit, Fields was angry and hit him, he told. Fields refused to make any comment on the affair.

Maude Ballington Booth Speaker at Chautauqua in Richmond.

Thank God that is not the attitude of Indiana. It has been my joy to hold up Indiana as an example to other states. I believe your prison at Michigan City is the cleanest state prison in the United States."

Mrs. Booth, during her stay in Richmond, is the guest of the Federation of Woman's clubs here. She was introduced to the audience by Mrs. E. E. McDivitt.

"We are without a center, quarterback and ends, the most essential points on the team, and without good men for those positions it is impossible for Coach O'Donnell to turn out a team. Practice will start with the opening of school and Hake will assume the coaching responsibilities until conference rules permit the coach to take charge of the men."

BASEBALL ATHLETICS

CLEARYITES TO HAVE A REAL BALL GAME

There can be no doubt concerning the game Sunday for it is an evident fact that Payne, O., has a fast ball club and will give the fans a fine exhibition of baseball. The last appearance of the Buckeyes here broke the ice and as the team gave the Clearyites such a drubbing the fans will turn out in mobs to see them try to duplicate. When the Payne tossers run up against the Clearyites this time they will find a different team, one that can and does play ball all the time.

The little backyard league between the Payne and Fort Wayne teams finds the standing as follows: Payne has played three, won two and lost one, while Fort Wayne has won one and lost two.

The battery for the Buckeyes will be Oestermeyer and Hargrave. In addition the crew has Andy Wares, Red Rabus and Chris Chambers, all of whom are fine ball players.

Labor Day.

The Fort Wayne Colored Giants will have another chance to whip the Clearyites when the two teams get together on Labor day. The management of the Giants are spending all kinds of money to get a lineup that will clean Cleary. Dupee and Wilson have secured Harrison, Carr, Bady and Simmons, four of the fastest men on the Lima Giants. In addition, West of the Louisville Black Sox, has been signed. Bullet Fields will again be seen on the mound and will furnish the same brand of pitching as he always has.

PIGEONS FLY TWO HUNDRED MILE RACE

Club Liberates a Hundred and Eleven Birds at Bement, Ill.

The Old Fort Homing club got into action again Sunday and shipped 111 birds to Bement, Ill., at which place the birds were released. A. J. Rondot had two that took first and second place and he feels highly elated. This is the third race conducted by the club this season, with the birds making good time and furnishing good sport for the members of the club. The winning bird was liberated, as were all the rest of the flock, at exactly 6:30 a. m., covering the 200 mile race at the rate of 733.33 yards per second, and arriving at Fort Wayne at 2:30 p. m. Next Sunday the club has planned a sporting race from the same city as the race was conducted from last Sunday. The club will liberate thirty birds on this occasion and if everything is favorable they should have an exciting race.

The results of Sunday's race are: A. J. Rondot, 73,265 yards; A. J. Rondot, 72,037; E. Braun, 69,324; J. J. O'Rourke, 69,308; H. Kellemeyer, 69,172; C. H. Menser, 69,002; A. W. Boerger, 68,805; E. H. Menefee, 68,790; F. Norwald, 58,869; C. Otting, 56,342.

Pipe this picture for the proof. The Chicago knockerout is seen ascending to the heights of a telegraph pole which chanced to catch his eye during a hike over the mountain roads near his camp. Climbing has been a part of White's daily work ever since he donned fighting togs and a little thing like altitude is the least of his worries.

Both principals in the big battle played safe by arriving upon the scene several days in advance of their titular scrap, and both are fast becoming acclimated. White, having fought twice in Denver, says he never experienced any ill effects from the atmosphere. One of his engagements went nineteen rounds before White's deadly left silenced Stanley Yoakum.

HERE'S CHARLIE WHITE SHI[illegible] TO BREAK MONOTONY OF TEN-MILE HIKE OVER MOUNTAINS.

SPORT DOPE

When Coveleskie pitches for them, the Tigers usually pole out a victory.

Alexander's pennant band appears to be playing ragtime music.

Frank Moran isn't the speediest boxfighter in the world but he's got something on Dutch Schaefer's phenom, who could run all day on a thin dime.

See where Tommy Ryan, former middle champ, is doing well with his boxing club in Syracuse. He's making money glove over glove.

Labor day has it's advantages. For instance it gives some of the star morning infielders a chance to butt into the fracas.

We have it straight from Frank Gotch that speed, endurance and skill are essential to a wrestler who is successful. Naturally the size of the purse hasn't a thing to do with it.

SHAFFER WINS IN WAWASEE TOURNEY

Will Griffin, of Fort Wayne, Acts as One of the Officials.

Wawasee, Ind., Aug. 29.—Paul Shaffer, of the Riverside golf club of Indianapolis, won the low gross prize in the invitational golf tournament here Sunday with a card of 85. Ed Bond, of Wabash, was second with a score of 87. W. L. Groth, of Warsaw, won the low net trophy with a score of 73. He shot a gross 997 and had a handicap of 24 strokes.

Mrs. Gordon Tanner, of Indianapolis, won the women's tournament with Mrs. Crittenberger, of Anderson, second, and Mrs. Kenneth Burr, of Gary, third.

The tournament was the first to be played on the new nine hole course, which measures 3,010 yards. The field of players was a large one, 104 golfers from Indiana, Illinois and Ohio taking part.

In a special four ball match played between Chick Nelson and Paul Shaffer, of Indianapolis, and Cyril Walker and Ed Bond, of Wabash, Nelson and Walker are professionals. The match was followed by a crowd of 400 people. The Wabash men won the match 2 up and one to play, Walker shooting a 76 and incidentally wihning a side bet from Nelson. Nelson and Shaffer both shot an 81 and Bond took an 86.

The tournament was in charge of the following committee: Frank Remy, of Anderson; Will Griffin, of Fort Wayne; Mark Honeywell, of Wabash, and Larry Ballou, of Wawasee.

$1,000 FOR TWENTY-FIVE WINS.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Grover Alexander, star pitcher for the Philadelphia National league team, is $1,000 better off for having won his game against the Cubs here yesterday. It was the twenty-fifth victory for Alexander this season, which gave him the bonus of $1,000 offered by the Phillies should he score twenty-five wins during 1916. Alexander had another mark to shoot at in the game with the Cubs. He has pitched thirteen shutout games this season and should he twirl another it will make a new record.

The doubles play of the Fort Wayne city tournament has progressed so nicely that the semi-finals have been reached. The pairing for next Saturday afternoon are Popp and Plogsterth vs. Bailhe and O'Rourke; Porter and Parry vs. Burton and Mulholland. The play of the Popp-Plogsterth and Bailhe-O'Rourke match will be watched with interest as it looks like a good bet that the winner will take the city title. The high school pair have been going fine this season and are due to upset the dope and make a clean win. Another match that will arouse interest is the Porter-Parry and Burton-Mulholland match. Here is another pair of high school stars pitted against experienced and star tennis wielders. The Burton-Mulholland pair are making a name for themselves this season and about ripe enough to fool some of the older ones. Mulholland is the youth that startled the tennis fans by his consistent winning in the northern Indiana tennis tournament in which he went up to the fourth round.

The singles of the city tournament are dragging along with hardly any interest at all. Not a single third round match has been played as yet and to reach the semi-finals by Saturday someone will have to do some tall hustling to get ready. George Bailhe and Clinton Burton wish to make it known that all third round matches must be played so they can make arrangements for the semi-finals at the Country club. The results of the play in the past few days are as follows: Stephens won from Mont, 6-0, 6-2; Mulholland defeated Frank, 6-3, 6-3. The rest of the second round matches that have not been reported to the committee as yet follow:

Dochterman vs. C. Gawhen, winner of which plays Burton; J. Berghoff vs. Parry, winner of which plays Stephens; O'Rourke vs. W. Berghoff, winner of which plays Mulholland. In the other third round contest Dr. Miles F. Porter, jr., the present city champion, meets George Bailhe.

The doubles results are as follows: Bailhe-O'Rourke won from Gawehn-Gawehn 6-3, 6-3; Carver-Lanche won from Fern-Schulte, 6-4, 2-6 and 7-5; Popp-Plogsterth won from Fischer-Stephens, 4-6, 6-4 and 6-3; Bailhe-O'Rourke won from Ortlieb-Skeer 6-3, 6-2; Porter-Parry won from Leucke-Kruse, 6-2 and 6-3; Burton-Mulholland won from Carver-Lansche 6-2, 6-1.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

"I pitched my first curve ball in the National league during our last trip to Pittsburg. I have never had a curve, and every player and manager in the majors knows it.

"I have always depended on my fast one—my spitter—and using my head, but I have lately been working with a curve and think I will fool a lot of the wise boys.

"I took a chance in the fifth inning against Pittsburg when Bob Harmon was up with two out and we were four runs to the good. I offered Bob as nice a curve as you ever saw. He came near making a hit off me but McCarty made a great play and retired him. I'll try the experiment again."

"RED" FABER, CHICAGO WHITE SOX.

"Baseball would have been played generally in France this summer had it not been for the war. When the White Sox and Giants toured the world we found the citizens of Paris quite enthusiastic over the game.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see France adopt baseball as the national game at the close of hostilities. Look at the manner in which they took to boxing and the short time in which they produced good fighters of their own.

"Canadian soldiers have been playing baseball during their spare time at the front and in several games they have opposed teams made up of French sol[illegible]

CLEARYITES TO HAVE A REAL BALL GAME

Crack Payne Tossers Coming to Play Another Game in Series.

There can be no doubt concerning the game Sunday for it is an evident fact that Payne, O., has a fast ball club and will give the fans a fine exhibition of baseball. The last appearance of the Buckeyes here broke the ice and as the team gave the Clearyites such a drubbing the fans will turn out in mobs to see them try to duplicate. When the Payne tossers run up against the Clearyites this time they will find a different team, one that can and does play ball all the time.

The little backyard league between the Payne and Fort Wayne teams finds the standing as follows: Payne has played three, won two and lost one, while Fort Wayne has won one and lost two.

The battery for the Buckeyes will be Oestermeyer and Hargrave. In addition the crew has Andy Wares, Red Rabus and Chris Chambers, all of whom are fine ball players.

Labor Day.

The Fort Wayne Colored Giants will have another chance to whip the Clearyites when the two teams get together on Labor day. The management of the Giants are spending all kinds of money to get a lineup that will clean Cleary. Dupee and Wilson have secured Harrison, Carr, Budy and Simmons, four of the fastest men on the Lima Giants. In addition, West of the Louisville Black Sox, has been signed. Bullet Fields will again be seen on the mound and will furnish the same brand of pitching as he always has.

PIGEONS FLY TWO HUNDRED MILE RACE

The Old Fort Homing club got into action again Sunday and shipped 111 birds to Bement, Ill., at which place the birds were released. A. J. Rondot had two that took first and second place and he feels highly elated. This is the third race conducted by the club this season, with the birds making good time and furnishing good sport for the members of the club. The winning bird was liberated, as were all the rest of the flock, at exactly 6:30 a. m., covering the 200 mile race at the rate of 733.23 yards per second, and arriving at Fort Wayne at 2:30 p. m. Next Sunday the club has planned a sporting race from the same city as the race was conducted from last Sunday. The club will liberate thirty birds on this occasion and if everything is favorable they should have an exciting race.

The results of Sunday's race are: A. J. Rondot, 73,265 yards; A. J. Rondot, 72,037; E. Braun, 69,324; J. J. O'Rourke, 69,308; H. Kellemeyer, 69,172; C. H. Menser, 69,002; A. W. Boerger, 68,805; E. H. Menefee, 68,790; F. Norwald, 58,669; C. Otting, 56,342.

COLORADO'S ALTITUDE DOESN'T WORRY WHITE; CLIMBS TELEGRAPH POLES WHILE TRAINING!

Pipe this picture for the proof. The Chicago knockerout is seen ascending to the heights of a telegraph pole which chanced to catch his eye during a hike over the mountain roads near his camp. Climbing has been a part of White's daily work ever since he donned fighting togs and a little thing like altitude is the least of his worries.

Both principals in the big battle played safe by arriving upon the scene several days in advance of their titular scrap, and both are fast becoming acclimated. White, having fought twice in Denver, says he never experienced any ill effects from the atmosphere. One of his engagements went nineteen rounds before White's deadly left silenced Stanley Yoakum.

PORT DOPE

When Coveleskie pitches for them, the Tigers usually pole out a victory.

Alexander's pennant band appears to be playing ragtime music.

Frank Moran isn't the speediest boxfighter in the world but he's got something on Dutch Schaefer's phenom, who could run all day on a thin dime.

See where Tommy Ryan, former middle champ, is doing well with his boxing club in Syracuse. He's making money glove over glove.

Labor day has it's advantages. For instance it gives some of the star morning infielders a chance to butt into the fracas.

We have it straight from Frank Gotch that speed, endurance and skill are essential to a wrestler who is successful. Naturally the size of the purse hasn't a thing to do with it.

Ed Bond, of Wabash, was second with a score of 87. W. L. Groth, of Warsaw, won the low net trophy with a score of 73. He shot a gross 997 and had a handicap of 24 strokes.

The tournament was the first to be played on the new nine hole course, which measures 3,010 yards. The field of players was a large one, 104 golfers from Indiana, Illinois and Ohio taking part.

In a special four ball match played between Chick Nelson and Paul Shaffer, of Indianapolis, and Cyril Walker and Ed Bond, of Wabash, Nelson and Walker are professionals. The match was followed by a crowd of 400 people. The Wabash men won the match 2 up and one to play. Walker shooting a 76 and incidentally winning a side bet from Nelson. $1,000 FOR TWENTY-FIVE WINS.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Grover Alexander, star pitcher for the Philadelphia National league team, is $1,000 better off for having won his game against the Cubs here yesterday. It was the twenty-fifth victory for Alexander this season, which gave him the bonus of $1,000 offered by the Phillies should he score twenty-five wins during 1916. Alexander had another mark to shoot at in the game with the Cubs. He has pitched thirteen shutout games this season and should he twirl another it will make a new record.

The doubles play of the Fort Wayne city tournament has progressed so nicely that the semi-finals have been reached. The pairing for next Saturday afternoon are Popp and Plogsterth vs. Bailhe and O'Rourke; Porter and Parry vs. Burton and Mulholland. The play of the Popp-Plogsterth and Bailhe-O'Rourke match will be watched with interest as it looks like a good bet that the winner will take the city title. The high school pair have been going fine this season and are due to upset the dope and make a clean win. Another match that will arouse interest is the Porter-Parry and Burton-Mulholland match. Here is another pair of high school stars pitted against experienced and star tennis wielders. The Burton-Mulholland pair are making a name for themselves this season and about ripe enough to fool some of the older ones. Mulholland is the youth that startled the tennis fans by his consistent winning in the northern Indiana tennis tournament in which he went up to the fourth round.

The singles of the city tournament are dragging along with hardly any interest at all. Not a single third round match has been played as yet and to reach the semi-finals by Saturday someone will have to do some tall hustling to get ready. George Bailhe and Clinton Burton wish to make it known that all third round matches must be played so they can make arrangements for the semi-finals at the Country club. The results of the play in the past few days are as follows: Stephens won from Mont, 6-0, 6-2; Mulholland defeated Frank, 6-3, 6-3. The rest of the second round matches that have not been reported to the committee as yet follow:

Dochterman vs. G. Gawhen, winner of which plays Burton; J. Berghoff vs. Parry, winner of which plays Stephens; O'Rourke vs. W. Berghoff, winner of which plays Mulholland. In the other third round contest Dr. Miles F. Porter, jr., the present city champion, meets George Bailhe.

The doubles results are as follows: Bailhe-O'Rourke won from Gawehn-Gawehn 6-3, 6-3; Carver-Lanche won from Fern-Schulte, 6-4, 2-6 and 7-5; Popp-Plogsterth won from Fischer-Stephens, 4-6, 6-4 and 6-3; Bailhe-O'Rourke won from Ortlieb-Skeer 6-3, 6-2; Porter-Parry won from Leucke-Kruse, 6-2 and 6-3; Burton-Mulholland won from Carver-Lansche 6-2, 6-1.

WEST ENDS TO MEET.

The West End football club will hold an important meeting Friday night in the Noll building. All members are requested to report at 7:30 p. m.

One Minute Talks with Ballplayers

LARRY CHENEY, BROOKLYN NATIONALS.

"I pitched my first curve ball in the National league during our last trip to Pittsburg. I have never had a curve, and every player and manager in the majors knows it.

"I have always depended on my fast one—my spitter—and using my head, but I have lately been working with a curve and think I will fool a lot of the wise boys.

"I took a chance in the fifth inning against Pittsburg when Bob Harmon was up with two out and we were four runs to the good. I offered Bob as nice a curve as you ever saw. He came near making a hit off me but McCarty made a great play and retired him. I'll try the experiment again."

"RED" FABER, CHICAGO WHITE SOX.

"Baseball would have been played generally in France this summer had it not been for the war. When the White Sox and Giants toured the world we found the citizens of Paris quite enthusiastic over the game.

"I wouldn't be surprised to see France adopt baseball as the national game at the close of hostilities. Look at the manner in which they took to boxing and the short time in which they produced good fighters of their own.

"Canadian soldiers have been playing baseball during their spare time at the front and in several games they have opposed teams made up of French soldiers."

Eight Macedonians Strike When Car is Moved From Local Yards.

Because the company refused to grant their request to either have their bunk car removed down town or to put a watchman in it to prevent raids by hobos while the men were out of it, eight Macedonian section hands quit work on the Nickel Plate last night and are now seeking employment elsewhere. The strikers comprised the working force on section 72, which has its eastern terminus just west of the local yards. For some time their car was stationed on a siding near the knitting mills, but when the company commenced exchanging engines on its passenger trains at that point instead of down at the depot, the car was in the way and was moved down to a point near the G. R. & I. road. The men objected to the move at that time, but continued to work until last night, when they discovered a thief in the car at 5:30, in time to prevent a robbery. Then they told Foreman E. Duddleson that the car must be moved down town or a watchman provided and when he informed them that each proposition was impossible, they told him they would quit work and they did not show up this morning. Mr. Duddleson has been looking about for other men, but up to noon today had succeeded in getting only one.

All the men on the other sections are at work as usual and it is believed the places vacated by the Macedonians will soon be filled.

Federation of Labor Will Co-operate to Secure Students.

The members of the Federation of Labor in their meeting last night strongly endorsed the work of the vocational school, and instructed the delegates to co-operate in the work of securing students. The meeting was addressed by W. E. Gordon, the head of the vocational school in this city. Cards and printed matter were distributed explaining the courses and training offered at the school.

As was expected, the central body voted to demand a public hearing on the proposal to reduce the lighting rate from seven to six cents, the hearing to be given before the 15th of September.

F. E. Phelps was appointed chairman of the visiting committee, taking the place of F. J. Schwanz, who asked to be relieved because of the fact that he will be out of the city a large part of the time. J. J. Perry was also chosen a member of this committee. The central body voted to accept an invitation from Rev. D. H. Guild, pastor of the First Methodist church, to attend service on Sunday, September 3, when a special sermon appropriate for Labor day will be delivered.

For the first time in many years, Fort Wayne is to be entirely without a celebration of any kind on Labor day. This was decided last night when the Federation of Labor, at their meeting, voted to abandon the picnic and outing that had been planned for Centlivre park next Monday. The ruling of the board of health that no children are to be allowed to congregate is the reason for abandoning the celebration, as the federation feels that without the children, the outing would not be a success. Since the parade feature had already been given up, the prospect is that Fort Wayne is to have a Labor day without any celebration of any kind.

BOY BANDIT PLEADS GUILTY AT SEYMOUR

Seymour, Ind., Aug. 29.—Herschel Phillips, 17-year-old Medora bank bandit, pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill, as a result of his shooting and wounding Miss Mera Hunsucker, assistant cashier of the Medora State bank, who was in charge alone when Phillips attempted a holdup Friday. Bluford Phillips, elder brother of the bandit, held as an accessory, pleaded not guilty, and his case was continued until Friday. The young men were brought here for arraignment from New Albany, where they were held two days to avoid possible violence in Jackson county.

The Phillips brothers arrived here at 2 o'clock in charge of Sheriff Van Robertson and Deputy Ed Snyder of Jackson county. They were arraigned immediately before C. L. D. Wilson, justice of the peace, this city also being in Jackson county.

Bluford Phillips later was taken to jail at Brownstown, the county seat, while Herschel was taken to Columbus to be held for some time. Sheriff Robertson said he did not care to invite violence by taking the young bandit back to Brownstown, and also desired to have the brothers in separate jails. He is convinced that the elder brother had a part in planning the holdup.

RUMANIA SETS OUT REASONS

Bucharest, Aug. 28.—(Via Petrograd and London, Aug. 29.—7:19 a. m.)—The causes which led Rumania to declare war on Austria-Hungary are set forth in a note presented to Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian minister to Rumania, after a meeting of the Rumanian crown council, which it was decided to declare. Summarized, the reasons given are:

The triple alliance, to which Rumania was a party, was broken when Italy declared war against Austria.

Austria-Hungary threatened the interests and national aspirations of Rumania.

Austria-Hungary's assurances that it was not inspired by a spirit of conquest or territorial gains, in attacking Serbia, have not been fulfilled.

Regarding the Triple Alliance.

The note, after defining the purpose of the triple alliance, as constituted prior to the war and after declaring that this alliance no longer existed, after Italy declared war upon Austria-Hungary, read as follows:

"Rumania remained in the peace group of states, seeking to work in agreement in order to assure peace and to conserve the situation de facto and dejure created by treaties. Rumania then found herself in the presence of powers making war for the sole purpose of transforming from top to bottom the old arrangements which had served as a basis for their treaty of alliance. These changes were for Rumania proof that the object she pursued in joining the triple alliance no longer could be attained and that she must direct her efforts in new paths, especially as the work undertaken by Austria-Hungary threatened the interests of Rumania and her national aspirations.

"The neutrality which Rumania imposed upon itself in consequence of a declaration of war made independently of its will, and contrary to its interests, had been adopted as the results of assurances that Austria-Hungary, in declaring war against Serbia, was not inspired by a spirit of conquest or of territorial gains. These assurances have not been realized.

Grave Menace Seen.

"Today we are confronted by a situation de facto threatening great territorial transformations and political changes of a nature constituting a grave menace to the future of Rumania. The work of peace which Rumania attempted to accomplish in a spirit of faithfulness to the triple alliance, thus was rendered barren by the very powers called upon to defend it.

"In adhering, in 1883, to the group of central powers, Rumania was far from forgetting the bonds of blood constituting between them a pledge for her domestic transquility, as well as for the improvement of the lot of the Rumanians of Austria-Hungary. In fact, Germany and Italy, who re-constituted their states on the basic principle of nationality, could not but recognize the legitimacy of the foundation upon which their own existence reposed.

"As for Austria-Hungary, she found in the friendly relations established between her and Rumania, assurance of tranquility both in her interior and on our common frontiers, for she was bound to know to what extent the discontent of her Rumanian population found echo amongst us, threatening our good relations.

"For a period of thirty years, the Rumanians of Austria-Hungary not only never saw a reform introduced, but instead, were treated as an inferior race and condemned to suffer the oppression of a foreign element which constitutes only a minority amidst the diverse nationalities constituting the Austro-Hungarian states.

"All the injustices our brothers thus were made to suffer maintained between our country and the monarchy a continual state of animosity. At the outbreak of the war, Austria-Hungary made no effort to ameliorate these conditions. After two years of war, Austria-Hungary showed herself as prompt to sacrifice her peoples, as powerless to defend them. The war in which almost the whole of Europe is partaking, raises the gravest problems affecting the national development and very existence of the states.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—The people of Berlin received with remarkable calmness and resignation the announcement of Rumania's declaration of war against Austria-Hungary and the German government's step in recalling its minister to Bucharest and declaring that a state of war exists between the two countries. The situation was discussed tonight in all the cafes with the feeling that one more or less makes no difference. The announcement in the German official report that Rumanians had been taken prisoner was greeted with general satisfaction, some of the evening papers pointing out that the central powers were not sleeping, as the public might have thought.

Meanwhile Berlin has a little Rumanian mystery of its own. Thus far it has been impossible to locate Dr. Belgiman, the Rumanian minister. It was stated yesterday that he was at his home in a watering place, but inquiries showed that he was not there and had not been there. At the Rumanian legation tonight it was stated that the minister would be in evidence tomorrow morning. Since early morning the Rumanian consulate and legation have been besieged by Rumanian residents of Berlin to whom the declaration of war came like a bomb out of blue sky, no warning of any sort having reached them. Rumanians crowding the legation spoke bitterly of their government for thus leaving them in the dark, but realized this was done to conceal the intentions of the Rumanian government. Some of them said they were certain unusual pressure was brought to bear upon King Ferdinand at the meeting of the Rumanian crown council, which decided upon a declaration of war, and they were sure that otherwise he would not have attached his signature to the necessary documents. The German press generally seems to share in this belief.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—While Charles Burns, an electrician, was working in a large transformer box 13,200 volts of electricity were suddenly switched on and before horrified fellow workers could turn off the current he was literally torn and roadster to death.

The fatality occurred in the new munitions factory of the Baldwin Locomotive works at Eighteenth and Hamilton streets. Burns, an employe of the Philadelphia Electric company, was aiding in the installation of electrical equipment.

According to employes who witnessed the accident the current had been switched off so that Burns could adjust the brushes in the rotary transformer box in the basement of the plant. He had been working in the box but a few moments when some one turned a switch and the death-dealing voltage shot through him.

His clothes were burned off and his body burned black. A hole was torn in his left jaw, his chest torn open and his body almost seared in two at the waist.

For probably three minutes doctors at the Garretson hospital said, the current coursed through him. When it was turned off he hung lifeless on the electric brushes.

When the hospital doctors reached the scene the body was still in the box, and they assisted in removing it.

At the office of the Philadelphia Electric company it was asserted that Burns had met death in a "bus structure," and not a transformer, and that it was not part of his duties to approach the structure.

Burns was 20 years old and lived at 2050 East Bellmore avenue.

IMPOSING ARRAY OF WARCRAFT ON THE JOB

Washington, Aug. 29.—During the naval war game last week there were 28 battleships, eight cruisers, 22 destroyers, a scout cruiser, 13 submarines, four submarine tenders and six auxiliary naval vessels in active commission on the Atlantic coast. Three other battleships, the Nebraska, Oregon and North Dakota, also were fit for active service, the Nebraska being on duty at Vera Cruz, the Oregon at San Francisco, and the North Dakota at the Philadelphia yard. All these ships now are in a state of "material readiness for war," according to Admiral Benson, chief of operations.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS ALL TO OPEN AT SAME TIME

All public schools, including the Fort Wayne high and manual training school, will open on October 1, according to the ruling of the school board, which met in regular session Monday afternoon, in the office of Superintendent Justin N. Study. A few days ago when the ruling was made by the board of health, it was thought that the high school would open for junior and senior classes, but the board was of the opinion that too much confusion would result from this method.

MAKES PLEA FOR STATES

WISCONSIN TAX EXPERT IS HEARD

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 29.—A plea that the right to raise revenue by means of the inheritance tax be permitted to remain with the states and not be usurped by the federal government was voiced at today's session of the tenth national conference on taxation by Nils P. Haughen, chairman of the Wisconsin tax commission.

He urged the members of the conference to get in communication with their United States senators and "call their attention to the objectionable features" connected with the inheritance tax bill now pending before the finance committee of the United States senate.

Says States Need It.

Mr. Haugen contended that nearly all of the states had adopted inheritance tax methods, that the states need the revenue more than the federal government and that the administration of the inheritance tax, which he said was particularly burdensome on the taxpayers, fits well in to our state governmental machinery, while it does not adapt itself to federal laws. He declared there was no pressing need why the federal government should resort to this method of taxation.

The report of the committee on federal income tax as read by Alfred E. Holcomb, of New York, treasurer of the national association, suggests that the members of the association as such, leave the advocacy of plans to secure greater uniformity and equity in tax laws before legislative bodies, to organizations of tax payers and business men.

Round Table Discussion.

The morning session of the conference was given over to a round table discussion of "tax laws and administration," which was presided over by John B. Phillips, chairman of the Colorado tax commission. The program given this afternoon was originally planned for tonight, but was advanced to make room for a banquet and entertainment arranged for the members.

Other speeches on the program today included the presidential address of Samuel T. Howe, president of the association and chairman of the Kansas tax commission, and an address by Dr. Adam Short, member of the civil service commission of Canada, who spoke on "Some Aspects of Canadian War Finance."

PICNIC OF REALTY BOARD IS POSTPONED

Fear of Infantile Paralysis Contagion Causes Action to Be Taken.

Members of Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange, who with their wives and children, were to have held a picnic Labor day, September 4, at a Fort Wayne park, have postponed the event in accordance with an order of the board of health, advising against any risks with small children at public gatherings where infantile paralysis contagion might exist.

Preliminary announcement of the picnic had been made and a full program was to have been announced soon. Members of the Real Estate exchange declared they desire to comply with all orders which are designed to check infantile paralysis. Many members of the exchange have children who would have attended the picnic.

FOOD INSPECTOR IN SOLDIERS' KITCHEN

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 29.—In each kitchen of the Massachusetts camp an officer will be stationed daily hereafter to inspect food, both during and after cooking, and to make note of any complaints of militiamen of the fare. This order was issued today by Gen. LeRoy Sweetser, commanding the Massachusetts brigade, and is an army innovation that rather startled some of the regiments. But the general, on the theory that a well fed army is a contented one, has decided that a company officer must be on duty in every kitchen during the mess hours.

A number of new Carranza troops arrived in Juarez today, but it was said at the American military headquarters that these were doubtless concentrating in readiness for the withdrawal of the Pershing expedition.

Farmers throughout Allen county state that the grape crop will be a fairly good one this fall. The vines are well filled and the bunches are large. A few of the early grapes were on market Tuesday morning. Tomatoes, which are said to be scarce, remained at $1.60 a bushel, with a slight indication that the price might go lower in a few days.

With the markets on the large trading centers getting weaker and falling off as much as 8c, it is very likely that local wheat prices will start on the decline in a day or so. Local dealers kept their prices at $1.43 and $1.45 per bushel. The other grain markets held steady and no change in prices was quoted.

The live stock market is also holding very steady but buyers are unable to predict which way the market is going. Locally top hogs are still being bought at $10.25 per hundredweight.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Corn reflected the wheat strength. After opening ¼c to ¾c lower, the market rose to well above yesterday's level.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 29.—Heaviness ruled at the opening of today's market, the acute railway labor situation contributing largely to that condition. Reading and Union Pacific lost a point or more with equal or greated celines in Studebaker, Crucible, Marine common and American Can, while Tennessee Copper yielded over two points. Metals were more steady but minor industrials, including Colorado Fuel, Republic and Lackawanna Steels and Mexicans lost substantial fractions. Among the few offsetting features were "pool" preferred, which rose over four points, and Pacific Mail, which gained almost two.

Selling became almost precipitate later. Marine proving the only noteworthy exception on its advance of 1¾ points. Declines were accelerated by the vague character of the news from Washington which found further reflection in the heaviness of rails and other high grade issues. Among the weakest specialties was Studebaker, which broke over four points on extensive offerings in connection with reports of new financing by that company. Other motor stocks weakened in sympathy and munitions and equipments added to early losses. Pressure relaxed somewhat before midday with moderate rallies. Bonds were lower.

Boston, Aug. 29.—United States Circuit Judge Wm. L. Putnam today withdrew from the Boston & Maine railroad receivership proceedings because of a bill filed by counsel for minority stockholders, which, according to Judge Putnam, attacked the integrity of the court. Judge Putnam further ordered that the bill be sent to the office of the federal district attorney for investigation by the grand jury. James H. H. Hustis, president of the Boston & Maine, was appointed temporary receiver of the road.

TEXAS PUTS UP THE BARS.

Declares Quarantine Against World on Account of Child Plague.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 29.—The Texas health board has declared a quarantine against the world to arrest the spread of infantile paralysis. The resolution was adopted yesterday at a session of the board. Children under 16 years of age entering the state must show certificates of good health signed by authorized health officers at the border. The quarantine becomes effective at once.

FIRST MORTGAGES PROTECT BABY BONDS

Investors in Baby Bonds are assured of the soundness of this security by the fact that they are secured by first mortgages on local real estate, which is regarded as the most staple of all values. For this reason, Baby Bonds not only appeal to the usual purchasers of bonds but also to those who cannot afford to speculate in making an investment. Baby Bonds are in $10 denominations and pay six per cent. interest. There are also a number of larger bonds of the same issue which come in $500 denominations with the same security and the same rate of interest. Full details regarding either may be secured from the Wildwood Sales company, Shoaff building.—Advertisement.

DIDN'T LIKE NEW BUNK CAR LOCATION

Eight Macedonians Strike When Car is Moved From Local Yards.

Because the company refused to grant their request to either have their bunk car removed down town or to put a watchman in it to prevent raids by hobos while the men were out of it, eight Macedonian section hands quit work on the Nickel Plate last night and are now seeking employment elsewhere. The strikers comprised the working force on section 72, which has its eastern terminus just west of the local yards. For some time their car was stationed on a siding near the knitting mills, but when the company commenced exchanging engines on its passenger trains at that point instead of down at the depot, the car was in the way and was moved down to a point near the G. R. & I. road. The men objected to the move at that time, but continued to work until last night, when they discovered a thief in the car at 5:30, in time to prevent a robbery. Then they told Foreman E. Duddleson that the car must be moved down town or a watchman provided and when he informed them that each proposition was impossible, they told him they would quit work and they did not show up this morning. Mr. Duddleson has been looking about for other men, but up to noon today had succeeded in getting only one.

All the men on the other sections are at work as usual and it is believed the places vacated by the Macedonians will soon be filled.

Federation of Labor Will Co-operate to Secure Students.

The members of the Federation of Labor in their meeting last night strongly endorsed the work of the vocational school, and instructed the delegates to co-operate in the work of securing students. The meeting was addressed by W. E. Gordon, the head of the vocational school in this city. Cards and printed matter were distributed explaining the courses and training offered at the school.

As was expected, the central body voted to demand a public hearing on the proposal to reduce the lighting rate from seven to six cents, the hearing to be given before the 15th of September.

F. E. Phelps was appointed chairman of the visiting committee, taking the place of F. J. Schwanz, who asked to be relieved because of the fact that he will be out of the city a large part of the time. J. J. Perry was also chosen a member of this committee. The central body voted to accept an invitation from Rev. D. H. Guild, pastor of the First Methodist church, to attend service on Sunday, September 3, when a special sermon appropriate for Labor day will be delivered.

For the first time in many years, Fort Wayne is to be entirely without a celebration of any kind on Labor day. This was decided last night when the Federation of Labor, at their meeting, voted to abandon the picnic and outing that had been planned for Centlivre park next Monday. The ruling of the board of health that no children are to be allowed to congregate is the reason for abandoning the celebration, as the federation feels that without the children, the outing would not be a success. Since the parade feature had already been given up, the prospect is that Fort Wayne is to have a Labor day without any celebration of any kind.

Mr. Rehling was a veteran blacksmith, having started work for the Pennsylvania company in 1887, and with the exception of a few months when he worked at the B. & O. shops at Garrett, had been in the employ of the company continuously for the last twenty-nine years. He was forced to leave his forge about six months ago because of ill health.

These gatherings of the Bowser employes are held every month, and are also open to the general public.

BROTHERHOOD DELEGATES RETURN.

The Fort Wayne men who were members of the general committee of the brotherhoods in the negotiations for an eight hour day for steam railroad men in the train service, have returned home. Among them are Conductor W. H. Great, Engineer Roy Jones and Firemen H. W. C. Mackey, of the G. R. & I. and Engineer D. D. Miller, of the Pennsylvania. The western division of the Pennsylvania had no representative there, except Mr. Miller. The conductors were represented by Oliver Irwin, of the Erie and Ashtabula division, and the trainmen by Mr. Carrollton, a Panhandle man. "There is nothing new to give out," said one of the delegates, "more than has already appeared in the papers in the dispatches from Washington."

BOY BANDIT PLEADS GUILTY AT SEYMOUR

Seymour, Ind., Aug. 29.—Herschel Phillips, 17-year-old Medora bank bandit, pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill, as a result of his shooting and wounding Miss Mera Hunsucker, assistant cashier of the Medora State bank, who was in charge alone when Phillips attempted a holdup Friday. Bluford Phillips, elder brother of the bandit, held as an accessory, pleaded not guilty, and his case was continued until Friday. The young men were brought here for arraignment from New Albany, where they were held two days to avoid possible violence in Jackson county.

The Phillips brothers arrived here at 2 o'clock in charge of Sheriff Van Robertson and Deputy Ed Snyder of Jackson county. They were arraigned immediately before C. L. D. Wilson, justice of the peace, this city also being in Jackson county.

Bluford Phillips later was taken to jail at Brownstown, the county seat, while Herschel was taken to Columbus to be held for some time. Sheriff Robertson said he did not care to invite violence by taking the young bandit back to Brownstown, and also desired to have the brothers in separate jails. He is convinced that the elder brother had a part in planning the holdup.

RUMANIA SETS OUT REASONS

Bucharest, Aug. 28.—(Via Petrograd and London, Aug. 29.—7:19 a. m.)—The causes which led Rumania to declare war on Austria-Hungary are set forth in a note presented to Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian minister to Rumania, after a meeting of the Rumanian crown council, which it was decided to declare. Summarized, the reasons given are:

The triple alliance, to which Rumania was a party, was broken when Italy declared war against Austria.

Austria-Hungary threatened the interests and national aspirations of Rumania.

Austria-Hungary's assurances that it was not inspired by a spirit of conquest or territorial gains, in attacking Serbia, have not been fulfilled.

Regarding the Triple Alliance.

The note, after defining the purpose of the triple alliance, as constituted prior to the war and after declaring that this alliance no longer existed, after Italy declared war upon Austria-Hungary, read as follows:

"Rumania remained in the peace group of states, seeking to work in agreement in order to assure peace and to conserve the situation de facto and dejure created by treaties. Rumania then found herself in the presence of powers making war for the sole purpose of transforming from top to bottom the old arrangements which had served as a basis for their treaty of alliance. These changes were for Rumania proof that the object she pursued in joining the triple alliance no longer could be attained and that she must direct her efforts in new paths, especially as the work undertaken by Austria-Hungary threatened the interests of Rumania and her national aspirations.

"The neutrality which Rumania imposed upon itself in consequence of a declaration of war made independently of its will, and contrary to its interests, had been adopted as the results of assurances that Austria-Hungary, in declaring war against Serbia, was not inspired by a spirit of conquest or of territorial gains. These assurances have not been realized.

Grave Menace Seen.

"Today we are confronted by a situation de facto threatening great territorial transformations and political changes of a nature constituting a grave menace to the future of Rumania. The work of peace which Rumania attempted to accomplish in a spirit of faithfulness to the triple alliance, thus was rendered barren by the very powers called upon to defend it.

"In adhering, in 1883, to the group of central powers, Rumania was far from forgetting the bonds of blood constituting between them a pledge for her domestic tranquility, as well as for the improvement of the lot of the Rumanians of Austria-Hungary. In fact, Germany and Italy, who re-constituted their states on the basic principle of nationality, could not but recognize the legitimacy of the foundation upon which their own existence reposed.

"As for Austria-Hungary, she found in the friendly relations established between her and Rumania, assurance of tranquility both in her interior and on our common frontiers, for she was bound to know to what extent the discontent of her Rumanian population found echo amongst us, threatening our good relations.

"For a period of thirty years, the Rumanians of Austria-Hungary not only never saw a reform introduced, but instead, were treated as an inferior race and condemned to suffer the oppression of a foreign element which constitutes only a minority amidst the diverse nationalities constituting the Austro-Hungarian states.

"All the injustices our brothers thus were made to suffer maintained between our country and the monarchy a continual state of animosity. At the outbreak of the war, Austria-Hungary made no effort to ameliorate these conditions. After two years of war, Austria-Hungary showed herself as prompt to sacrifice her peoples, as powerless to defend them. The war in which almost the whole of Europe is partaking, raises the gravest problems affecting the national development and very existence of the states.

Berlin, Aug. 29.—The people of Berlin received with remarkable calmness and resignation the announcement of Rumania's declaration of war against Austria-Hungary and the German government's step in recalling its minister to Bucharest and declaring that a state of war exists between the two countries. The situation was discussed tonight in all the cafes with the feeling that one more or less makes no difference. The announcement in the German official report that Rumanians had been taken prisoner was greeted with general satisfaction, some of the evening papers pointing out that the central powers were not sleeping, as the public might have thought.

Meanwhile Berlin has a little Rumanian mystery of its own. Thus far it has been impossible to locate Dr. Belgiman, the Rumanian minister. It was stated yesterday that he was at his home in a watering place, but inquiries showed that he was not there and had not been there. At the Rumanian legation tonight it was stated that the minister would be in evidence tomorrow morning. Since early morning the Rumanian consulate and legation have been besieged by Rumanian residents of Berlin to whom the declaration of war came like a bomb out of blue sky, no warning of any sort having reached them. Rumanians crowding the legation spoke bitterly of their government for thus leaving them in the dark, but realized this was done to conceal the intentions of the Rumanian government. Some of them said they were certain unusual pressure was brought to bear upon King Ferdinand at the meeting of the Rumanian crown council, which decided upon a declaration of war, and they were sure that otherwise he would not have attached his signature to the necessary documents. The German press generally seems to share in this belief.

Philadelphia, Aug. 29.—While Charles Burns, an electrician, was working in a large transformer box 13,200 volts of electricity were suddenly switched on and before horrified fellow workers could turn off the current he was literally torn and roadster to death.

The fatality occurred in the new munitions factory of the Baldwin Locomotive works at Eighteenth and Hamilton streets. Burns, an employe of the Philadelphia Electric company, was aiding in the installation of electrical equipment.

According to employes who witnessed the accident the current had been switched off so that Burns could adjust the brushes in the rotary transformer box in the basement of the plant. He had been working in the box but a few moments when some one turned a switch and the death-dealing voltage shot through him.

His clothes were burned off and his body burned black. A hole was torn in his left jaw, his chest torn open and his body almost seared in two at the waist.

For probably three minutes doctors at the Garretson hospital said, the current coursed through him. When it was turned off he hung lifeless on the electric brushes.

When the hospital doctors reached the scene the body was still in the box, and they assisted in removing it.

At the office of the Philadelphia Electric company it was asserted that Burns had met death in a "bus structure," and not a transformer, and that it was not part of his duties to approach the structure.

Burns was 20 years old and lived at 2050 East Bellmore avenue.

IMPOSING ARRAY OF WARCRAFT ON THE JOB

Washington, Aug. 29.—During the naval war game last week there were 28 battleships, eight cruisers, 22 destroyers, a scout cruiser, 13 submarines, four submarine tenders and six auxiliary naval vessels in active commission on the Atlantic coast. Three other battleships, the Nebraska, Oregon and North Dakota, also were fit for active service, the Nebraska being on duty at Vera Cruz, the Oregon at San Francisco, and the North Dakota at the Philadelphia yard. All these ships now are in a state of "material readiness for war," according to Admiral Benson, chief of operations.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS ALL TO OPEN AT SAME TIME

All public schools, including the Fort Wayne high and manual training school, will open on October 1, according to the ruling of the school board, which met in regular session Monday afternoon, in the office of Superintendent Justin N. Study. A few days ago when the ruling was made by the board of health, it was thought that the high school would open for junior and senior classes, but the board was of the opinion that too much confusion would result from this method.

MAKES PLEA FOR STATES

WISCONSIN TAX EXPERT IS HEARD

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 29.—A plea that the right to raise revenue by means of the inheritance tax be permitted to remain with the states and not be usurped by the federal government was voiced at today's session of the tenth national conference on taxation by Nils P. Haughen, chairman of the Wisconsin tax commission.

He urged the members of the conference to get in communication with their United States senators and "call their attention to the objectionable features" connected with the inheritance tax bill now pending before the finance committee of the United States senate.

Says States Need It.

Mr. Haugen contended that nearly all of the states had adopted inheritance tax methods, that the states need the revenue more than the federal government and that the administration of the inheritance tax, which he said was particularly burdensome on the taxpayers, fits well in to our state governmental machinery, while it does not adapt itself to federal laws. He declared there was no pressing need why the federal government should resort to this method of taxation.

The report of the committee on federal income tax as read by Alfred E. Holcomb, of New York, treasurer of the national association, suggests that the members of the association as such, leave the advocacy of plans to secure greater uniformity and equity in tax laws before legislative bodies, to organizations of tax payers and business men.

Round Table Discussion.

The morning session of the conference was given over to a round table discussion of "tax laws and administration," which was presided over by John B. Phillips, chairman of the Colorado tax commission. The program given this afternoon was originally planned for tonight, but was advanced to make room for a banquet and entertainment arranged for the members.

Other speeches on the program today included the presidential address of Samuel T. Howe, president of the association and chairman of the Kansas tax commission, and an address by Dr. Adam Short, member of the civil service commission of Canada, who spoke on "Some Aspects of Canadian War Finance."

PICNIC OF REALTY BOARD IS POSTPONED

Members of Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange, who with their wives and children, were to have held a picnic Labor day, September 4, at a Fort Wayne park, have postponed the event in accordance with an order of the board of health, advising against any risks with small children at public gatherings where infantile paralysis contagion might exist.

Preliminary announcement of the picnic had been made and a full program was to have been announced soon. Members of the Real Estate exchange declared they desire to comply with all orders which are designed to check infantile paralysis. Many members of the exchange have children who would have attended the picnic.

FOOD INSPECTOR IN SOLDIERS' KITCHEN

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 29.—In each kitchen of the Massachusetts camp an officer will be stationed daily hereafter to inspect food, both during and after cooking, and to make note of any complaints of militiamen of the fare. This order was issued today by Gen. LeRoy Sweetser, commanding the Massachusetts brigade, and is an army innovation that rather startled some of the regiments. But the general, on the theory that a well fed army is a contented one, has decided that a company officer must be on duty in every kitchen during the mess hours.

A number of new Carranza troops arrived in Juarez today, but it was said at the American military headquarters that these were doubtless concentrating in readiness for the withdrawal of the Pershing expedition.

Farmers throughout Allen county state that the grape crop will be a fairly good one this fall. The vines are well filled and the bunches are large. A few of the early grapes were on market Tuesday morning. Tomatoes, which are said to be scarce, remained at $1.60 a bushel, with a slight indication that the price might go lower in a few days.

With the markets on the large trading centers getting weaker and falling off as much as 5c, it is very likely that local wheat prices will start on the decline in a day or so. Local dealers kept their prices at $1.43 and $1.45 per bushel. The other grain markets held steady and no change in prices was quoted.

The live stock market is also holding very steady but buyers are unable to predict which way the market is going. Locally top hogs are still being bought at $10.25 per hundredweight.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Aug. 29.—Heaviness ruled at the opening of today's market, the acute railway labor situation contributing largely to that condition. Reading and Union Pacific lost a point or more with equal or greated ceilings in Studebaker, Crucible, Marine common and American Can, while Tennessee Copper yielded over two points. Metals were more steady but minor industrials, including Colorado Fuel, Republic and Lackawanna Steels and Mexicans lost substantial fractions. Among the few offsetting features were Cuba preferred, which rose over four points, and Pacific Mail, which gained almost two.

Selling became almost precipitate later. Marine proving the only noteworthy exception on its advance of 1⅝ points. Declines were accelerated by the vague character of the news from Washington which found further reflection in the heaviness of rails and other high grade issues. Among the weakest specialties was Studebaker, which broke over four points on extensive offerings in connection with reports of new financing by that company. Other motor stocks weakened in sympathy and munitions and equipments added to early losses. Pressure relaxed somewhat before midday with moderate rallies. Bonds were lower.

WOMEN FINED FOR ATTEMPTED HOLDUP

Farmer Lad Tells Police His Life Was Threatened With Knife.

A farmer youth, all out of breath and very pale, told a patrolman at the corner of Lafayette and Holman streets Monday night, that a colored woman had threatened to cut his heart out if he did not give her money. The lad described the two women whom he said had stopped him on the street.

May Dunn, 25, colored, and Bernice White, 30, also colored, were arrested. The Dunn woman had a big jack-knife in her belt. The women told in police court, Tuesday morning, that they were from Detroit. May Dunn was fined $35 and costs and Mrs. White, $25 and costs. Mrs. White paid her fine but her companion went to jail.

Defer Redmerski's Hearing.

Joe Redmerski, forger, who escaped from the county jail three weeks ago, and who was captured in Cleveland, Sunday, will have a hearing in about a week, Judge Kerr decided Tuesday morning. Arrival of officers from Jeffersonville reformatory is awaited.

Redmerski refuses to give any clue as to the whereabouts of William Schidler, the youth who broke from both the county and city jails. Redmerski said a door was open on the east side of the police station and sheltered the two men from the view of two officers, who stood near at hand, when Redmerski and his partner wormed through the little cellar window and creeped along the side of the police station at midnight three weeks ago. Redmerski, who is now wearing a gray suit, said he sold his blue suit for $4 in order to change his disguise.

Continue Trespass Case.

Louis Jocquez refused to allow burlesque show bills pasted in the window of his store room on North Calhoun street and later he found the interior of his store streaked with green paint, he told in court. As Herman Selman, billposter for the Majestic theatre, had asked to put bills in the window, he was arrested on suspicion of being the person who damaged the store room.

Selman said he did not enter the store. Sergeant Detective Junk is said to know more of the case and will be called to testify, Wednesday morning.

Other Police Cases.

Minnie Cannon, colored, will be tried Thursday, on an intoxication charge. She was arrested late Monday night.

Christ Richard, who has not been drunk "since the last administration," before Monday night, he says, was released after pleading guilty to an intoxication charge. John Walsh will be tried Thursday on a similar charge.

Plans for New Building Will Be Submitted at That Time.

The executive board of the Hope hospital will meet in regular session on Friday evening, September 8, at which time the architect who has been engaged for the past few weeks on the drawing of plans for the new hospital to be located on South Clinton street will present them to the board. Alterations and changes in the plans and specifications will be discussed at this time.

From various sources it is understood that on offer will be made to the board in regards to the selling of the old building and the property on which it is now located. It is said that a fraternal order is considering purchasing the property. However, nothing definite can be ascertained.

Presumably the old building is to be torn away and a large modern five story building will take its place.

As soon as the plans for the new building are approved and accepted by the board, work will begin on the new building. All preliminary work is to be finished by next spring and work on the new building will be started. However, the committee is anxious to dispose of the old property before the new one is started.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Sig W. Kann, of Ligonier, democratic candidate for state statistician, was in Fort Wayne Monday. He called on party workers. He has visited 27 counties. Mr. Kann declares he found the German sentiment molding strong with Wilson throughout the state. Mr. Kann will make every county in the district twice, he says. The candidate said the voters knew Root would be secretary-of-state and Roosevelt secretary-of-war if Hughes was elected.

"Silks Not Alarmingly Increased; Fall Silks Coming at Comparatively Low Prices," Says Mr. H. Clauser, Buyer for Grand Leader.

The war has hit the silk market, of course, just the same as it has every other commodity, but it has not sent prices sky-high, as some buyers would make the public believe," said Mr. H. Clauser, in conversation with a Sentinel reporter today. "While today's market quotations on silks are higher than the silks could be bought for a year ago, yet we were fortunate in placing our orders six and eight months ago at practically the old prices and we are in a position to sell these goods today at a very slight advance.

"I recently noticed an article in a local paper to the effect that silks have increased from 30 to 50 per cent. The fact of the matter is, I just returned from the New York market, having spent a week there in the interests of my departments, and did not find a single instance where silks were increased 50 per cent, and I am at a loss to know why such an erroneous statement would be made. The public need not be alarmed about the prices as things are not as bad as they are painted."

This is a somewhat different story than the article published in a local paper a few days ago in which the views of several local silk buyers were quoted and in which they stated that silks are coming in at an increase of 30 to 50 per cent.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Chicago railroad officials began verifying early in the afternoon yesterday the report emanating from labor circles that the general chairmen of the four brotherhoods had left Washington with the orders in their pockets to call a strike at 7 o'clock next Monday morning, if a settlement had not been reached with the managers in the meantime.

The Erie railroad was the first to begin notifying Chicago shippers of the possibilities ahead as a result of the action, producing a telegram from President Underwood to the general manager.

Flash Prepare Message.

"The date for the strike has been set for 7 o'clock in the morning, Sept. 4," read the message that was flashed all over Chicago. "The general chairmen have left Washington with instructions to call the strike. A committee of twelve was left along with the grand officers. If no agreement is reached before Moiday they will call the negotiations off."

Railroad representatives have as yet developed nothing more substantial for operating trains in case of a strike than general plans, it was admitted on all sides yesterday.

Denies Union of Effort.

"It is untrue that the railroads have joined together in one big move to operate under an agreement," H. E. Bryam, vice president of the Burlington, said last night in denying reports of wholesale hiring of men to break a probable strike.

"We are all working on our own plans as far as plans have been made. We intend to try to operate our trains and we believe that enough of our men will be loyal to do this. In fact, we are counting on a large part of our men sticking with us."

"How long would it take to break the strike?"

"That is hard to estimate. No one can guess. The unions are strong, but there are too many other conditions that enter to make any guesses."

"I am still hoping that peace will be preserved in some way," R. W. Nicol, local representative of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said, at the same time insisting that only the men in Washington were in a position to talk authoritatively. "Our organization has an excellent record as a peaceful organization. Bnut the men want the eight hour day and they are entitled to it."

Business Men Keep Up Fight.

Chicago busines sinterests continued their fight for the establishment of the arbitration principle in settlement of the rilroad controversy, with the lumbermen's association of Chicago joining the ranks with a telegram to President Wilson. The Illinois Manufacturers' association, at the same time, made public the program adopted for today's meeting at the LaSalle hotel, where manufacturing and industrial representatives will frame a protest against throwing overboard arbitration to be carried directly to Washington.

The lumbermen's association plea to the president, signed by President Herman H. Hettler, sent yesterday, follows:

"We sincerely hope that owing to the critical conditions as applies to the railroad stuation, you will truly represent the people as a whole, insisting upon a thorough investigation of all the subjects at interest and the settlement of the controversy on the basis of arbitration."
